Religious Traditions And The Limits Of Tolerance:

Religious Traditions and the Limits of Tolerance Louis J. Hammann, Harry Merwyn Buck, Michael J.

McTighe, 1988-01-01 This work looks at the questions which surround religious tolerance such as can religious traditions co exist peacefully It includes essays by contributors from many different religious and philosophical traditions attempting to answer these questions in the context of their backgrounds Deep Cosmopolis Adam K. Webb, 2015-05-15 Too often observers of globalization take for granted that the common ground across cultures is a thin layer of consumerism and perhaps human rights If so then anything deeper and more traditional would be placebound and probably destined for the dustbin of history But must this be so Must we assume as both liberals and traditionalists now tend to do that one cannot be a cosmopolitan and take traditions seriously at the same time This book offers a radically different argument about how traditions and global citizenship can meet and suggests some important lessons for the contours of globalization in our own time Adam K Webb argues that if we look back before modernity we find a very different line of thinking about what it means to take the whole world as one's horizon Digging into some fascinating currents of thought and practice in the ancient world the Middle Ages and the early modern period across all major civilizations Webb is able to reveal patterns of deep cosmopolitanism with its logic quite unlike that of liberal globalization today In their more cosmopolitan moments everyone from clerics to pilgrims to empire builders was inclined to look for deep ethical parallels points of contact among civilizations and traditions Once modernity swept aside the old civilizations however that promise was largely forgotten We now have an impoverished view of what it means to embrace a tradition and even what kinds of conversations across traditions are possible In part two Webb draws out the lessons of deep cosmopolitanism for our own time If revived it has something to say about everything from the rise of new non Western powers like China and India and what they offer the world to religious tolerance to global civil society to cross border migration Deep Cosmopolis traces an alternative strand of cosmopolitan thinking that cuts across centuries and civilizations It advances a new perspective on world history and a distinctive vision of globalization for this century which has the real potential to resonate with us all Secular Faith Vincent William

Lloyd, Elliot A. Ratzman, 2011-01-01 Is faith a necessary virtue in the contemporary world May it be or must it be detached from religious commitment What do genealogies of the secular tell us about faith Does religion need secular faith Secular Faith brings together leading and emerging scholars to reflect on the apparent paradox of secular faith Ranging over anthropology religious studies political science history and literature from Muslims in China to Pentecostals in South Africa to a prison chapel in Texas this collection of essays is as engaging and accessible as it is penetrating and rigorous Communism was once labeled the god that failed Like Christianity Communism involves faith in a superhuman endeavor conversion myth discipline and salvation and from the perspective of secular liberalism both are unjustified and false In recent years scholars have begun to investigate whether secularism is itself based on faith in a god that failed or is failing

Nevertheless many still embrace such a faith finding in the spirit of democracy an ethos of eternal renewal Secular Faith enters and broadens this conversation interrogating secular faith in a global context tapping new theoretical resources and grappling provocatively with the tragedies and opportunities of today s profane pantheon of beliefs LIST OF ESSAYS AND THEIR CONTRIBUTORS 1 Uncool Passion Nietzsche Meets the Pentecostals Jean Comaroff 21 2 The Secular Bad Faith of Harry Thiel the Bishop of Tellus Joshua Dubler 44 3 Darwin s Dogs Animals Animism and the Problem of Religion David Chidester 76 4 I Have Seen Miracles in My Life W E B Du Bois and the Religious Limits of Secularism Edward J Blum 102 5 Democracy Piety and Faith A Reading of Dewey s Religious Naturalism Melvin Rogers 126 6 Faith in the Time of Postsocialism Cindy Huang 153 7 Literary Enchantment and Literary Opposition from Hume to Scott Colin Jager 168 8 Imagined Communities Holistic Histories and Secular Faith Michael Saler 197 9 Interreligious Dialogue and Cosmopolitan Faith Adam K Webb 226

