Ships of Stone in the Adriatic Ivo Eterović, Čedomir Kolar, 1984      A Maritime History of Bath, Maine and the Kennebec River Region William A. Baker, 1973      Venetian Ships and Shipbuilders of the Renaissance Frederic Chapin Lane, 2018-12-01
ORIGINALLY published in 1934 this major study by Frederic Lane tracks the rise and decline of the great shipbuilding industry of Renaissance Venice Drawing on a wealth of archival sources Lane presents detailed descriptions of the Venetian arsenal including the great galleys that doubled as cargo ships and warships the sixteenth century round ships which introduced dramatic innovations in rigging and were less vulnerable to attack than the galleys and the majestic galleons whose straight lines and greater speed made them ideal for merchantmen but whose narrowness made them liable to capsize if loaded with artillery Lane also includes vivid accounts of the rivalries between the famous shipbuilders of the period There was the impassioned competition between Leonardo Bressan and Marco Francesco Rosso to design the quickest lightest galley a contest that Bressan won when Rosso was crushed to death the race between Vettor Fausto and Matteo Bressan to build the best galleon for use against pirates and the rivalry between Bernardo di Bernardo and Nicol Palopano to be the master builder of great merchant galleys Additional chapters detail the actual process of ship construction from the design stage to framing and ribbing the hull to building the rigging the organization and activity of the shipbuilders craft guilds and the various private shipyards and the development and management of the Arsenal Tables and appendixes detail the types measurements number and capacity of the ships as well as the wages of the shipbuilders

The decline of Venice remains one of the classic episodes in the economic development of modern Europe Its contrasts are familiar enough the wealthiest commercial power in fifteenth century Europe the strongest western colonial power in the eastern Mediterranean found its principal fame three centuries later in carnival and the arts This metamorphosis from commercial hegemony to fashionable pleasure and landed wealth was however a complex process It resulted not so much from the Portuguese voyages of discovery at the beginning of the sixteenth century as from increasing Dutch and English competition at its end and from industrial competition chiefly from beyond the Mediterranean Several of the Articles Dr Pullan has chosen to illustrate these changes are made available in English for the first time and two have been revised for this book Four deal with the fortunes of entrepot trade and shipbuilding which had furnished the basis of Venetian wealth and influence in the Middle Ages four others examine the new fields of enterprise which Venice explored in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and which helped to compensate for the decline in traditional activities This classic book was first published in 1968      Transport Infrastructure and Systems Gianluca Dell'Acqua,Fred Wegman,2017-03-16
