Narrative Of William W Brown A Fugitive Slave:

Narrative of William W. Brown, a Fugitive Slave William Wells Brown, 2019-11-20 In Narrative of William W Brown a Fugitive Slave William Wells Brown presents a compelling account of his harrowing journey from enslavement to freedom. This seminal work published in 1847 is characterized by its vivid and unflinching prose interweaving personal anecdotes with broader social critiques of antebellum America. Brown's literary style combines emotional resonance with stark realism, employing a first person narrative that not only captures the brutality of slavery but also challenges the moral and ethical foundations of a society that condones such inhumanity. As a primary text in African American literature, it occupies a crucial place in the canon of abolitionist writings, offering insights into the lived experiences of enslaved individuals and the complexities of their fight for liberation. William Wells Brown was the first African American to publish a novel in the United States, and his experiences as a fugitive slave deeply informed his writing. Born into slavery in Kentucky, his eventual escape and subsequent activism propelled him into the abolitionist movement. Brown's dual role as a storyteller and advocate aims not only to recount personal suffering but also to galvanize support for the abolitionist cause, making his narrative an act of both self-liberation and political resistance. This poignant narrative is a vital read for anyone interested in American history, literature, and the struggle for civil rights. Brown's articulate and powerful voice shines a light on the dark chapters of American history, urging readers to confront the legacy of slavery and recognize the resilience of the human spirit. Engage with this essential text to gain a deeper understanding of the historical context and ongoing implications of Brown's experience.

The Narrative of William Wells Brown, A Fugitive Slave William Wells Brown, 2012-12-28 Thirteen years ago I came to your door a weary fugitive from chains and stripes. I was a stranger and you took me in. I was hungry and you fed me. Naked was I and you clothed me. Even a name by which to be known among men slavery had denied me. You bestowed upon me your own name. Indeed should I be if I ever forget what I owe to you or do anything to disgrace that honored name.

Narrative of William W. Brown, an American Slave William Wells Brown, 2011-09-01 By 1849 the Narrative of William W Brown was in its fourth edition, having sold over 8,000 copies in less than eighteen months and making it one of the fastest-selling antislavery tracts of its time. The book's popularity can be attributed both to the strong voice of its author and Brown's notoriety as an abolitionist speaker. The son of a slave and a white man, Brown recounts his years in servitude, his cruel masters, and the brutal whippings he and those around him received. He provides a detailed description of his failed attempt to escape with his mother; after their capture, they were sold to new masters. A subsequent escape attempt succeeds. He is taken in by a kind Quaker, Wells Brown, whose name he adopts in gratitude. Shortly thereafter, Brown crosses the Canadian border. Brown's Narrative includes stories of fighting devious slave traders and bounty hunters, various antislavery poems, articles, and stories written by him and others, newspaper clippings, reward posters, and slave sale announcements. Narrative of William W. Brown, a Fugitive Slave: Written by Himself William Wells Brown, 2012-03-01 I WAS born in Lexington Ky The man who stole me as soon as I was born recorded the births of all the infants which he claimed to be born his property in a book which he kept for that purpose My mother s name was Elizabeth She had seven children viz Solomon Leander Benjamin Joseph Millford Elizabeth and myself No two of us were children of the same father My father s name as I learned from my mother was George Higgins He was a white man a relative of my master and connected with some of the first families in Kentucky My master owned about forty slaves twenty five of whom were field hands He removed from Kentucky to Missouri when I was quite young and settled thirty or forty miles above St Charles on the Missouri where in addition to his practice as a physician he carried on milling merchandizing and farming He had a large farm the principal productions of which were tobacco and hemp The slave cabins were situated on the back part of the farm with the house of the overseer whose name was Grove Cook in their midst He had the entire charge of the farm and having no family was allowed a woman to keep house for him whose business it was to deal out the provisions for the hands A woman was also kept at the quarters to do the cooking for the field hands who were summoned to their unrequited toil every morning at four o clock by the ringing of a bell hung on a post near the house of the overseer They were allowed half an hour to eat their breakfast and get to the field At half past four a horn was blown by the overseer which was the signal to commence work and every one that was not on the spot at the time had to receive ten lashes from the negro whip with which the overseer always went armed The handle was about three feet long with the butt end filled with lead and the lash six or seven feet in length made of cowhide with platted wire on the end of it This whip was put in requisition very frequently and freely and a small offence on the part of a slave furnished an occasion for its use During the time that Mr Cook was overseer I was a house servant a situation preferable to that of a field hand as I was better fed better clothed and not obliged to rise at the ringing of the bell but about half an hour after I have often laid and heard the crack of the whip and the screams of the slave My mother was a field hand and one morning was ten or fifteen minutes behind the others in getting into the field As soon as she reached the spot where they were at work the overseer commenced whipping her She cried Oh pray Oh pray Oh pray these are generally the words of slaves when imploring mercy at the hands of their oppressors I heard her voice and knew it and jumped out of my bunk and went to the door Though the field was some distance from the house I could hear every crack of the whip and every groan and cry of my poor mother I remained at the door not daring to venture any farther The cold chills ran over me and I wept aloud After giving her ten lashes the sound of the whip ceased and I returned to my bed and found no consolation but in my tears It was not yet daylight
