Lt.-Colonel Reginald G. Burton,2012-05-01 A short but very useful account of Napoleon s most brilliant campaign as Emperor culminating in smashing the Third Coalition against France Lt Col Burton dispenses with the extraneous elements and focuses primarily on the actions of Napoleon as he guides his troops from Boulogne where they have been training for an invasion of Britain to face his Austrian and Russian foes across the Rhine Another excellent volume in the Special Campaigns series produced around the turn of the 20th century by serving or recently retired British and Indian Army officers Lt Col Burton wrote a number of books on Napoleon's campaigns for the series and was an acknowledged expert on the era He applies his expert eye to the lightning moves of the Emperor contrasted by the lumbering vacillations of his opponents Author Lt Colonel Reginald G Burton Indian Army 1864-1923 Austerlitz Ian Castle, 2006-01-19 In this authoritative and beautifully illustrated new account of Napoleon's greatest victory and the campaign that preceded it Ian Castle sheds new light on the actions of the commanders and questions the assumptions and explores the myths that have shaped our understanding of the event ever since His account follows every twist and turn of a war that was fought out across central Europe two centuries ago In particular he reconstructs the course of the action in every sector of the Austerlitz battlefield using French Austrian and Russian records and re-evaluates the place of the battle in the history and mythology of the Napoleonic era How Far From Austerlitz? Alistair Horne, 1998-07-15 A London Sunday Times Book of the Year A Daily Telegraph Book of the Year Napoleon and Austerlitz Scotty Bowden, 1997-01-01 How Far from Austerlitz Alistair HORNE, 1996 Napoleon Bonaparte's Most Decisive Land Battles Charles River Editors, 2025-05-01 Nearly 50 years after Napoleon met his Waterloo generals across the West continued to study his tactics and engage their armies the same way armies fought during the Napoleonic Era Despite advances in military technology and the advent of railroads for transportation all of which made defensive warfare more effective acclaimed military geniuses like Robert E Lee used flank attacks and infantry charges against superior numbers in an effort to win decisive victories and it would not be until World War I that concepts of modern warfare made the Napoleonic Era of the early 19th century outdated For those questioning why generals continued using tactics from the Napoleonic Era even as technology changed the battlefield the Battle of Austerlitz may provide the best answer Napoleon is regarded as one of history's greatest generals and Austerlitz was his greatest victory In 1805 Britain Austria and Russia allied together to form the Third Coalition against the French and the Third Coalition's forces consisted of armies from Austria and Russia with Britain providing naval support as well as its financial powers Napoleon had already defeated and mostly destroyed an Austrian army in October at Ulm before it could link up with the Russians setting the stage for the Battle of Austerlitz to be the culmination of the war against the Third Coalition as a whole in early December Despite the smashing victory at Ulm Napoleon's French army would still be well outnumbered at Austerlitz by a joint Russo Austrian army in a battle that would also come to be known as the Battle of Three Emperors The Battle of Austerlitz was a tactical masterpiece that saw Napoleon actually invite an attack on his army by the bigger Coalition army and over the course of about 9 hours the French successfully defended their right flank while counterattacking in the center and splitting the Russo Austrian army in two allowing the French to hit the flank of the advancing left wing of the enemy The result was a decisive victory that virtually annihilated the Third Coalition's army and made Napoleon the master of the European continent The influence Austerlitz had on Europe's political and military situation cannot be overstated The Third Coalition's defeat led to the dissolution of the Habsburg Empire allowed France to redraw the map of Central Europe and ultimately put into place the chain of events that would lead to France's subsequent wars Furthermore Austerlitz set the model that every general hoped to emulate in battle and the results were undoubtedly on Napoleon's mind when he tried to use the same movement strategies in an attempt to keep Prussian and British armies from linking together at the Battle of Waterloo nearly 10 years after Austerlitz

The Road to Austerlitz R.G. Burton, 2008-12
How Napoleon marched towards his star In 1805 Napoleon and his Grand Army gathered on the shores of the English Channel ready to launch themselves across its short expanse to begin the invasion of Britain But the Royal Navy would continue to rule the waves to ensure that the essential twenty four hour dominance of the channel that the Emperor prayed for would never occur So it was that he would once again turn his attention for military conquest towards the East The brilliant campaign that culminated in the victory of Austerlitz is told in this history making it vital reading for all students of the military history of the Napoleonic epoch

From Boulogne to Austerlitz, Napoleon's Campaign of 1805 Reginald George Burton, 2023
Napoleon Bonaparte's Most Decisive Land Battles Charles River Charles River Editors, 2017-11-14 Includes pictures Includes accounts of the battles Includes online resources and a bibliography for further reading For those questioning why generals continued using tactics from the Napoleonic Era even as technology changed the battlefield the Battle of Austerlitz may provide the best answer Napoleon is regarded as one of history's greatest generals and Austerlitz was his greatest victory In 1805 Britain Austria and Russia allied together to form the Third Coalition against the French and the Third Coalition's forces consisted of armies from Austria and Russia with Britain providing naval support as well as its financial powers The Battle of Austerlitz was a tactical masterpiece that saw Napoleon actually invite an attack on his army by the bigger Coalition army and over the course of about 9 hours the French successfully defended their right flank while counterattacking in the center and splitting the Russo Austrian army in two allowing the French to hit the flank of the advancing left wing of the enemy The result was a decisive victory that virtually annihilated the Third Coalition's army and made Napoleon the master of the European continent By 1812 he had succeeded in subduing most of his enemies though in Spain the British continued to be a perpetual thorn in his flank that drained the Empire of money and troops but his relationship with Russia never more than one of mutual suspicion at best had now grown downright hostile On July 23rd

