Poetics of the Iconotext Professor Liliane Louvel, 2013-05-28 Poetics of the Iconotext makes available for the first time in English the theories of the respected French text image specialist Professor Liliane Louvel A consolidation of the most significant theoretical materials of Louvel's two acclaimed books L'Oeil du Texte Texte et image dans la littérature anglophone and Texte Image Images lire textes voir this newly conceived work introduces English readers to the most current thinking in French text image theory and visual studies Focusing on the full spectrum of text image relations from medieval illuminated manuscripts to digital books Louvel begins by introducing key terms and situating her work in the context of significant debates in text image studies Part II introduces Louvel's typology of pictorial saturation through which she establishes a continuum along which to measure the effect of the most figurative to the most literal images upon writerly and readerly textual spaces Part III adopts a phenomenological approach towards the reading/viewing experience as expressed in conceptual categories that include the trace focal range synesthesia and rhythm and speed The result is a provocative interplay of the categorical and the subjective that invites readers to think at once more precisely and more inventively about texts images and the intersections between the two The Sublime Harold Bloom, Blake Hobby, 2010

The sublime in literature is described as the sense of awe that is evoked in the presence of great power and grandeur in nature or in art In this engaging new volume the role of the sublime is discussed in Emma Ode to the West Wind Song of Myself and many other works Featuring original essays and excerpts from previously published critical analyses each book in the new Bloom's Literary Themes series gives students valuable insight into the title's subject theme Hart Crane's Poetry

John T. Irwin, 2011-12-15 Honorable Mention Literature 2012 PROSE Awards Professional and Scholarly Publishing Division of the Association of American Publishers 2012 Outstanding Academic Title Choice Magazine In one of his letters Hart Crane wrote Appollinaire lived in Paris I live in Cleveland Ohio comparing misspelling and all the great French poet's cosmopolitan roots to his own more modest ones in the midwestern United States Rebellious against the notion that his work should relate to some European school of thought Crane defiantly asserted his freedom to be himself a true American writer John T Irwin long a passionate and brilliant critic of Crane gives readers the first major interpretation of the poet's work in decades Irwin

aims to show that Hart Crane's epic The Bridge is the best twentieth century long poem in English. Irwin convincingly argues that compared to other long poems of the century The Bridge is the richest and most wide ranging in its mythic and historical resonances, the most inventive in its combination of literary and visual structures, the most subtle and compelling in its psychological underpinnings. Irwin brings a wealth of new and varied scholarship to bear on his critical reading of the work, from art history to biography to classical literature to philosophy, revealing The Bridge to be the near perfect synthesis of American myth and history that Crane intended. Irwin contends that the most successful entryway to Crane's notoriously difficult shorter poems is through a close reading of The Bridge. Having admirably accomplished this, Irwin analyzes Crane's poems in White Buildings and his last poem The Broken Tower through the larger context of his epic, showing how Crane in the best of these worked out the structures and images that were fully developed in The Bridge. Thoughtful, deliberate, and extraordinarily learned, this is the most complete and careful reading of Crane's poetry available. Hart Crane may have lived in Cleveland, Ohio, but as Irwin masterfully shows, his poems stand among the greatest written in the English language.
