Red Flag and Union Jack Paul Ward, 1998 It is generally assumed that the language of patriotism and national identity belongs to the political right but the emergence of socialism in the 1880s shows clearly that the left also drew on such ideas in its formative years to legitimate a particular form of socialism one presented as a restoration of an English past lost to industrial capitalism The First World War dealt a severe blow to this radical patriotism though the anti war left continued to use radical patriotic language in the early years the war degraded patriotism generally while the Russian Revolution gave internationalism a new focus and also threatened the dominant concept of British socialism Moderate Labour sought to prove their fitness to govern and concentrated on the national interest rather than oppositional Englishness while the left of the movement looked to Soviet Russia rather than the English past for models for a future socialist society PAUL WARD is lecturer in Modern British History at Royal Holloway University of London and Visiting Lecturer at the University of Westminster The Red International of Labour Unions (RILU) 1920 - 1937 Reiner Tosstorff, 2016-09-07 The Red International of Labour Unions RILU Russian abbreviation Profintern was a central instrument for the spreading of international communism during the inter war period This comprehensive and scholarly history of the organisation based on extensive research in the former communist archives in Moscow and East Berlin sheds significant light on the international trade union movement of the period Tosstorff shows how the RILU began as a revolutionary alliance of syndicalists and communists in defiance of the social democratic International Federation of Trade Unions His text presents a full account of the organisation s main stages the decline of the revolutionary wave after World War One after which many syndicalists left and others were integrated into the communist parties the continuation of the RILU as an international communist apparatus and its dissolution in 1936 7 as part of communism s popular front policy First published in German as Profintern Die Rote