1812 he launched his army across the border despite the protestations of many of his Marshals. The Russian Campaign had begun and it would turn out to be Napoleon's biggest blunder. Russia's great strategic depth already had a habit of swallowing armies, a fact many would be conquerors learned the hard way. Napoleon exceptional though he was in so many regards proved that even military genius can do little in the face of the Russian winter and the resilience of its people. By the time the Grande Armée had reached the Berezina it had been decimated. Of the over 450 000 fighting men that had invaded Russia that autumn less than 40 000 remained. These factors set the stage for the second setback which essentially sealed the fate of Napoleon's empire. The four day Battle of Leipzig in October 1813 romantically but accurately dubbed the Battle of the Nations proved the decisive encounter of the War of the Sixth Coalition and essentially determined the course the Napoleonic Wars took from that moment forward. The resultant collision was the single largest field action of the Napoleonic Wars dwarfing Waterloo in size complexity and overall importance. The Battle of Leipzig was probably the combat which involved the highest concentration of men on a single extended battlefield on the planet up to that point in history and would not be exceeded until the vast struggles of the First World War almost precisely a century later. Waterloo is the most famous battle in modern history if not all of history and appropriately so. Gathering an army of 100 000 men Napoleon marched into what is now Belgium intent on driving his force between the advancing British army under the Duke of Wellington and the Prussian forces under Marshal Blücher. It was the kind of daring strategy that only Napoleon could pull off as he had at places like Jena and Austerlitz. At Waterloo however it would end disastrously as Napoleon's armies were unable to dislodge Wellington and unable to keep the Prussians from linking up with the British. The battle would end with the French suffering nearly 60% casualties the end of Napoleon's reign and the restructuring of the European map. Simply put the next 200 years of European history can be traced back to the result of the battle that day in 1815.

Austerlitz 1805 Ian Castle, 2002-03-25 This all new volume chronicles the events that climaxed on the field of Austerlitz in one of the most famous battles of the Napoleonic Wars. 1799-1815 Not only was it the first campaign that Napoleon waged as Emperor of France but also the first great test for his Grande Armée. The Emperor himself regarded it as his greatest victory and it undoubtedly won him a mastery of Europe that would remain unbroken for almost a decade. Most accounts of the campaign have until now been based almost exclusively on French sources but following extensive research in the Austrian archives Ian Castle is now able to provide a far more balanced account of Austerlitz.

Napoleon's Army at Austerlitz Paul L Dawson, 2025-05-30 A snow capped hill in modern day Czech Republic dominated by a small church with black onion dome stands on a field of battle that cemented Napoleon's position as Emperor of the French. His throne was secure. His power was limitless. Europe lay at his feet. The Battle of Austerlitz is almost universally regarded as the most impressive of Napoleon's many victories. The magnitude of the French achievement against a larger Russian and Austrian force was unprecedented the great victory being met by sheer amazement and delirium in Paris where just days earlier the nation had been teetering on the brink of financial collapse. It was a time when Napoleon's Grande Armée was at the apogee of its power Trained on the Channel coast for over two years the Grande Armée was considered to be the most powerful and in many respects the most glamorous fighting force in Europe Using archive documents from the time this book sets out to chart the story of the men who made up the army Incorporating rare eye witness reports that have to date never been used in English or French histories we assess if the army was indeed the best in the world Men like Grouchy Oudinot Ney D'haupoul and many other famous names put the army through its paces it is their judgements that confirm or deny the effectiveness of the army These men also minutely examined the men's clothing and equipment Using these reports we present for the first time the true story of the Grande Armée This has been possible due to the author's access to a vast resource as yet untapped by the vast majority of researchers and historians for understanding Napoleonic era in general These are the regimental archive boxes preserved in the French Army Archives From the regimental inspections as well as the observations of Divisional commanders written at the time these sources provide potentially bias free empirical data it is based on personal assessments thus is not error free from which we can reconstruct the life story of a regiment its officers and above all its clothing More uniquely the text is supported by an unrivalled collection of full colour illustrations many of which have never been published before including images of original items of equipment that are held in both museums and private collections to which the author has been granted special access In this beautifully illustrated book Paul Dawson critically re-examines the mythos and presents the judgement call made at the time about the army that has ever since been overtly romanticised by both lovers and haters of Napoleon

Austerlitz 1805 David Chandler, 1999-08-01 Osprey's examination of one of the most crucial battles of the Napoleonic Wars 1799-1815 Austerlitz was the battle that established Napoleon's reputation a classic example of the general's masterly use of deception to lure his enemy into a carefully devised trap Beginning with the bold and crushing advance of the French Army from the Rhine to the Danube David Chandler describes the envelopment of Mack's army at Ulm the manoeuvres to Austerlitz and the counter attack that resulted in the decisive defeat for the Austro-Russian Army Excellent overview illustrations of the battlefield at Austerlitz supplement the text by clearly showing the movements of the opposing armies Austerlitz was won on the first anniversary of Napoleon's coronation as Emperor of the French and established him as the first amongst the great military leaders in Europe. In Germany this battle is called Dreikaiserschlacht or the Battle of Three Emperors. However it was the Emperor of the French that outshone his Austrian and Russian rivals both in military and in political terms. Though we ought not to forget that if Napoleon had shown as much diplomatic ability as he displayed for military affairs while on campaign the battle of Austerlitz would not have taken place and the history of Europe would have been different. The bicentennial commemoration and re-enactment of the Battle of Austerlitz took place from the 2nd to the 4th December 2005. The organizer's objective was to mark the anniversary of this event that brought in its wake so many political changes to Europe as well as remember all those who died in the battle be they soldiers from the opposing armies or the civilians who saw their villages burnt down during the battle. During these few days over 3 500 uniformed participants met in the Czech Republic to remember this historical event and all those who were present in 1805.
