Meaning Of Housing A Pathways Approach:

The meaning of housing Clapham, David, 2005-07-20 This book offers a fresh new approach to the study of housing It explores the meaning that housing has for individuals and households by examining housing pathways Housing pathways refer to the varying household forms that individuals experience and the housing routes that they take over time The book argues that housing has increasingly become a means to an end rather than an end in itself The end is personal fulfilment and the main task of housing research is to elucidate the links In this pursuit the concepts of identity and lifestyle are key Specifically the book examines the structure and functioning of households and links this to changing discourses of the family explores the important interconnections between housing and employment considers the relationship between people and the physical aspects of a house and its location looks at housing in terms of lifestyle choice from youth to old age and discusses the implications of the pathways approach for housing policy and future research in the field The meaning of housing is recommended to anyone researching and studying housing and particularly to those wishing to engage with the new research agenda set out here In Dwelling Peter King, 2016-05-23 A dwelling or the physical space we call a house is full of meaning for us It can be implacable in that it can work for or against us depending on how we are able to access and use it This means that we have to learn to accept dwelling as it is and find some accommodation with our surrounding environment This book develops a new approach to looking at dwelling and how we use it It explores the manner in which we use housing to exclude others and so protect our privacy It also argues we need to exclude others in order to protect and nurture our loved ones The book combines philosophical analysis and literary and film criticism to put forward an innovative and insightful new approach to looking at housing It draws on the work of thinkers as diverse as Aristotle Derrida Kierkegaard Nussbaum and Scruton and the films of Chaplin Bergman Lynch Tarr Teshigahara and Van Sant to construct a new theoretical approach to housing research Upsold Max Besbris, 2020-09-05 What do you want for yourself in the next five ten years Do your plans involve marriage kids a new job These are the questions a real estate agent might ask in an attempt to unearth information they can employ to complete a sale which as Upsold shows often results in upselling In this book sociologist Max Besbris shows how agents successfully upsell inducing buyers to spend more than their initially stated price ceilings His research reveals how face to face interactions influence buyers ideas about which neighborhoods are desirable and which are less worthy investments and how these preferences ultimately contribute to neighborhood inequality Stratification defines cities in the contemporary United States In an era marked by increasing income segregation one of the main sources of this inequality is housing prices A crucial part of wealth inequality housing prices are also directly linked to the uneven distribution of resources across neighborhoods and to racial and ethnic segregation Upsold shows how the interactions between real estate agents and buyers make or break neighborhood reputations and construct neighborhoods by price Employing revealing ethnographic and quantitative housing data Besbris outlines precisely how social influences come together during the sales process In Upsold we get a deep dive into the role that the interactions with sales agents play in buyers decision making and how neighborhoods are differentiated valorized and deemed to be worthy of a certain price

The Principles of Housing Peter King,2015-11-19 The Principles of Housing is an engaging and discursive introduction to the key topics within housing studies Whereas many books get bogged down in country specific policy or small innovations this book argues that the fundamental concepts of what we call housing are relatively stable and unchangeable By focusing on universal principles the book provides an introduction to housing that can be used by students world wide The book consists of a series of short chapters relating to the key issues of housing such as borrowing choice finance government need reform and welfare Each chapter is designed to be a starting point for a wider conversation with discussion questions and a number of think pieces and international case studies to help students connect these general principles to their own surroundings Written by renowned housing expert Peter King The Principles of Housing succeeds in being accessible and engaging without shying away from the complexities of housing issues The book will be invaluable to students on housing related courses across finance real estate planning development politics and sociology subjects The book would also be useful to housing professionals and policy makers aiming to expand their understanding of housing issues

The SAGE Handbook of Housing Studies David F Clapham,William A V Clark,Kenneth Gibb,2012-04-20 Cross disciplinary and critical in its approach The SAGE Handbook of Housing Studies is an elucidating look at the key issues within the field It covers the study of housing retrospectively but also analyses the future directions of research and theory demonstrating how it can contribute to wider debates in the social sciences A comprehensive introductory chapter is followed by four parts offering complete coverage of the area Markets examines the perception of housing markets how they function in different contexts and the importance of housing behaviour and neighbourhoods Approaches looks at how other disciplines economics geography and sociology have informed the direction of housing studies Context traces the interactions between housing studies and other aspects of society providing context to debate housing through issues of space social welfare and the environment Policy is a multi disciplinary and comprehensive take on the major policy issues and the causes and possible solutions of housing problems such as regeneration and homelessness Edited by leading names in the field and including international contributions the book is a stimulating wide ranging read that will be an invaluable resource for academics and researchers in geography urban studies sociology social policy economics and politics

Why We Build With Brick Felicity Cannell,2023-07-31 This book focuses on the contemporary fired clay brick to explore themes of home and house homeownership materiality and sense of place It investigates why despite an increasing number of alternative materials brick remains at the forefront of what people in the UK in particular expect homes to be built of and how brick is indelibly entwined with what home means something materially stable and financially secure affording a located sense of place Through observation of the building process and interviews with bricklayers foremen planners developers and homebuyers in England Felicity Cannell traces the embedded meanings of a mundane ubiquitous artefact and reveals the tensions and contradictions in today's use of brick to signify the traditional home Although easing the planning process and leading to quick sales the way brick is used in mass market housing today considerably restricts its capacities notably decoration flexibility and strength the very qualities which have historically positioned this tremendously versatile material as the superlative building block Overall the book adds complexity to the study of home and prompts debate about why we build the way we do

