Sharing Power Donald F. Kettl, 2011-07-01 In the flush of enthusiasm to make government work better reformers from both left and right have urged government to turn as many functions as possible over to the private sector and to allow market competition instill efficiency and choice In fact government has been doing just this for years every major policy initiative launched since World War II has been managed by public private partnerships Yet such privatization has not solved government's problems While there have been some positive results thee has been far less success than advocates of market competition have promised In a searching examination of why the competition prescription has not worked well Donald F Kettl finds that government has largely been a poor judge of private markets Because government rarely operates in truly competitive markets contracting out has not so much solved the problems of inefficiency but has aggravated them Government has often not proved to be an intelligent consumer of the goods and services it has purchased Kettl provides specific recommendations as to how government can become a smart buyer knowing what it wants and judging better what it has bought Through detailed case studies Kettl shows that as market imperfections increase so do problems in governance and management He examines the A 76 program for buying goods and services the FTS 2000 telecommunications system the Superfund program the Department of Energy's production of nuclear weapons and contracting out by state and local governments He argues that government must be more aggressive in managing contracts if it is to build successful partnerships with outside contractors Kettl maintains that the answer is not more government but a smarter one which requires strong political leadership to refocus the bureaucracy s mission and to change the bureaucratic culture Federal Nuclear Facilities Licensing and Regulation Act United States. Congress. House. Committee on Natural Resources. Subcommittee on Energy and Mineral Resources, 1994 Nuclear Waste DIANE Publishing Company, In Oct 1993 the Dept
