Jai Yen Means Keep a Cool Heart Rupert Nelson, 2006-10-03 When I moved from that blank space on the map known as Northeast Montana to Thailand in 1963 with a pregnant wife and a three year old daughter I knew there would be some changes in my life but I had no idea how great those changes would be and how much the people of Thailand would change my own world view I learned to be jai yen cool hearted instead of angry or frustrated That is the Thai way I went as an agricultural advisor to work among the Mountain Tribes This book is about the 33 years I spent roaming the hill country trekking from village to village over the foot trails The people I came to teach taught me many things I learned about hospitality decision making by consensus and how to live with one another I shared their shelter their food their joys and their sorrows Congressional Record United States.

Agroforestry in Europe Antonio Rigueiro-Rodríguez, Jim McAdam, María Rosa Mosquera-Losada, 2008-11-09 Agroforestry has come of age during the past three decades The age old practice of growing trees and crops and sometimes animals in interacting combinations that has been ignored in the single commodity oriented agricultural and forestry development paradigms has been brought into the realm of modern land use Today agroforestry is well on its way to becoming a specialized science at a level similar to those of crop science and forestry science To most land use experts however agroforestry has a tropical connotation They consider agroforestry as something that can and can only be identified with the tropics That is a wrong perception While it is true that the tropics compared to the temperate regions have a wider array of agroforestry systems and hold greater promise for potential agroforestry interventions it is also true that agroforestry has several opportunities in the temperate regions too Indeed the role of agroforestry is now recognized in Europe as exemplified by this book North America and elsewhere in the temperate zone Current interest in ecosystem management in industrialized countries strongly suggests that there is a need to embrace and apply agroforestry principles to help mitigate the environmental problems caused or exacerbated by commercial agricultural and forestry production enterprises
