Nan The Life Of An Irish Travelling Woman:

Nan Sharon Bohn Gmelch, 1991-05-01 Margaret Mead Award finalist Nan Donohoe was an Irish Travelling woman one of Ireland's indigenous gypsies or tinkers. Traditionally they traveled the countryside making and repairing tinware sweeping chimneys selling small household wares and doing odd job work. Over time they came to live on the roadside in trailers and in government built camps. Told largely in her own voice Nan's saga begins in 1919 with her birth in a tent in the Irish Midlands. It follows her life in Ireland and England in countryside and city slums through adversity and adventure. Gmelch brings to her task not only the resources of anthropology but the skill of a sensitive writer and a warmth that allows her to see Nan as a person not a subject. What emerges is a human story filled with cruelty and compassion sorrow and humor bad luck and good Irish Travellers Jane Leslie Helleiner, 2000-01-01 Helleiner's study documents anti Traveller racism in Ireland and explores the ongoing realities of Traveller life as well as the production and reproduction of contemporary Traveller collective identity and culture Irish Travellers Sharon Bohn Gmelch, George Gmelch, 2014-10-23 Anthropologists George and Sharon Gmelch have been studying the quasi nomadic people known as Travellers since their fieldwork in the early 1970s when they lived among Travellers and went on the road in their own horse drawn wagon. In 2011 they returned to seek out families they had known decades before shadowed by a film crew and taking with them hundreds of old photographs showing the Travellers' former way of life. Many of these images are included in this book alongside more recent photos and compelling personal narratives that reveal how Traveller lives have changed now that they have left nomadism behind.

Women and the Irish Diaspora Breda Gray, 2004-07-31 Based on original research with Irish women both at home and in England this book explores how questions of mobility and stasis are recast along gender class racial and generational lines.

Cities and Spaces Petra Y. Kuppinger, 2023-03-01 Global cities like New York City and Tokyo national capitals like Cairo and Dakar and regional centers like Bangalore and Barcelona are powerful economic political and cultural hubs. Cities and Spaces surveys the development transformation and role of cities in a globalized world while exploring the history methods classic texts and current discussions in urban anthropology. Chapters examine urban dwellers' lives work culture and experiences in different yet closely linked cities worldwide. This concise introductory treatment illustrates how anthropologists address a wide range of questions like: What does it mean to work in an informal market in Lom? How does gentrification affect a Mexican American neighborhood in Chicago? How do people experience urban environmental degradation and injustice? How do race and ethnicity shape the experiences of urbanites? How do immigrants create new urban religious communities? Anthropology and Migration Caroline B. Brettell, 2003-09-08 Brettell's new book provides new insight into the processes of migration and transnationalism from an anthropological perspective. It has been estimated at the turn of the millennium that 160 million people are living outside of their country of birth or citizenship. The author analyzes macro and micro approaches to migration theory utilizing her extensive fieldwork in Portugal as well as research in Germany Brazil France the United States and Canada Key issues she discusses include the value of immigrant incorporation vs assimilation models the impacts on individual household and community as well as institutions and states the role of ethnicity and ethnic groups the effects of clandestine or illegal immigration the differing commitments to host vs sending communities the shift from city enclaves to suburban areas the constraints and opportunities that lead to ethnic entrepreneurship the role of religion in transnational linkages and the differing experiences of men and women as migrants Brettell also explores the relevance of life histories and oral narratives in understanding the immigration process and the mediation of boundaries in a new society This book provides a fresh perspective on the contemporary experience of migration and will be indispensable to instructors and researchers in anthropology race and ethnic studies immigration studies urban studies sociology and international relations Parish behind God's Back George Gmelch, Sharon Bohm Gmelch, 2005-10-01

One of the first things any visitor to Barbados notices is Barbadian youths wearing baseball caps and T shirts sporting the logos of North American teams and these days one is more likely to find an American sitcom on television than a Caribbean program The Parish behind God's Back describes the social fabric and everyday life of one rural parish on the island St Lucy including its many links to the outside world It is a contemporary ethnography of the local that takes into account the enormous influence of global factors such as tourism television foreign travel and return migrants Written with students in mind the book contains several unique features Each chapter blends descriptions of Barbadian culture with comparisons to North America throughout the authors include tales of not only their own fieldwork experiences but those of their undergraduate students and personal narratives are emphasized to engage interest in individuals This highly readable and thought provoking account should appeal to general readers with an interest in the Caribbean as well as to students of anthropology George Gmelch is Professor and Chair Department of Anthropology Union College Sharon Bohn Gmelch is Professor of Anthropology and Director of Women's Studies Union College Esperanza Speaks Gloria Rudolf, 2021-04-07

Esperanza Speaks examines a century long process of socioeconomic change in rural Panama through the experiences of one woman Esperanza Ruiz and four generations of her family The intimate narrative shows how ordinary people through their choices and actions are affected by and in turn can affect how history unfolds Readers see Esperanza's family as both victims and protagonists in their own histories Born into rural poverty with limited options they still find small openings to try to improve their lives Sometimes successful sometimes not they survive by drawing on their only abundant resource each other Based on twenty field visits over the course of fifty years Esperanza Speaks is the result of a dedicated anthropologist's long term engagement with the individuals of a single community and a beautiful example of ethnographic storytelling The Field Day Anthology of Irish Writing Seamus Deane, Andrew Carpenter, Angela Bourke, Jonathan Williams, 1991

