Women Writing Race, Nation, and History Sonita Sarker, 2022-04-07 This book presents how Nation and Narrative are bound together through the figure of the N native as it appears in the non fictional writings of Cornelia Sorabji Grazia Deledda Zitk la %S Virginia Woolf Victoria Ocampo and Gwendolyn Bennett It addresses two questions How did women writers in the early twentieth century tackle the entangled roots of political and cultural citizenship from which crises of belonging arise How do their narrative negotiations of those crises inform modernist practice and modernity then and now The N native moves between born in and first in in the context of the modern nation state In the dominant discourses of post imperial as well as de colonizing nations Native is relegated to Time static or fetishized through nostalgia and romance History is envisioned as active and contoured associated with motion and progress which the native inhabits and for whom citizenship is a political as well as a temporal attribute The six authors identities as Native settler indigenous immigrant or native citizen are formed from their gendered racialized and classed locations in their respective nations Each author negotiates the intertwined strands of Time and History by mobilizing the N native to reclaim citizenship cultural political belonging This study reveals how their lineage connections to land experiences in learning education and their labor generate their narratives The juxtaposition of the six writers keeps in focus the asymmetries in their responses to their times and illustrates how relevant women s feminist production were and are in today s versions of the same urgent debates about heightened nativisms and nationalisms

Race, Nation, Class Étienne Balibar, Immanuel Wallerstein, 2020-05-05 Forty years after the defeat of Nazism and twenty years after the great wave of decolonization how is it that racism remains a growing phenomenon What are the special characteristics of contemporary racism How can it be related to class divisions and to the contradictions of the nation state And how far in turn does racism today compel us to rethink the relationship between class struggles and nationalism This book attempts to answer these fundamental questions through a remarkable dialogue between the French philosopher Etienne Balibar and the American historian and sociologist Immanuel Wallerstein Each brings to the debate the fruits of over two decades of analytical work greatly inspired respectively by Louis Althusser and Fernand Braudel Both authors challenge the commonly held notion of racism as a continuation of or throwback to the xenophobias of past societies and communities They analyze it instead as a social relation indissolubly tied to present social structures the nation state the division of labor and the division between core and periphery which are themselves constantly being reconstructed Despite their productive disagreements Balibar and Wallerstein both emphasize the modernity of racism and the need to understand its relation to contemporary capitalism and class struggle Above all their dialogue reveals the forms of present and future social conflict in a world where the crisis of the nation state is accompanied by an alarming rise of nationalism and chauvinism

Race, Nation, and Religion in the Americas Henry Goldschmidt, Elizabeth

McAlister,2004-08-12 This collection of all new essays will explore the complex and unstable articulations of race and religion that have helped to produce Black White Creole Indian Asian and other racialized identities and communities in the Americas Drawing on original research in a range of disciplines the authors will investigate 1 how the intertwined categories of race and religion have defined and been defined by global relations of power and inequality 2 how racial and religious identities shape the everyday lives of individuals and communities and 3 how racialized and marginalized communities use religion and religious discourses to contest the persistent power of racism in societies structured by inequality Taken together these essays will define a new standard of critical conversation on race and religion throughout the Americas Race, Nation, and Refuge Doug Coulson,2017-10-01 From 1870 to 1940 racial eligibility for naturalization in the United States was limited to free white persons and aliens of African nativity and persons of African descent and many interpreted these restrictions to reflect a policy of Asian exclusion based on the conclusion that Asians were neither white nor African Because the distinction between white and Asian was considerably unstable however those charged with the interpretation and implementation of the naturalization act faced difficult racial classification questions Through archival research and a close reading of the arguments contained in the documents of the US Bureau of Naturalization especially those documents that discussed challenges to racial eligibility for naturalization Doug Coulson demonstrates that the strategy of foregrounding shared external threats to the nation as a means of transcending perceived racial divisions was often more important to racial classification than legal doctrine He argues that this was due to the rapid shifts in the nation s enmities and alliances during the early twentieth century and the close relationship between race nation and sovereignty A New Testament Commentary for English Readers Charles John Ellicott,1897 Race, nation and empire Catherine Hall,Keith McClelland,2024-06-04 The essays in this collection show how histories written in the past in different political times dealt with considered or avoided and disavowed Britain s imperial role and issues of difference Ranging from enlightenment historians to the present these essays consider both individual historians including such key figures as E A Freeman G M Trevelyan and Keith Hancock and also broader themes such as the relationship between liberalism race and historiography and how we might re think British history in the light of trans national trans imperial and cross cultural analysis Britishness and what British history is have become major cultural and political issues in our time But as these essays demonstrate there is no single national story race empire and difference have pulsed through the writing of British history The contributors include some of the most distinguished historians writing today C A Bayly Antoinette Burton Saul Dubow Geoff Eley Theodore Koditschek Marilyn Lake John M MacKenzie Karen O Brien Sonya O Rose Bill Schwarz Kathleen Wilson Jews, Antiquity, and the Nineteenth-century Imagination Hayim Lapin,Dale B. Martin,2003 Essays on nineteenth century Christian understanding and use of biblical history and religion Studies and Texts in Jewish History and Culture The Joseph and Rebecca Meyerhoff Center for Jewish Studies University of Maryland no 12 Race, Nation, and Citizenship in Postcolonial

