Swindler, 2007 An excellent glimpse into what anthropology was like in the not too far distant past Daris Swindler's six month daily journal written while on expedition to Melanesia from the University of Pennsylvania with Dr Ward Goodenough and Dr Ann Chowning fifty three years ago is human and captivating and shows us yet another time that is gone forever Generously illustrated with photos from the trip the account takes us through unexpected adventures and routine data collection all with a touch that is accessible and entertaining and introduces us to a generous independent people living in a natural setting and learning to adapt to modern life A great book for budding anthropologists seasoned scholars and armchair travelers alike and a valuable text to accompany college level courses      After the Cult Holger Jebens, 2010 In many parts of the world the white man is perceived to be an instigator of globalization and an embodiment of modernity However so far anthropologists have paid little attention to the actual heterogeneity and complexity of whiteness in specific ethnographic contexts This study examines cultural perceptions of other and self as expressed in cargo cults and masked dances in Papua New Guinea Indigenous terms images and concepts are being contrasted with their western counterparts the latter partly deriving from the publications and field notes of Charles Valentine After having done his first fieldwork more than fifty years ago this anthropological ancestor has now become part of the local tradition and has thus turned into a kind of mythical figure Based on anthropological fieldwork as well as on archival studies this book addresses the relation between western and indigenous perceptions of self and other between tradition and modernity and between anthropological ancestors and descendants In this way the work contributes to the study of whiteness cargo cults and masked dances in Papua New Guinea      Bulletin - Philadelphia Anthropological Society Philadelphia Anthropological Society, 1959      Yengema Cave Report Carlton S.
