Environmental Politics and Liberation in Contemporary Africa M.A. Salih, 2013-03-14 Nowadays the environment looms large in the analysis of conflict in developing societies and the precise role it plays is the subject of an ongoing debate The debate has moved on from the earlier but still popular notions of power struggles class struggles and ethnic conflicts to a perception of conflict as the product of intense group competition for resources Where the state controls the distribution of resources itself inevitably becomes party to conflicts whose bone of contention is access to state power as the most efficient means of gaining access to resources The resources in question are social health education transportation communication recreation etc and material land water housing jobs contracts licenses permits etc In parts of the world and especially in Africa diminishing resources and authoritarian state rule exacerbate group competition leading to political confrontation This is the line I have followed in analysing conflict in the Horn of Africa Markakis 1987 1998 Mohamed Salih's first contribution in this volume is to move the debate a step beyond this line which can be criticized as unduly materialist He does it by bringing culture into the realm of resources not only as a resource in itself but also as the agency that assigns natural resources their value Culture thus becomes a contextual element in conflict over resources whose value is culturally determined

The Will to Arise Caleb Oluremi Oladipo, 2006 One of the most important developments of Christianity in the twentieth century was its transformation in South Africa where it became a vibrant religion rooted in African idioms and cultures The church also became engaged in the struggle against social and political injustice and church leaders employed the vocabularies of faith to secure civil liberty This hard hitting book focuses on post apartheid Christian character and establishes the theological and spiritual authority of African Christians calling contemporary Christians to renew their faith and Christian identity It shows too that one cannot seriously consider contemporary Christianity apart from the African experience

Contemporary Issues in Africa's Development Ehimika A. Ifidon, Richard A. Olaniyan, 2018-04-18 This volume reports on the state of crisis in Africa in the early twenty first century Africa on the eve of the independence revolution was the continent of hope and high expectations By the third decade of independence optimism had been replaced by dismay African states had been beset by ethno political squabbles military rule civil wars Islamic and insurgent movements extreme poverty and disease With the ascent of redemocratization in the 1990s and of new pan Africanism derived from the formation of the African Union Africa appeared set to claim its vaunted destiny This book asks with hindsight to the first decade of the twenty first century how real was the renaissance in African life If the dismal African condition is a phase in the historical development of Africa this volume does not see any golden age in the past to which Africa aspires to return There is clearly a continuation and persistence of crisis with an absence of good governance personalisation of state power widespread disease and policy failure in education economy and infrastructural development Although endowed with abundant human and natural resources Africa remains the least developed and most indebted continent Whither then the African Renaissance The methodologies that underpin the contributions in this book are as diverse as the specialisations of the contributors The collection questions ideologically protected assumptions and presumptions presenting Africa as it is because it is only by knowing where Africa truly stands that a proper direction can be charted for it
