Transit Crime and Sexual Violence in Cities Vania Ceccato, Anastasia Loukaitou-Sideris, 2020-05-17 How cities are planned and designed has a major impact on individuals mobility and safety If individuals feel unsafe in public transportation or on the way to it they may avoid certain routes or particular times of the day This is problematic since research has also found that in some cities especially those in the Global South a large percentage of women are transit captives Namely they have relatively less access to non public forms of transportation and are therefore especially reliant on public transport This issue is important not only because it affects people s safety but also because it influences the long term sustainability of a city In a sustainable city safety guarantees the ability to move freely for everyone and provides a wider sense of place attachment Transit Crime and Sexual Violence in Cities examines the evidence of victimization in transit environments in countries around the world exploring individuals feelings of perceived safety or lack thereof and the necessary improvements that can make transit safer and hence cities more sustainable The book s contributions are grounded in theories at the crossroads of several disciplines such as environmental criminology architecture and design urban planning geography psychology gender and LGBTQI studies transportation and law enforcement International case studies include Los Angeles Vancouver Stockholm London Paris S o Paulo Mexico City Bogot Tokyo Guangzho Melbourne and Lagos among others
