Measuring Housing Discrimination in a National Study Committee on National Statistics, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, National Research Council, 2002-03-14 Federal law prohibits housing discrimination on the basis of seven protected classes including race. Despite 30 years of legal prohibition under the Fair Housing Act, however, there is evidence of continuing discrimination in American housing as documented by several recent reports. In 1998, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) funded a $7.5 million independently conducted Housing Discrimination Survey (HDS) of racial and ethnic discrimination in housing rental sales and lending markets. Public Law 105-276. This survey is the third such effort sponsored by HUD. Its intent is to provide a detailed understanding of the patterns of discrimination in housing nationwide. In 1999, the Committee on National Statistics (CNSTAT) of the National Research Council (NRC) was asked to review the research design and analysis plan for the 2000 HDS and to offer suggestions about appropriate sampling and analysis procedures. The review took the form of a workshop that addressed HUD's concerns about the adequacy of the sample design and analysis plan as well as questions related to the measurement of various aspects of discrimination and issues that might bias the results obtained. The discussion also explored alternative methodologies and research needs. In addition to addressing methodological and substantive issues related specifically to the HDS, the workshop examined broader questions related to the measurement of discrimination.

National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on National Statistics, Panel on Methods for Assessing Discrimination, 2004-06-24. Many racial and ethnic groups in the United States, including blacks, Hispanics, Asians, American Indians, and others, have historically faced severe discrimination. Pervasive and open denial of civil, social, political, educational, and economic opportunities. Today, large differences among racial and ethnic groups continue to exist in employment, income, and wealth, housing, education, criminal justice, health, and other areas. While many factors may contribute to such differences, their size and extent suggest that various forms of discriminatory treatment persist in U.S. society and serve to undercut the achievement of equal opportunity. Measuring Racial Discrimination considers the definition of race and racial discrimination, reviews the existing techniques used to measure racial discrimination, and identifies new tools and areas for future research. The book conducts a thorough evaluation of current methodologies for a wide range of circumstances in which racial discrimination may occur and makes recommendations on how to better assess the presence and effects of discrimination.

The Affordable Housing Reader. Elizabeth J. Mueller, J. Rosie Tighe, 2013-03-05. The Affordable Housing Reader brings together classic works and contemporary writing on the themes and debates that have animated the field of affordable housing policy, as well as the challenges in achieving the goals of policy on the ground. The Reader, aimed at professors, students, and researchers, provides an overview of the literature on housing policy and planning that is both comprehensive and interdisciplinary. It is particularly suited for graduate and undergraduate courses on housing policy offered to students of public policy and city planning. The Reader is structured around the key debates in affordable housing, ranging from the conflicting motivations for housing policy through analysis of the causes of and solutions to housing problems to concerns about gentrification and housing and race Each debate is contextualized in an introductory essay by the editors and illustrated with a range of texts and articles Elizabeth Mueller and Rosie Tighe have brought together for the first time into a single volume the best and most influential writings on housing and its importance for planners and policy makers

Analyzing Information on Women-Owned Small Businesses in Federal Contracting National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on National Statistics, Steering Committee for the Workshop on Women-Owned Small Businesses in Federal Contracting, 2005-03-28 It has been clear for at least 50 years the disadvantages that small businesses face in competing for U S government contracts The Small Business Act of 1953 created the Small Business Administration SBA an independent agency in the executive branch that counsels and assists specific types of small businesses including firms owned by minorities and other socially and economically disadvantaged individuals and firms owned by women Women owned small businesses however are underrepresented or substantially underrepresented in some industries In 2002 the SBA Office of Federal Contract Assistance for Women Business Owners CAWBO organized a draft study containing a preliminary set of approximations of the representation of women owned small businesses in federal prime contracts over 25 000 by industry Because of the past legal challenges to race and gender conscious contracting programs at the federal and local levels the SBA asked the Committee on National Statistics of the National Academies to conduct an independent review of relevant data and estimation methods prior to finalizing the CAWBO study The Steering Committee on Women Owned Small Businesses in Federal Contracting was created and charged with holding a workshop to discuss topics including the accuracy of data and methods to estimate the use of women owned small businesses in federal contracting and the definition of underrepresentation and substantial underrepresentation in designating industries for which preferential contracting programs might be warranted Analyzing Information on Women Owned Small Businesses in Federal Contracting presents the committee s report as well as the recommendations that committees have made

GIS for Housing and Urban Development National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Earth Sciences and Resources, Committee on Geography, Committee on Review of Geographic Information Systems Research and Applications at HUD: Current Programs and Future Prospects, 2003-02-26 The report describes potential applications of geographic information systems GIS and spatial analysis by HUD s Office of Policy Development and Research for understanding housing needs addressing broader issues of urban poverty and community development and improving access to information and services by the many users of HUD s data It offers a vision of HUD as an important player in providing urban data to federal initiatives towards a spatial data infrastructure for the nation

