Rhodia Mann was born in Kenya and studied Oromo culture under a highly respected oral historian and mystic She attended major Oromo ceremonies in northern Kenya and also visited the Oromo in southern Ethiopia Presented as a historical novel the legend of Hawecha is used as a means to bring a fascinating and little known culture to the wider world Religion and Healing in America Linda L. Smolarz,2010-10-14 In his commentary on Hosea H W Wolff proposed that the divine marriage metaphor is the central metaphor of the entire OT In Hebrew prophetic books the metaphor reflected the covenantal relationship between Yahweh and his people No other metaphor reached as deeply into the heart of this relationship or better described the tragedy of a broken relationship between Yahweh and his people No other metaphor expressed more fully the abundance of God's grace shown in the promise of covenant restoration and renewal in the eschaton In this volume Polish Reformed academic Sebastian Smolarz demonstrates that the divine marriage metaphor is also one of the leading NT metaphors used to describe God's restored covenant relationship with his people especially in the Book of Revelation Smolarz argues for continuity between OT and NT concepts and theologies in general and for continuity between the Apocalypse and OT material in particular showing that the Apocalypse has much in common with other parts of the NT In doing so he focuses on some Gospel parables and reads them against their OT background He also examines instances of the divine marriage metaphor in Paul's theological reflections The focus of Smolarz volume is a covenantal reading of the Apocalypse He argues that the metaphor helps to establish the Apocalypse's Sitz im Leben which he relates to the main conflict between the faithful and the unfaithful within the people of God in the first century CE His work establishes that the Apocalypse contains not only explicit instances but also implicit references and many echoes of this covenantal metaphor