Housing Transitions Through the Life Course Andrew Beer, Debbie Faulkner, 2011 Lifetime attitudes to housing have changed with new population dynamics driving the market and a greater emphasis on consumption This important contribution to the literature argues that how we think about households and their housing needs to be recast to acknowledge this changed environment and provide a more powerful conceptual framework

Inhabitation in Nature David Clapham, 2024-04-09 Rejecting the assumption that housing and cities are separate from nature David Clapham advances a new research framework that integrates housing with the rest of the natural world Demonstrating the wider context of human lives and the impact of housing on the non human environment the author considers the impact of current inhabitation practices on climate change and biodiversity Showcasing the significant contribution that housing policy can make in mitigating environmental problems this book will stimulate debate amongst housing researchers and policy makers Affluence, Mobility and Second Home Ownership Chris Paris,2010-10-04

Despite the current recession the frequency of second home ownership is still surprisingly high throughout the western world While the UK and Ireland previously had lower occurrences of multiple dwellings compared to the rest of Europe they are quickly catching up with a current surge in the ownership of second homes The recent MP expenses scandal in the UK has also drawn attention to the prevalence of second homes or more within the middle classes and the fact that the concept is becoming increasingly popular Chris Paris uses this text to address the reasons behind why second homes are becoming more popular both within the usual domicile of the individuals and in international locations The socioeconomic factors and historical contexts of homes in cultures across the world are fundamental to explaining the choices in transnational home ownership and Paris case studies and comparisons between additional homes in Europe Australia America and Asia expand upon the motivation for people to own a second home Affluence Mobility and Second Home Ownership draws together debates on gentrification globalisation consumerism environmental factors and investment to provide a balanced look at the pros and cons of second home ownership and what implications it has for the future An ideal text for students studying geography urbanism and planning this book is also of interest to individuals interested in the changing ways in which we make choices on our places of residence The New Politics of Home Eleanor Jupp,Sophie Bowlby,Jane Franklin,Sarah

Marie Hall,2019-06-26 Home and care are central aspects of everyday personal lives yet they are also shaped by political and economic change Within a context of austerity economic restructuring worsening inequality and resource rationing the policies and experiences around these key areas are shifting Taking an interdisciplinary and feminist perspective this book illustrates how economic and political changes affect everyday lives for many families and households in the UK Setting out both new empirical material and new conceptual terrain the authors draw on approaches from human geography social policy and feminist and political theory to explore issues of home and care in times of crisis Social Policy John

The Millennial City Markus Moos, Deirdre Pfeiffer, Tara Vinodrai, 2017-08-04 Millennials have captured our imaginaries in recent years The conventional wisdom is that this generation of young adults lives in downtown neighbourhoods near cafes public transit and other amenities Yet this depiction is rarely unpacked nor problematized Despite some commonalities the Millennial generation is highly diverse and many face housing affordability and labour market constraints Regardless as the largest generation following the post World War II baby boom Millennials will surely leave their mark on cities This book assesses the impact of Millennials on cities It asks how the Millennial generation differs from previous generations in terms of their labour market experiences housing outcomes transportation decisions the opportunities available to them and the constraints they face It also explores the urban planning and public policy implications that arise from these generational shifts This book offers a generational lens that faculty students and other readers with interest in the fields of urban studies planning geography economic development demography or sociology will find useful in interpreting contemporary U S and Canadian cities It also provides guidance to planners and policymakers on how to think about Millennials in their work and make decisions that will allow all generations to thrive

Consuming Architecture Daniel Maudlin, Marcel Vellinga, 2014-03-05 Projecting forward in time from the processes of design and construction that are so often the focus of architectural discourse Consuming Architecture examines the variety of ways in which buildings are consumed after they have been produced focusing in particular on processes of occupation appropriation and interpretation Drawing on contributions by architects historians anthropologists literary critics artists film makers photographers and journalists it shows how the consumption of architecture is a dynamic and creative act that involves the creation and negotiation of meanings and values by different stakeholders and that can be expressed in different voices In so doing it challenges ideas of what constitutes architecture architectural discourse and architectural education how we understand and think about it and who can claim ownership of it Consuming Architecture is aimed at students in architectural education and will also be of interest to students and researchers from disciplines that deal with architecture in terms of consumption and material culture

Micro-residential Dynamics Shlomit Flint Ashery, 2018-09-14 This book examines how non economic inter and intra group relationships were reflected in residential patterns around the first decade of the 21st century in Whitechapel an old yet attractive absorption neighbourhood in east London UK It sheds light on different levels of organisation that shape urban space and suggests an integrated understanding linking socio cultural religious norms and the urban environment that could be extrapolated to other cities It studies core methodologies through joining of detailed primary empirical research collected through direct engagement with the communities of interest with a wider theoretical and modelling framework This study identifies the main engines of organised neighbourhood change and the difficulties of planning It deals with individuals in the housing market and sheds light on similar processes occurring in other city centres with diverse population groups Based on residential records at the resolution of single family and apartment covering a period of 17 years the study reveals and analyses powerful mechanisms of residential relations at the apartment building and the near neighbourhood level Taken together these revealed mechanisms are candidates for explaining the dynamics of residential segregation in the area during the period 1995 to 2012 Whitechapel's communities are extremely diverse composed of 27 ethnic and religious groups and sub groups The residential preferences of group members are highly affected by the need to live among friends other members of the same group How is it that the area has been so attractive for so many people to live in whilst at the same time being so diverse that people cannot achieve their stated preferences to live amongst friends
