Martin, 2003 The Archaeology of Contextual Meanings Ian Hodder, 1987-08-06 This companion volume to Archaeology as Long term History focuses on the symbolism of artefacts It seeks at once to refine the theory and method relating to interpretation and show with examples how to conduct this sort of archaeological work Some contributors work with the material culture of modern times or the historic period areas in which the symbolism of mute artefacts has traditionally been thought most accessible However the book also contains a good number of applications in prehistory to demonstrate the feasibility of symbolic interpretation where good contextual data survive from the distant past In relation to wider debates within the social sciences the volume is characterised by a concern to place abstract symbolic codes within their historical context and within the contexts of social actions In this respect it develops further some of the ideas presented in Dr Hodder

s Symbolic and Structural Archaeology an earlier volume in this series Foundational Issues Markus Werning, Edouard Machery, Gerhard Schurz, 2013-05-02 Representational systems such as language mind and perhaps even the brain exhibit a structure that is often assumed to be compositional That is the semantic value of a complex representation is determined by the semantic value of their parts and the way they are put together Dating back to the late 19th century the principle of compositionality has regained wide attention recently Since the principle has been dealt with very differently across disciplines the aim of the two volumes is to bring together the diverging approaches They assemble a collection of original papers that cover the topic of compositionality from virtually all perspectives of interest in the contemporary debate The well chosen international list of authors includes psychologists neuroscientists computer scientists linguists and philosophers