Conversions Craig Harline, 2011-09-15 The experiences of two families one in seventeenth century Holland the other in America today and how they coped when a family member changed religions This powerful and innovative work by a gifted cultural historian explores the effects of religious conversion on family relationships showing how the challenges of the Reformation can offer insight to families facing similarly divisive situations today Craig Harline begins with the story of young Jacob Rolandus the son of a Dutch Reformed preacher who converted to Catholicism in 1654 and ran away from home causing his family to disown him In the companion story Michael Sunbloom a young American leaves his family s religion in 1973 to convert to Mormonism similarly upsetting his distraught parents The modern twist to Michael s story is his realization that he is gay causing him to leave his new church and upsetting his parents again but this time the family reconciles Recounting these stories in short alternating chapters Harline underscores the parallel aspects of the two far flung families Despite different outcomes and forms their situations involve nearly identical dynamics and heart wrenching choices Through the author s deeply informed imagination the experiences of a seventeenth century European family are transformed into immediately recognizable terms A beautiful and moving book Harline is a master at narrative and at making the most painstaking research look effortless Carlos Eire Yale University An absorbing creative book it will definitely become a go to book for readers interested in the history and psychology of conversion Lauren Winner author of Girl Meets God A Memoir An unexpected joy A compelling insightful examination Conversions is a journey well worth taking Gerald S Argetsinger Affirmation.org

The Limits of Religious Tolerance Alan Jay Levinovitz, 2016-10-21 Religion's place in American public life has never been fixed As new communities have arrived as old traditions have fractured and reformed as cultural norms have been shaped by shifting economic structures and the advance of science and as new faith traditions have expanded the range of religious confessions within America's religious landscape the claims posited by religious faiths and the respect such claims may demand have been subjects of near constant change In The Limits of Religious Tolerance Alan Jay Levinovitz pushes against the widely held and often unexamined notion that unbounded tolerance must and should be accorded to claims forwarded on the basis of religious belief in a society increasingly characterized by religious pluralism Pressing at the distinction between tolerance and respect Levinovitz seeks to offer a set of guideposts by which a democratic society could identify and observe a set of limits beyond which religiously grounded claims may legitimately be denied the expectation of unqualified non interference

Joseph Carens: Between Aliens and Citizens Matthias Hoesch, Nadine Mooren, 2020-08-11 This book offers a critical discussion of Joseph Carens's main works in migration ethics covering themes such as migration naturalization citizenship culture religion and economic equality The volume is published on the occasion of the annual Münster Lectures in Philosophy held by Joseph Carens in the fall of 2018 It documents the intellectual exchange with the well known philosopher Joseph Carens by offering critical contributions on Carens's work and commentaries of Carens as a reply to these critical contributions. With his various works on migration ethics, Joseph Carens must be seen as one of the leading academics in the political and ethical discourse of migration in the last years. The topic of migration raises questions not only regarding naturalization and citizenship but also cultural, economic, and religious differences between aliens, citizens, and persons whose status lies in between and calls for further determination. Such questions gain more and more importance in our globalized world as can be seen for example in the context of the refugee crisis in the European Union and the U.S. The book covers different systematic topics of Carens's work as can be found in his widely read book The Ethics of Immigration but also in further publications. It provides papers with critical discussions of Carens's work as well as his responses to these, thus enabling and documenting the fruitful dialogue between the contributors and Carens himself. The aim of this book is to sharpen and shed light on Carens's arguments concerning migration by offering new and critical perspectives and fine-grained analyses.

Democracy and Religion David W. Odell-Scott, 2004. This book explores the interrelations of politics and religion. The work is divided into four main sections: the constitutional debate regarding the establishment and free exercise of religion; the themes of violence and nonviolence as they relate to religion; the free exercise of religion and the rise of fundamentalism; and the challenges to the free exercise of diverse religious practices in a democratic society.

