Healing Self-Injury Janis Whitlock, Elizabeth E. Lloyd-Richardson, 2019-01-03 Subtle scars disappearing up a shirt sleeve unexplained bruises burn marks As many as one out of every four young people engage in non suicidal self injury defined as the deliberate destruction of body tissue without suicidal intent Parents who uncover this alarming behavior are gripped by uncertainty and flooded with questions why is my child doing this Is this a suicide attempt What did I do wrong What can I do to stop it And yet basic educational resources for parents with self injuring children are sorely lacking Healing Self Injury provides desperately needed guidance to parents and others who love a young person struggling with self injury First and foremost adolescent psychologists Janis Whitlock and Elizabeth Lloyd Richardson believe that parents must appreciate how important their role is in their child s recovery there is a lot that parents can do to support their self injuring children This book offers strategies for identifying and alleviating sources of distress in children s lives improving family communication particularly around emotions and seeking professional help Importantly it also provides compassionate advice to parents with personal challenges of their own explaining how these can impact the entire family The book will help parents partner with their children to identify build and use skills that will assist them in recovering from self injury Vivid anecdotes drawn from the authors extensive in depth interviews with real families in recovery from self injury put a human face on what for many families is a distressing and often isolating experience Healing Self Injury is a must have for parents who want to assist in their child s recovery as well as for anyone who lives with works with or cares about self injuring youth and their families

Lyon's Medical Jurisprudence for India Isidore Bernadotte Lyon, 1921 Shadows on the Track Jan McLeod, 2019-01-05 At Templeton s Crossing in October 1942 Private Nick Kennedy paused to write in his diary One wonders why all this strife should be these men in the prime of their life cut down like flowers As a young nursing orderly serving with the 2 4th Australian Field Ambulance Kennedy was unenviably well placed to reflect on the futility of war The Australian Army was woefully unprepared to fight a medical war in Papua and the soldiers paid the price Almost 30 000 soldiers suffered from illness and tropical diseases and an estimated 6000 were killed or wounded during the six month campaign

These statistics have traditionally been represented as unavoidable consequences of fighting a war in a place such as Papua. This book disputes that narrative. Death and disease were inevitable outcomes but the scale of the suffering was not. The medical challenges presented in Papua were extreme; they were not insurmountable. Shadows on the Track considers a wide range of issues that impacted on the health of the Australian soldiers before, during and after the Papuan campaign was fought and won. The strengths, successes, shortcomings and failures of the medical campaign are identified, analysed and evaluated. The focus on the front line medical personnel, the men of the field ambulance units, brings a new perspective to the battles of the Kokoda Track, Milne Bay and the Beachheads. Shining a light on these Australians who tended the sick, mended the wounded and buried the dead in Papua makes stepping out of the shadows a little easier.