Africa Ronald Aminzade, 2013-10-31 Nationalism has generated violence bloodshed and genocide as well as patriotic sentiments that encourage people to help fellow citizens and place public responsibilities above personal interests This study explores the contradictory character of African nationalism as it unfolded over decades of Tanzanian history in conflicts over public policies concerning the rights of citizens foreigners and the nation s Asian racial minority These policy debates reflected a history of racial oppression and foreign domination and were shaped by a quest for economic development racial justice and national self reliance

Race, Nation, and Empire in American History James T. Campbell, Matthew Pratt Guterl, Robert G. Lee, 2017-12-10 While public debates over America s current foreign policy often treat American empire as a new phenomenon this lively collection of essays offers a pointed reminder that visions of national and imperial greatness were a cornerstone of the new country when it was founded In fact notions of empire have long framed debates over western expansion Indian removal African slavery Asian immigration and global economic dominance and they persist today despite the proliferation of anti imperialist rhetoric In fifteen essays distinguished historians examine the central role of empire in American race relations nationalism and foreign policy from the founding of the United States to the twenty first century The essays trace the global expansion of American merchant capital the rise of an evangelical Christian mission movement the dispossession and historical erasure of indigenous peoples the birth of new identities and the continuous struggles over the place of darker skinned peoples in a settler society that still fundamentally imagines itself as white Full of transnational connections and cross pollinations of people appearing in unexpected places the essays are also stories of people being put quite literally in their place by the bitter struggles over the boundaries of race and nation Collectively these essays demonstrate that the seemingly contradictory processes of boundary crossing and boundary making are and always have been intertwined Contributors James T Campbell Brown University Ruth Feldstein Rutgers University Newark Kevin K Gaines University of Michigan Matt Garcia Brown University Matthew Pratt Guterl Indiana University George Hutchinson Indiana University Matthew Frye Jacobson Yale University Prema Kurien Syracuse University Robert G Lee Brown University Eric Love University of Colorado Boulder Melani McAlister George Washington University Joanne Pope Melish University of Kentucky Louise M Newman University of Florida Vernon J Williams Jr Indiana University Natasha Zaretsky Southern Illinois University Carbondale

Race, Nation, & Empire in American History (Volume 2 of 2) (EasyRead Large Bold Edition) , Race, Nation, War Ayanna Yonemura, 2019-06-10 This book examines international post 9 11 policies by connecting them to the US violations of Japanese Americans human rights during World War II Analysing the policies of the United States Race Nation War illustrates how ideas of race and masculinity shaped the indefinite leave policy which the government used to move Japanese Americans out of camps during the war With attention to recent American and European policies the author demonstrates that race gender and nation also converge in President Trump s policies on refugees and human rights the German and European migrant crises and related German policies and politics Assayed from a unique city
