Teichroeb, Nicholas Malone, 2019-01-31 This book takes a new approach to understanding primate conservation research adding a personal perspective to allow readers to learn what motivates those doing conservation work When entering the field over a decade ago many young primatologists were driven by evolutionary questions centered in behavioural ecology However given the current environment of cascading extinctions and increasing threats to primates we now need to ensure that primates remain in viable populations in the wild before we can simply engage in research in the context of pure behavioural ecology This has changed the primary research aims of many primatologists and shifted our focus to conservation priorities such as understanding the impacts of human activity habitat conversion or climate change on primates This book presents personal narratives alongside empirical research results and discussions of strategies used to stem the tide of extinction It is a must have for anyone interested in conservation research Descriptive Water Quality for the Atchafalaya Basin, Louisiana S. Great Lakes Degree-day and Temperature Summaries and Norms, 1897-1977 Raymond A. Assel, 1980 Daily maximum and minimum air temperatures at 25 locations on the perimeter of the Great Lakes for the period 1897 to 1977 were used to generate long term daily air temperatures and freezing and thawing degree days FDD s and TDD s In addition daily weekly and monthly FDD s and daily TDD s were calculated for the 81 summer and 80 winter seasons between 1897 and 1877 this report describes the computational procedure and presents graphs and tables resulting from this analysis The complete analysis is too voluminous to present in hard copy but is available on microfilm through World Data Center A Institute of Arctic and Alpine research University of Colorado at Boulder Boulder Colorado 80309 A Status Report on the San Felipe Division, Central Valley Project, California ,1981 Bulletin University of Nevada.
