Radar Development in Canada W.E. Knowles Middleton, 1981-03-16 This volume continues the story of the National Research Council begun by Physics at the National Research Council of Canada also written by Middleton and Biological Sciences at the National Research Council of Canada by N T Gridgeman Technical enough to interest the scientifically informed reader yet comprehensible to the general reader this history of the development of radar in Canada by the N R C in the years of the Second World War explains what radar is and how it functions and briefly describes at the problems which led to the development of new equipment such as the need to detect mortar bombs and the danger of airborne attacks on Canadian coasts The author describes how personality clashes tensions between co operating organizations and difficulty administrative puzzles were overcome allowing scientific expertise to triumph in the speedy and valuable development of new radar devices an important contribution by Canada to the war effort The volume is well organized and includes illustrations Documentation from government sources use of quotations from correspondence and interviews personal reminiscences of the author and informed opinion and interpretation combine to make the volume easy and information reading

Radar Development in Canada National Research Council of Canada, W.E.K. Middleton, 1981 Mechanical Engineering at the National Research Council of Canada W.E. Knowles Middleton, 1984-04-12 W E Knowles Middleton continuing his series of books on the history of the National Research Council of Canada here presents a history of the challenges defeats and triumphs of mechanical engineering at the Council Throughout much of the history of the National Research Council the Division of Mechanical Engineering has been mostly preoccupied with problems of aeronautics During World War II the Division constituted an aeronautical laboratory The influence of individuals government departments and individuals all involved in supporting and demanding research into problems of mechanical engineering in Canada makes intriguing reading The volume will be of interest to those investigating the history of science and technology in Canada It will also be crucial to those interested in Canada's contribution to World War II on the fronts of technology and aeronautics

The Development of Radar Equipments for the Royal Navy, 1935-45 F.A. Kingsley, 2016-07-27 This book presents authoritative accounts of the evolution development and application of Royal Naval radar from its inception in 1935 until the end of World War 2 The accounts are based on the individual authors contemporary experiences extensive archival research and discussions with surviving wartime colleagues An overview is presented of the pioneering work at HM Signal School later the Admiralty Signal Establishment followed by descriptions of the main programmes of radar development associated research and the problems of installation of the equipment in ships as well as its operation and maintenance at sea Tabulations of the characteristics and installations of all wartime Royal Naval radars are provided in the Appendices The Canadian Space Program Andrew B. Godefroy, 2017-05-03 Canada's space efforts from its origins towards the end of the Second World War through to its participation in the ISS today are revealed in full in this complete and carefully researched history Employing recently declassified archives and many never previously used sources author Andrew B Godefroy explains the history of the program through its policy and many fascinating projects He assesses its effectiveness as a major partner in both US and international space programs examines its current national priorities and capabilities and outlines the country's plans for the future Despite being the third nation to launch a satellite into space after the Soviet Union and the United States being a major partner in the US space shuttle program with the iconic Canadarm being an international leader in the development of space robotics and acting as one of the five major partners in the ISS the Canadian Space Program remains one of the least well known national efforts of the space age This book attempts to shed a clearer light on the progress made by the CSA thus far with more ambitious goals ahead Technical information diagrams glossaries a chronology and extensive notes on sources are also included in this volume

The Applications of Radar and Other Electronic Systems in the Royal Navy in World War 2 F.A. Kingsley, 2016-07-27 This book presents a collection of authoritative accounts of the evolution and application of Royal Naval shipborne radars during World War 2 in the fields of weapon control weapon direction action information and fighter direction Accounts are also presented of the successful pioneering activities at the Admiralty Signal Establishment in the fields of counter measures against various enemy electronic systems in active operations and also of high frequency direction finding ashore and afloat which in conjunction with radar contributed substantially to winning the Battle of the Atlantic

Top Secret Exchange David Zimmerman, 1996 The Tizard Mission was one of the key events in the forging of the Anglo American alliance in World War II Led by Sir Henry Tizard the mission visited the United States and Canada in the summer of 1940 to make available virtually all of Britain's technical and scientific military secrets Overwhelmed by British generosity the U S reciprocated David Zimmerman tells the story of that mission and examines the importance of technology in modern war and its crucial role in the defeat of the Axis powers

Direct and Inverse Methods in Radar Polarimetry W.M Boerner, Leonard A. Cram, William A. Holm, David E. Stein, Werner Wiesbeck, Wolfgang Keydel, Dino Giuli, Dag T. Gjessing, Frédéric A. Molinet, Hans Brand, 2013-11-09 This foreword deals exclusively with the planning organization and execution of the Workshop's scientific as well as cultural programs It is opened with a synopsis on how the global political changes that occurred immediately after the Workshop caused the delay in producing the proceedings followed by a brief exposition on need timeliness and importance of this second ARW in the field of electromagnetic imaging radar remote sensing and target versus clutter discrimination and an outline of the objectives An informal discussion about some of the organizational details a retrospective summary of events and a preview of the third workshop planned for 1993

September 19 25 is intended to recapture the spirit of this second NATO Advanced Research Workshop 1988 September 18 24 and will reveal how successful it was in comparison to the first of 1983 September 18 24 how its accomplishments may be appreciated and why a third and last workshop was requested by its participants to take place during 1993 September 19 25