The Geography of Opportunity Xavier de Souza Briggs, 2006-03-30 A popular version of history trumpets the United States as a diverse nation of immigrants welcome to all The truth however is that local communities have a long history of ambivalence toward new arrivals and minorities Persistent patterns of segregation by race and income still exist in housing and schools along with a growing emphasis on rapid metropolitan development sprawl that encourages upwardly mobile families to abandon older communities and their problems. This dual pattern is becoming increasingly important as America grows more diverse than ever and economic inequality increases. Two recent trends compel new attention to these issues. First, the geography of race and class represents a crucial litmus test for the new regionalism, the political movement to address the linked fortunes of cities and suburbs. Second, housing has all but disappeared as a major social policy issue over the past two decades. This timely book shows how unequal housing choices and sprawling development create an unequal geography of opportunity. It emerges from a project sponsored by the Civil Rights Project at Harvard University in collaboration with the Joint Center for Housing Studies and the Brookings Institution. The contributors, policy analysts, political observers, social scientists, and urban planners document key patterns, their consequences, and how we can respond, taking a hard look at both successes and failures of the past. Place still matters, perhaps more than ever. High levels of segregation shape education and job opportunity, crime and insecurity, and long-term economic prospects. These problems cannot be addressed effectively if society assumes that segregation will take care of itself. Contributors include William Apgar, Harvard University; Judith Bell, PolicyLink; Angela Glover Blackwell, PolicyLink; Allegra Calder, Harvard; Karen Chapple, Cal Berkeley; Camille Charles, Penn State; Mary Cunningham, Urban Institute; Casey Dawkins, Virginia.

Fragile Rights Within Cities John Goering, 2007. How fair are America's urban housing markets and how effective is the government at ensuring open and diverse housing options for minority groups? To answer these questions, Fragile Rights Within Cities offers a current social science and policy examination of the understudied issue of equal opportunity, trends, and enforcement practices in housing. The contributors to this collection, who are among the country's major analysts of race and ethnicity, housing, and public policies, provide a rich, multi-disciplinary assessment of government programs aimed at enforcing one of America's hallmark civil rights laws. By evaluating roughly 40 years of civil rights education and enforcement within the nation's effort to promote fairness in housing markets, these experts provide a sense of possible policy options for the future.

The Fight for Fair Housing Gregory D. Squires, 2017-10-16. The federal Fair Housing Act of 1968 was passed in a time of turmoil, conflict, and often conflagration in cities across the nation. It took the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to finally secure its passage. The Kerner Commission warned in 1968 that to continue present policies is to make permanent the division of our country into two societies: one largely Negro and poor, located in the central cities; the other predominantly white and affluent, located in the suburbs and outlying areas. The Fair Housing Act was passed with a dual mandate: to end discrimination and to dismantle the segregated living patterns that characterized most cities. The Fight for Fair Housing tells us what happened, why, and what remains to be done. Since the passage of the Fair Housing Act, the many forms of housing discrimination and segregation and associated consequences have been documented. At the same time, significant progress has been made in counteracting discrimination and promoting integration Few suburbs today are all white many people of color are moving to the suburbs and some white families are moving back to the city Unfortunately discrimination and segregation persist The Fight for Fair Housing brings together the nation's leading fair housing activists and scholars many of whom are in both camps to tell the stories that led to the passage of the Fair Housing Act its consequences and the implications of the act going forward Including an afterword by Walter Mondale this book is intended for everyone concerned with the future of our cities and equal access for all persons to housing and related opportunities

Rental Housing Discrimination on the Basis of Mental Disabilities Joy Hammel, Autonomous Vehicle Ethics Ryan Jenkins, David Cerný, Tomás Hríbek, 2022 This book represents a substantial and purposeful effort to move the academic discussion beyond the trolley problem to the broader ethical legal and social implications that autonomous vehicles present There are still urgent questions waiting to be addressed for example how AVs might interact with human drivers in mixed or hybrid traffic environments how AVs might reshape our urban landscapes what unique security or privacy concerns are raised by AVs as connected devices in the Internet of Things how the benefits and burdens of this new technology including mobility traffic congestion and pollution will be distributed throughout society and more

Symposium, the Fair Housing Act After 40 Years, 2008 Rebuilding the Research Capacity at HUD National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Center for Economic, Governance, and International Studies, Committee to Evaluate the Research Plan of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, 2009-01-01 Today the nation faces an array of housing and urban policy challenges No federal department other than HUD focuses explicitly on the well being of urban places or on the spatial relationships among people and economic activities in urban areas If HUD Congress mayors and other policy makers are to respond effectively to urban issues they need a much more robust and effective Office of Policy Development and Research PD R PD R conducts independent research and program evaluation funds data collection and research by outside organizations and provides policy advice to the Secretary and to other offices in HUD Most of PD R's work is of high quality relevant timely and useful With adequate resources PD R could lead the nation's ongoing process of learning debate and experimentation about critical housing and urban development challenges Rebuilding the Research Capacity at HUD makes seven major recommendations about PD R's resources and responsibilities including more active engagement with policy makers formalizing various informal practices strengthening surveys and data sets and more Acknowledging that the current level of funding for PD R is inadequate the book also makes several additional recommendations to help enable PD R to reach its full potential
