Sharp,1852 The Routledge Companion to Arts Marketing Daragh O'Reilly,Ruth Rentschler,Theresa A. Kirchner,2013-12-17 The relationship between the arts and marketing has been growing ever more complex as the proliferation of new technologies and social media has opened up new forms of communication This book covers the broad and involved relationship between the arts and marketing It frames arts marketing in the context of wider related issues such as the creative and cultural industries cultural policy and arts funding developments in the different art forms and the impact of environmental forces on arts business models and markets The Routledge Companion to Arts Marketing provides a comprehensive up to date reference guide that incorporates current analyses of arts marketing topics by leaders of academic research in the field As such it will be a key resource for the next generation of arts marketing scholars and teachers and will constitute the single most authoritative guide on the subject internationally Food Fears Alison Blay-Palmer,2016-04-15 The industrial food system of the West is increasingly perceived as problematic The physical social and intellectual distance between consumers and their food stems from a food system that privileges quantity and efficiency over quality with an underlying assumption that food is a commodity rather than a source of nourishment and pleasure In the wake of various food and health scares there is a growing demand from consumers to change the food they eat which in turn acts as a catalyst for the industry to adapt and for alternative systems to evolve Drawing on a wealth of empirical research into mainstream and alternative North American food systems this book discusses how sustainable grass roots local food systems offer a template for meaningful individual activism as a way to bring about change from the bottom up while at the same time creating pressure for policy changes at all levels of government This movement signals a shift away from market economy principles and reflects a desire to embody social and ecological values as the foundation for future growth Strengths-Based Approaches to Crime and Substance Use David Best,Charlotte Colman,2019-09-30 Although there is a strong and growing literature in the two areas of desistance and addiction recovery they have developed along parallel pathways with little systematic assessment of the empirical evidence about the co occurrence of the relationship or how one area can learn from the other This book aims to fill that gap by bringing together emerging literature on the relationship between offending and substance use Instead of focusing on the active period of its onset and persistence this book examines the mechanisms that support desistance addiction recovery and the common themes of reintegration and rehabilitation With contributions from a wide range of international experts in the fields of desistance and addiction recovery the book focuses on a strengths based relational and community focused approach to long term change in offending and drug using populations as well as the shared barriers to effective reintegration for both. This book will be highly informative for a wide audience from academics and students interested in studying desistance and recovery to those working in addiction services and the criminal justice system as well as policy makers and the people undertaking their own journeys to desistance and recovery.
