NowHere Roger Friedland, Deirdre Boden, 2023-11-15 The fall of the Berlin wall, the uprising at Tiananmen Square, the war in the Persian Gulf, the conflict in Bosnia—such events have been fundamentally affected by modern technology. As we become instant spectators of war, famine, and revolution, time and space assume new global meanings. This provocative volume presents an eclectic group of contributors who attempt to make sense of the now and the here that define the modern age. The essays by anthropologists, religionists, geographers, linguists, sociologists, and historians explore the temporal and spatial facets of social life. Their range is remarkable and includes English landscape painting, talk in corporations, agoraphobic women, the ecological structure of Los Angeles, the cosmology of the Holocaust, and the ritual spaces of Buddhist Japan and the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem. The editors' introduction addresses the diversity of these empirical concerns and positions them within a rapidly expanding theoretical landscape. The editors have a distinguished record of innovative research in the field, being responsible for a number of seminal empirical and theoretical articles. In this volume, they have collected together, and for the first time, all the most significant contributions to the field. The collection includes an introductory essay by the editors and articles reflecting an overview of the field, the causes of vulnerability, the sources of information on victimisation, the methods used to survey fear, the theoretical models employed to explain it, and the nature of policies designed to reduce fear.