Anthropological Conversations Caroline B. Brettell, 2014-10-23 Cultural anthropologists can be an intellectually adventurous crowd open even eager to building bridges across disciplines in the name of understanding human behavior and the human experience more broadly In this first of its kind book Caroline Brettell explores the cross disciplinary conversations that have engaged cultural anthropologists both past and present Brettell highlights a handful of conversations between the discipline of anthropology on the one hand and history geography literature biology psychology and demography on the other She also pinpoints how these exchanges address three enduring issues of anthropological concern the temporal and the spatial dimensions of human experience the scientific and the humanistic dimensions of the anthropological enterprise and the individual and the group population as units of analysis in research Anthropological Conversations offers detailed accounts of particular ethnographic methodologies and findings and the theoretical trends informing them as a means of grasping the big picture issues Brettell clearly shows that by engaging with other fields cultural anthropologists have been able to think more deeply about what they mean by culture through this book she invites readers to continue the conversation

Principles of Historical Linguistics Hans Henrich Hock, 2021-10-25 Historical linguistic theory and practice consist of a large number of chronological layers that have been accepted in the course of time and have acquired a permanence of their own These range from neogrammarian conceptualizations of sound change analogy and borrowing to prosodic lexical morphological and syntactic change and to present day views on rule change and the effects of language contact To get a full grasp of the principles of historical linguistics it is therefore necessary to understand the nature of each of these layers This book is a major revision and reorganization of the earlier editions and adds entirely new chapters on morphological change and lexical change as well as a detailed discussion of linguistic palaeontology and ideological responses to the findings of historical linguistics to this landmark publication

The Anthropology of Ireland Hastings Donnan, Thomas M. Wilson, 2020-08-04 Where and what is Ireland What are the identities of the people of Ireland How has European Union membership shaped Irish people's lives and interests How global is local Ireland This book argues that such questions can be answered only by understanding everyday aspects of Irish culture and identity Such understanding is achieved by paying close attention to what people in Ireland themselves say about the radical changes in their lives in the context of wider global transformation As notions of sex religion and politics are radically reworked in an Ireland being reimagined in ways inconceivable just a generation ago anthropologists have been at the forefront of recording the results The first comprehensive book length introduction to anthropological research on the island as a whole The Anthropology of Ireland considers the changing place in a changing Ireland of religion sex sport race dance young people the Travellers St Patrick's Day and much more

Journal of Folklore Research, 1993 Urban Life

George Gmelch, Petra Kuppinger, 2018-01-03 More than half of the world's population lives in cities. What are their lives like in very different global and globalizing cities? How can urban anthropologists study and understand the diverse and complex experiences of urban dwellers all over the globe? The latest edition of Urban Life explores questions about how to study urban lives and examines experiences of urban inhabitants in cities across the globe. Authors ask questions such as: how can one study the activities in a huge fish market in Tokyo? How do elderly residents benefit from urban agriculture in New York City? How do people maneuver ever-present traffic jams in Istanbul? How do low-income residents in Cairo manage their lives drawing on neighborhood social networks? How do immigrants fight for green spaces in Paris? How do families manage transnational ties between New York City and Ecuador? The book is organized into six parts: Urban Fieldwork, Communities, Urban Structure, Inequality and Survival, Immigrants, Migrants and Refugees, Changing Cities, and Current Topics in Urban Anthropology. The last part addresses issues at the forefront of anthropological research and broader political debates like environmental justice, disability and accessibility, and access to water supplies. Each part includes an introduction and each chapter is preceded by notes about its context and relevance. The rich ethnographic content of the chapters makes them highly accessible to students while addressing relevant topics and themes. The "tinkers" in Irish Literature José Lanters, 2008 Irish travellers or tinkers have appeared as characters in Irish literature since the early nineteenth century. Representations of this semi-nomadic cultural and ethnic minority in works by non-traveller authors almost invariably function in some way within the context of Irish identity politics whereby the tinker often serves as a primitive Other to a modern civilized Irish Self. This study considers the tinker character in a large body of serious and popular literary texts, some well known, others rarely if ever discussed, and traces how the literary construct of the tinker figure as domestic or foreign Other evolves over time. Three chapters concentrate on specific historical contexts as the tinker shifts from being a relatively straightforward scapegoat in the literature of the early nineteenth century to being a more complex and ambiguous embodiment of both the aspirations and anxieties of the Anglo-Irish writers of the Revival to being a barometer of aspects of modernity and regression in the mid-twentieth century Irish Republic. Three further chapters focus on thematic contexts that have particular relevance for the development of the tinker figure: children's literature from and about Ireland; fabulist narratives, particularly those with plot configurations derived from Celtic mythology; and crime and detective fiction set in Ireland. Finally, the way in which individual travellers represent themselves in autobiographical narratives of the late twentieth century is considered often in response to the fictional tinker stereotype that has persisted in sedentary society and its cultural expressions for centuries. Magic, Witchcraft, and Ghosts in the Enlightenment Michael R.

Lynn, 2022-03-17 Magic, Witchcraft, and Ghosts in the Enlightenment argues for the centrality of magical practices and ideas throughout the long eighteenth century. Although the hunt for witches in Europe declined precipitously after 1650 and the intellectual justification for natural magic came under fire by 1700, belief in magic among the general population did not come to a sudden stop The philosophes continued to take aim at magical practices alongside religion as examples of superstitions that an enlightened age needed to put behind them In addition to a continuity of beliefs and practices the eighteenth century also saw improvement and innovation in magical ideas the understanding of ghosts and attitudes toward witchcraft The volume takes a broad geographical approach and includes essays focusing on Great Britain England and Ireland France Germany and Hungary It also takes a wide approach to the subject and includes essays on astrology alchemy witchcraft cunning folk ghosts treasure hunters and purveyors of magic With a broad chronological scope that ranges from the end of the seventeenth century to the early nineteenth century this volume is useful for undergraduates postgraduates scholars and those with a general interest in magic witchcraft and spirits in the Enlightenment Journal of Women's History ,1995