The Oxford Handbook of Christianity in Asia Felix Wilfred, 2014. Named by the International Bulletin of Missionary Studies as an Outstanding Book of 2014 for Mission Studies. Despite the ongoing global expansion of Christianity, there remains a lack of comprehensive scholarship on its development in Asia. This volume fills the gap by exploring the world of Asian Christianity and its manifold expressions, including worship, theology, spirituality, inter-religious relations, interventions in society, and mission. The contributors from over twenty countries deconstruct many of the widespread misconceptions and interpretations of Christianity in Asia. They analyze how the growth of Christian beliefs throughout the continent is linked with the socio-political and cultural processes of colonization, decolonization, modernization, democratization, identity construction of social groups, and various social movements. With a particular focus on inter-religious encounters and emerging theological and spiritual paradigms, the volume provides alternative frames for understanding the phenomenon of conversion and studies how the scriptures of other religious traditions are used in the practice of Christianity within Asia.

Who Owns Religion? Laurie L. Patton, 2019-11-27. Who Owns Religion focuses on a period from the late 1980s through the 1990s when scholars of religion were accused of scandalizing or denigrating the very communities they had imagined themselves honoring through their work. While controversies involving scholarly claims about religion are nothing new, this period saw an increase in vitriol that remains with us today. Authors of seemingly arcane studies on subjects like the origins of the idea of Mother Earth or the sexual dynamics of mysticism have been targets of hate mail and book-banning campaigns. As a result, scholars of religion have struggled to describe their own work to their various publics and even to themselves Taking the reader through several compelling case studies Patton identifies two trends of the 80s and 90s that fueled that rise the growth of multicultural identity politics which enabled a form of volatile public debate she terms eruptive public space and the advent of the internet which offered new ways for religious groups to read scholarship and respond publicly These controversies she shows were also fundamentally about something new the very rights of secular Western scholarship to interpret religions at all Patton s book holds out hope that scholars can find a space for their work between the university and the communities they study Scholars of religion she argues have multiple masters and must move between them while writing histories and speaking about realities that not everyone may be interested in hearing Christian Approaches to Other Faiths Paul Hedges, Alan Race, 2008 A textbook that explains the history rationale and workings of the various approaches It deals with attitudes towards different faiths considering the problems and relations that exist with Christian approaches

The Oxford Handbook of Religion and Race in American History Kathryn Gin Lum, Paul Harvey, 2018 The Oxford Handbook of Religion and Race in American History brings together a number of established scholars as well as younger scholars on the rise to provide a scholarly overview for those interested in the role of religion and race in American history Thirty four scholars from the fields of History Religious Studies Sociology Anthropology and more investigate the complex interdependencies of religion and race from pre Columbian origins to the present The volume addresses the religious experience social realities theologies and sociologies of racialized groups in American religious history as well as the ways that religious myths institutions and practices contributed to their racialization Part One begins with a broad introductory survey outlining some of the major terms and explaining the intersections of race and religions in various traditions and cultures across time Part Two provides chronologically arranged accounts of specific historical periods that follow a narrative of religion and race through four plus centuries Taken together The Oxford Handbook of Religion and Race in American History provides a reliable scholarly text and resource to summarize and guide work in this subject and to help make sense of contemporary issues and dilemmas

Dill,2013-07-18 As the world seemingly gets smaller and smaller schools around the globe are focusing their attention on expanding the consciousness and competencies of their students to prepare them for the conditions of globalization Global citizenship education is rapidly growing in popularity because it captures the longings of so many to help make a world of prosperity universal benevolence and human rights in the midst of globalization s varied processes of change

This book offers an empirical account from the perspective of teachers and classrooms based on a qualitative study of ten secondary schools in the United States and Asia that explicitly focus on making global citizens. Global citizenship in these schools has two main elements: both global competencies (economic skills and global consciousness) and ethical orientations that proponents hope will bring global prosperity and peace. However, many of the moral assumptions of global citizenship education are more complex and contradict these goals and are just as likely to have the unintended consequence of reinforcing a more particular Western individualism. While not arguing against global citizenship education per se, the book argues that in its current forms it has significant limits that proponents have not yet acknowledged, which may very well undermine it in the long run.
