1891 version of the play was in French Three years later an English translation was published The play tells in one act the Biblical story of Salome stepdaughter of the tetrarch Herod Antipas who to her stepfather's dismay but to the delight of her mother Herodias requests the head of Jokanaan John the Baptist on a silver platter as a reward for dancing the dance of the seven veils Herod Antipas Tetrarch of Judea Jokanaan the Prophet The young Syrian Captain of the guard Tigellinus a young Roman A Cappadocian A Nubian First soldier Second soldier The page of Herodias Jews Nazarenes etc A slave Naaman the Executioner Herodias Wife of the Tetrarch Salome daughter of Herodias The slaves of Salome Rehearsals for the play's debut on the London stage for inclusion in Sarah Bernhardt's London season began in 1892 but were halted when the Lord Chamberlain's censor of plays banned Salome on the basis that it was illegal to depict Biblical characters on the stage The play was first published in French in February 1893 and an English translation with illustrations by Aubrey Beardsley in February 1894 On the Dedication page Wilde indicated that his lover Lord Alfred Douglas was the translator In fact Wilde and Douglas had quarrelled over the latter's translation of the text which had been nothing short of disastrous given his poor mastery of French though Douglas claimed that the errors were really in Wilde's original play Beardsley and the publisher John Lane got drawn in when they sided with Wilde In a gesture of reconciliation Wilde did the work himself but dedicated Douglas as the translator rather than having them sharing their names on the title page Douglas compared a dedication to sharing the title page as the difference between a tribute of admiration from an artist and a receipt from a tradesman The play was eventually premiered on 11 February 1896 while Wilde was in prison in Paris at the Comedie Parisienne at the Theatre de l'Oeuvre in some accounts in a staging by Lugné-Poe's theatre group the Theatre de l'Oeuvre In Pall Mall Gazette of 29 June 1892 Wilde explained why he had written Salome in French I have one instrument that I know I can command and that is the English language There was another instrument to which I had listened all my life and I wanted once to touch this new instrument to see whether I could make any beautiful thing out of it Salome Oscar Wilde, Aubrey Beardsley, 2018-10-17 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public To ensure a quality reading experience this work has been proofread and republished using a format that seamlessly blends the original graphical elements with text in an easy to read typeface We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant Salome Oscar Wilde, 2017-02-27 Salome is a tragedy by Oscar Wilde The original 1891 version of the play was in French Three years later an English translation was published The play tells in one act the Biblical story of Salome stepdaughter of the tetrarch Herod Antipas who to her stepfather's dismay but to the delight of her mother Herodias requests the head of Jokanaan John

Salome A Tragedy in One Act by Oscar Wilde Salome has made the author's name a household word wherever the English language is not spoken Few plays have such a peculiar history Before tracing briefly the vicissitudes of a work that has been more execrated than even its author I venture to repeat the corrections which I communicated to the Morning Post when the opera of Dr Strauss was produced in a mutilated version at Covent Garden in December 1910 That such reiteration is necessary is illustrated by the circumstance that a musical critic in the Academy of December 17th 1910 wrote of Wilde's imaginative verses apropos of Salome a strange comment on the honesty of musical criticism Salome is in prose not in verse Salome was not written for Madame Sarah Bernhardt It was not written with any idea of stage representation Wilde did not write the play in English nor afterwards re-write it in French because he could not get it acted in English as stated by Mr G K Chesterton on the authority presumably of Chambers's Encyclopaedia or some other such source of that writer's culture It was not offered to any English manager In no scene of Wilde's play does Salome dance round the head of the Baptist as she is represented in music hall turns The name John does not occur either in the French or German text Critics speak contemptuously of Wilde's libretto adapted for the opera Except for the performance at Covent Garden which was permitted only on conditions of mutilation there has been no adaptation Certain passages were omitted by Dr Strauss because the play which is in one act would be too long without these cuts Wilde's actual words in Madame Hedwig Lachmann's admirable translation are sung The words have not been transfigured into ordinary operatic nonsense to suit the score When the opera is given in French however the text used is not Wilde's French original but a French translation fitted to the score from the German Salomé A Tragedy in One Act (illustrated) Oscar Wilde,2021-03-23 The play unfolds on the terrace of Herod's palace above the banquet hall A gigantic staircase stands to the left a cistern surrounded by a wall of green bronze appears at the back The Young Syrian exclaims how Salome is beautiful tonight It is as if she was dancing Look at the moon cries Herodias Page comparing it to a woman rising from her tomb a woman looking for dead things He warns the Syrian that he looks at the princess too much A noise is heard in the hall and the Soldiers complain that the Jews are howling again about their religion The First Soldier observes that the Tetrarch King Herod has a somber look and the soldiers wonder at whom he is looking Suddenly the voice of Jokanaan is heard from the cistern proclaiming the coming of the Messiah The eyes of the blind shall see the day and the ears of the deaf shall be opened The First Soldier explains to the Cappadocian that Jokanaan is a prophet from the desert It is impossible to understand what the prophet says and the Tetrarch has forbidden the prophet being seen The Cappadocian remarks that the cistern must make an unhealthy prison The Second Soldier protests Herod's elder brother Herodias first husband lived there for twelve years without dying Ultimately he had to be strangled by Naaman the Negro executioner bearing Herod's death ring The Syrian exclaims that Salome approaches She enters insisting that she cannot stay with Herod looking at her all the while with his mole's eyes under his shaking eyelids To the Page's horror the

Syrian invites her to sit Salome welcomes the moon cold and chaste with a virgin's beauty Jokanaan again announces the coming of the Lord Salome asks if he is the prophet Herod fears the prophet who maligns her mother As Jokanaan preaches on Salome insists that she speak to him All attempt to dissuade her She plies the Syrian to bring the prophet forth The prophet emerges and Salome looks at him Salome exclaims that the prophet's eyes are terrible above all like black lakes troubled by fantastic moons He is a wasted ivory statue chaste like the moon Who is this woman who is looking at me protests Jokanaan bidding Salome begone Salome implores the prophet to speak on his voice is like wine She is amorous of his body Jokanaan curses her anew Begging Salome to stop the Syrian kills himself and falls between the prophet and princess Salome continues to ask Jokanaan to let her kiss him He orders her to seek the Lord refuses to look upon her and descends into the cistern The First Soldier insists that they transport the body lest Herod see it Suddenly the court enters and Herod calls for Salome while Herodias reproaching him for always staring at her Herod muses on the strange look of the moon comparing her to a drunken madwoman looking for lovers Herodias replies that the moon is like the moon that is all and bids him inside Herod refuses calling the servants to bring the festivities outside Herod slips on the blood of the Syrian and gasps at the ill omen The Soldiers feign that they do not know why he killed himself Jokanaan announces that what he has foretold has come to pass Herodias asks Herod to silence the prophet since he is forever vomiting insults against her Herod most certainly fears him and that is the main reason that he does not deliver him to the Jews Herod replies that the prophet is a holy man who has seen God A Jew rejoins that God has hidden himself and thus evil has come upon the land Jokanaan announces the coming of the Savior of the world A Nazarene declares that Jokanaan speaks of the Messiahs who works miracles Herodias scoffs Jokanaan curses the daughter of Babylon with golden eyes and gilded eyelids announcing her death by stoning by the piercing of her body with swords its mashing under shields Herodias is enraged that Herod would let Jokanaan slander her she is his wife employs a number of the images favoured by Israel's kingly poets and that the moon is meant to suggest the pagan goddess Cybele who like Salome was obsessed with preserving her virginity and thus took pleasure in destroying male sexuality