Wheeler's Wake Volume II Andrew Clyde Little, 2012-02 Volume II of Wheeler's Wake continues the story of a communications pioneer involved in shortwave radio and the birth of television Wheeler also managed to raise a son while dealing with a highly neurotic wife It traces how he balanced a demanding career with the role of a father in a difficult marriage This support for his son allowed the author to grow into a responsible adult who eventually followed in his father's wake shaping his own career using some of the technology Wheeler developed It is a tribute to a remarkable man from a devoted and loving son Andrew Clyde Little George J. Klein Richard I. Bourgeois-Doyle, National Research Council Canada, National Research Council Canada. Monograph Publishing Program, 2004 This book is the official biography of George J Klein a design engineer who spent 40 years at the National Research Council of Canada NRC and was considered the most productive inventor in Canada in the 20th Century The book recounts Klein's family history and personal life

Maestro of Science Jason S. Ridler, 2015-11-26 One of the brightest Canadian scientists of his generation Omond McKillop Solandt was a physiologist by training an engineer by disposition and a manager by necessity A protégé of insulin's co-discoverer Charles Best Solandt worked as a scientist for the British government during the Second World War including as a pioneer of operational research and a manager of scientific establishments Ending the war as a colonel he served on the British Mission to Japan where he studied the effects of the atomic bombs at Hiroshima and Nagasaki before returning to Canada to become chairman of the newly created Defence Research Board There he spearheaded Canada's attempt to create a new and innovative government science infrastructure that served the needs of the Canadian military at the dawn of the nuclear age and worked alongside allies in Britain and the United States In Maestro of Science Jason S Ridler draws on interviews with Solandt and his colleagues and declassified records from Canada and the United Kingdom to paint a vivid picture of the influence and achievements of a Canadian leader in Cold War military research 100 Years of Radar

Gaspard Galati, 2015-09-15 This book offers fascinating insights into the key technical and scientific developments in the history of radar from the first patent taken out by H Lsmeyer in 1904 through to the present day Landmark events are highlighted and fascinating insights provided into the exceptional people who made possible the progress in the field including the scientists and technologists who worked independently and under strict secrecy in various countries across the world in the 1930s and the big businessmen who played an important role after World War II The book encourages multiple levels of reading The author is a leading radar researcher who is ideally placed to offer a technical scientific perspective as well as a historical one He has taken care to structure and write the book in such a way as to appeal to both non-specialists and experts The book is not sponsored by any company or body either formally or informally and is therefore entirely unbiased The text is enriched by approximately three hundred images most of which are original and have been accessed by detailed searches in the archives

The Science of War Donald Avery, 1998-01-01 The Second World War with its emphasis on innovative weapons and defence technology brought about massive changes in the role of scientists in Canada the United States and Great Britain Canadian scientists working through the auspices of the National Research Council and the Department of National Defence made important contributions to the development of alliance warfare Before 1939 Canada had only a minute military establishment and a limited industrial and academic capacity for research and development With the outbreak of war all this changed dramatically This book explains how and why Canada was able to play in the big leagues of military technology including the development of radar RDX explosives proximity fuses chemical and biological warfare and the atomic bomb It also investigates the evolution of the Canadian national security state which attempted to protect defence secrets both from the Axis powers and from Canada's wartime ally the Soviet Union The Science of War provides both a cross disciplinary overview of the scientific and military activity of this period in several countries and a fascinating analysis of what the author calls Big Science in Canada Science and the Pacific War Roy M. MacLeod, 1999-12-31 In 1995 the fiftieth anniversary of the end of the Second World War occasioned many reflections on the place of science and technology in the conflict That the war ended with Allied victory in the Pacific theatre inevitably focussed attention upon the Pacific region and particularly upon the Manhattan project and its outcome It was in the Pacific that Western physics and engineering gave birth to the Atomic Age However the Pacific war had also proved a testing time and a testing space for other disciplines and institutions Extreme environments and operational distances and the fundamental demands of logistics required the Allies and the Japanese to innovate many scientific and technological practices Just as medicine and botany were called upon to fight tropical diseases and insect pests so engineers anthropologists and geographers were called upon to understand local conditions and climates and to work with local peoples whose traditional lives were changed forever by the experience At the same time the war played midwife to a host of new developments not least in scientific intelligence and in chemical and biological weapons which were to acquire far greater importance after 1945 To See the Unseen Andrew J. Butrica, 1996 Canadiana, 1981-06 Wireless and Empire Aitor Anduaga Egaña, Aitor Anduaga, 2009-02-19 Although the product of consensus politics the British Empire was based on communications supremacy and the knowledge of the atmosphere Focusing on science industry government the military and education this book studies the relationship between wireless and Empire throughout the interwar period International review of military history, 1982 Guardian of the Gulf Brian Douglas Tennyson, Roger Sarty, 2000-01-01 A vivid and long overdue account of one of the great untold Canadian military stories Sydney's importance as a major convoy port a base in the hunt for German submarines and an industrial centre producing critically important coal and steel Ontario History, 1988 Vols 29 include the society's Report 1931-32 except 1938-39 1939-40 which were issued separately
