Hunter, Richard A. Brisbin, 2016-02-15 Although scholars in the disciplines of law psychology philosophy and sociology have published a considerable number of prescriptive normative and theoretical studies of animals in society Pet Politics presents the first study of the development of companion animal or pet law and policy in Canada and the United States by political scientists The authors examine how people and governments classify three species of pets or companion animals cats dogs and horses for various degrees of legal protection They then detail how interest groups shape the agenda for companion animal legislation and regulation and the legislative and administrative formulation of anticruelty kennel licensing horse slaughter feral and roaming cat and breed ban policies Finally they examine the enforcement of these laws and policies by agencies and the courts Using an eclectic mix of original empirical data original case studies and interviews and relying on general theories and research about the policy process and the sociopolitical function of legality the authors illustrate that pet policy is a unique field of political struggle a conflict that originates from differing perspectives about whether pets are property or autonomous beings and clashing norms about the care of animals The result of the political struggle the authors argue is difficulty in the enactment of policies and especially in the implementation and enforcement of laws that might improve the welfare of companion animals

Pet Projects Elizabeth Young, 2019-12-17. In Pet Projects, Elizabeth Young joins an analysis of the representation of animals in nineteenth-century fiction, taxidermy and the visual arts with a first-person reflection on her own scholarly journey. Centering on Margaret Marshall Saunders, a Canadian woman writer once famous for her animal novels and incorporating Young's own experience of a beloved animal's illness, this study highlights the personal and intellectual stakes of a pet project of cultural criticism. Young assembles a broad archive of materials beginning with Saunders's novels and widening outward to include fiction, nonfiction, photography and taxidermy. She coins the term first dog voice to describe the narrative technique of novels such as Saunders's Beautiful Joe written in the first person from the perspective of an animal. She connects this voice to contemporary political issues, revealing how animal fiction such as Saunders's reanimates nineteenth-century writing about both feminism and slavery. Highlighting the prominence of taxidermy in the late nineteenth century, she suggests that Saunders transforms taxidermic techniques in surprising ways that provide new forms of authority for women. Young adapts Freud to analyze literary representations of mourning by and for animals and she examines how Canadian writers including Saunders use animals to explore race, ethnicity and national identity. Her wide-ranging investigation incorporates twenty-first as well as nineteenth-century works of literature and culture, including recent art using taxidermy and contemporary film. Throughout, she reflects on the tools she uses to craft her analyses, examining the state of scholarly fields from feminist criticism to animal studies. With a lively first-person voice that highlights experiences usually concealed in academic studies by scholarly discourse such as detours, zigzags, roadblocks and personal experience, this unique and innovative book will delight animal enthusiasts and academics in the fields of animal studies, gender studies, American studies and Canadian studies.

Why Animal Experimentation Matters Ellen Frankel Paul, Jeffrey Paul. Animal experimentation has made a crucial contribution to many of the most important advances in modern medicine The development of vaccines for deadly viruses like rabies and yellow fever depended upon animal research and much of our basic knowledge about human health and physiology was discovered through the use of animals as well In spite of these gains animal rights activists have been zealous in communicating to the public and policymakers their view that the use of animals in medical research is morally wrong and should be severely curtailed or eliminated The activists arguments draw upon a range of disciplines and focus on both practical and ethical aspects of animal experimentation Advocates of animal experimentation have been slow to respond to these arguments Given that the worldwide toll of communicable diseases is still immense and that deadly new pathogens may emerge at any time in the future to menace human health failing to defend animal experimentation from the arguments of its opponents has disastrous implications A quick response to an unanticipated threat on the order of the AIDS epidemic is unimaginable absent a vigorous research establishment which in turn is dependent on animal proxies Why Animal Experimentation Matters is a first attempt by research scientists and moral philosophers to mount a convincing defense against animal rights enthusiasts Because opponents of animal experimentation come from a variety of intellectual backgrounds this defense is necessarily interdisciplinary as well In this collection of eight essays the authors scrutinize how animal experimentation actually functions in the laboratory the vital role that it plays in palliating and eradicating human and animal diseases and the moral justification for sacrificing animals for the betterment of human life The subjects covered in the essays include the moral status of animals and persons the importance of animals for advancing scientific knowledge the history of animal experimentation and of its detractors differing theoretical approaches of American and European animal experimentation regulations the heavily restrictive legislation promoted by animal rights activists and the threats posed to research and researchers by violent animal rights zealots Contributors include Baruch Brody H Tristram Englehardt Jr R G Frey Kenneth F Kiple and Kriemhild Cone Ornelas Adrian R Morrison Charles S Nicoll and Sharon M Russell Jerrold Tannenbaum and Stuart M Zola This important anthology will be of interest to scientists philosophers individuals suffering from heritable or communicable diseases relatives of afflicted individuals and policymakers Ellen Frankel Paul is deputy director of the Social Philosophy and Policy Center professor of political science and philosophy at Bowling Green State University and editor in chief of the journal Social Philosophy both are professors of philosophy at Bowling Green State University

A Short History of the Hebrews to the Roman Period Robert L. Ottley, 1904

Wild Animal Story Ralph Lutts, 2001-09-12 At the beginning of the twentieth century the wild animal story emerged in Canadian literature as a distinct genre in which animals pursue their own interests survival for themselves their offspring and perhaps a mate or the pure pleasure of their wildness Bringing together some of the most celebrated wild animal stories Ralph H Lutts places them firmly in the context of heated controversies about animal intelligence and purposeful behavior Widely regarded as entertaining and educational the early stories by Charles G D Roberts Ernest Thompson Seton John Muir Jack London and others had an avid readership among adults and children But some naturalists and at least one hunter Theodore Roosevelt discredited these writers as nature fakers accusing them of falsely portraying animal behavior The stories and commentaries collected here span the twentieth century As present day animal behaviorists psychologists and the public attempt to sort out the meaning of what animals do and our obligations to them Ralph Lutts maps some of the prominent features of our cultural landscape Tales include The Springfield Fox by Ernest Thompson Seton The Sounding of the Call by Jack London Stickeen by John Muir Journey to the Sea by Rachel Carson Other selections include essays by Theodore Roosevelt John Burroughs Margaret Atwood and Ralph H Lutts postamble

Confronting Cruelty Lyle Munro, 2005-03-01 Why and how do people campaign on behalf of a species that is not their own Responses to this question provide important insights into the much misunderstood animal rights movement and the people in it who challenge the moral orthodoxy that underpins our attitudes towards nonhuman animals The norm of moderate concern for animals that animals matter albeit less than humans permits the abuse of animals in vivisection factory farming bloodsports and other contexts where animals suffer Social movement theory is used to show how animal rights activists are engaged in the social construction of cruelty as a social problem which they seek to prevent by their intellectual practical and emotion work in seminal campaigns against cruelty in the United States England and Australia
