Late Antique Jewish and Christian Travelogues Reuven Kiperwasser, Aryeh Kofsky, Serge Ruzer, 2024-12-16 Focusing on travel narratives as a setting for spelling out both cultural exchanges and identity building the present volume maps a variety of strategies employed in travelogues by Christians and Jews in the late antique Roman East The first part sheds light on the shared cultural background folkloric or mythic reflected in late antique Jewish and Christian sea travel stories and the various attempts to adapt it to a specific religious agenda While the comparative analysis of the sources from two textual communities emphasizes their different religious agendas it also allows for restoring patterns of the broader background with which they converse The second part highlights Christian perceptions of the Land of Israel in missionary enterprises and in the eschatological visions The travelogues offer a window on the interplay between shared inheritance and new agendas within the dialectical development of religious traditions in Late Antiquity

The Economics of the Roman Stone Trade Ben Russell, 2013-11-28 The use of stone in vast quantities is a ubiquitous and defining feature of the material culture of the Roman world In this volume Russell provides a new and wide ranging examination of the production distribution and use of carved stone objects throughout the Roman world including how enormous quantities of high quality white and polychrome marbles were moved all around the Mediterranean to meet the demand for exotic material The long distance supply of materials for artistic and architectural production not to mention the trade in finished objects like statues and sarcophagi is one of the most remarkable features of the Roman world Despite this it has never received much attention in mainstream economic studies Focusing on the market for stone and its supply the administration distribution and chronology of quarrying and the practicalities of stone transport Russell offers a detailed assessment of the Roman stone trade and how the relationship between producer and customer functioned even over considerable distances Early Byzantine Ireland Bernard Mulholland,2021-12-01 This research was conducted towards an MA in Byzantine Archaeology and Text 2004 at the Institute of Byzantine Studies in Queen s University Belfast It is published with the aim of presenting this evidence to a wider audience and to inform future research by others in this field of study The archaeological and historical evidence presented and analysed is surprisingly diverse and relatively plentiful and arguably also compelling Is there any evidence for contacts between the Eastern Roman or Byzantine empire and Ireland and if so what form does that evidence take This book does much to inform that debate
