Meaning Built Environment A Nonverbal Communication Approach:

The Meaning of the Built Environment Amos Rapoport, 1990 The Meaning of the Built Environment is a lively illustrated study of the meanings of everyday buildings for their users Professor Rapoport uses examples and vignettes drawn from many cultures and historical eras as well as contemporary America to explicate a new framework for understanding how the built environment comes to have meaning both for individual people and whole societies The Meaning of the Built Environment

Amos Rapoport, 1982-11-01 The Meaning of the Built Environment is a lively illustrated study of the meanings of everyday buildings for their users Professor Rapoport uses examples and vignettes drawn from many cultures and historical eras as well as contemporary America to explicate a new framework for understanding how the built environment comes to have meaning both for individual people and whole societies this book fills a significant gap it introduces the notion of environmental meaning so clearly that no reader will doubt the basic premise that the environment holds meaning as part of a cultural system of symbols and influences our actions and our determinations of social order Design Book Review Fall 1984 Meaning of the built environment; a nonverbal communication approach A. Rapoport, 1982 The Built Environment

Wendy R. McClure, Tom J. Bartuska, 2011-09-09 This book takes a sweeping view of the ways we build things beginning at the scale of products and interiors to that of regions and global systems In doing so it answers questions on how we effect and are affected by our environment and explores how components of what we make from products buildings and cities are interrelated and why designers and planners must consider these connections Environmental Policy and Landscape Architecture Joachim Wolschke-Bulmahn, Hubertus Fischer, Sarah Ozacky-Lazar, 2014-03-21 Volume 18 in the CGL Studies series entitled Environmental Policy and Landscape Architecture is the result of an international symposium held in Jerusalem in March 2011 which was organised by the Van Leer Jerusalem Institute in collaboration with the Centre of Garden Art and Landscape Architecture The symposium focused on how the many different facets of landscape architecture could help towards solving environmental problems Sustainable Development and Landscaping Environmental Policy and the Contribution of Landscape Architecture at a Local Level Designing Public Open Spaces and Social Sustainability Spatial Planning and Landscape Architecture in Israel Palestine and Water and Soil Crisis and Conservation are the key chapters in this volume The authors address a wide range of issues including the significance of religions in ideas about environmentalism in historical and current debates how Palestinian society can meet challenges posed by the dynamic development of urban structures through capacity building in landscape architecture and economically meaningful strategies for soil conservation in arable fields as part of agricultural sustainability in semi arid areas A key objective of the symposium was also to determine opportunities for cooperation in the field of environment and landscaping for Israelis Palestinians Muslims Jews and Christians in a region marked by huge tension and conflicts The authors are scholars of various disciplines such as landscape architecture urban planning technology assessment philosophy of science environmental communication and ecology and come from Israel Palestine USA Norway and Germany      The Cambridge Prehistory of the Bronze and Iron Age Mediterranean A. Bernard Knapp, Peter van Dommelen, 2015-01-12 The Cambridge Prehistory of the Bronze and Iron Age Mediterranean offers new insights into the material and social practices of many different Mediterranean peoples during the Bronze and Iron Ages presenting in particular those features that both connect and distinguish them Contributors discuss in depth a range of topics that motivate and structure Mediterranean archaeology today including insularity and connectivity mobility migration and colonization hybridization and cultural encounters materiality memory and identity community and household life and death and ritual and ideology The volume's broad coverage of different approaches and contemporary archaeological practices will help practitioners of Mediterranean archaeology to move the subject forward in new and dynamic ways Together the essays in this volume shed new light on the people ideas and materials that make up the world of Mediterranean archaeology today beyond the borders that separate Europe Africa and the Middle East

Assessing Urban Design Richard W. Berman, 2006-01-01 How do people perceive urban design What is it about design that influences our perceptions Assessing Urban Design is a search to better understand how people perceive the physical environments that surround them Touching on issues of urban design planning architecture historic preservation and tourism Berman combines theoretical essays and empirical research to explore waterfront sites in Philadelphia and Yokohama Topics discussed include The Distinct and the Unique Predictability and Surprise Packaging and Historical Ambience Berman's research consists of photo surveys and interviews conducted on the waterfronts of the chosen cities His findings are useful in deepening our understanding of people's preferences in urban design and historic preservation An important work for scholars and students of architecture urban planning historic preservation and tourism      Landscape Architecture as

Storytelling Bob Scarfo, 2022-11-30 This book introduces students practitioners and laypeople to a comfortable approach to learning landscape architectural design free of design jargon and derived from their existing knowledge A step by step process has readers consider their knowledge of language as metaphorically related to basic design and landscape design Through information delivery and questioning processes readers build on what they already know their tacit understanding of language as applied to problem solving and storytelling Everyone is a storyteller Taken one step at a time through a three tiered analogy of language basic design and landscape design readers learn the makeup and role of such design features as points lines planes volumes and sequential volumetric spaces that make up their worlds With that in a sense new world view and numerous questions and examples readers begin to see that they in fact daily read the environments in which they live work play raise families and grow old Once they realize how they read their surroundings they are helped to recognize that they can build narratives into their surroundings At that point the existence of authored landscape narratives finds readers understanding a design process that relies on the designer as author landscape as text and participant user as reader That process has the reader write a first or second person narrative visually interpret the written narrative into a storyboard and turn the storyboard into a final design the physical makeup of which is read by those who participate in it

The Limits of Settlement Growth Roland Fletcher, 1995-09-29 In this study Roland Fletcher argues that the built environment becomes a constraint on the long term development of a settlement It is costly to move settlements or to demolish and rebuild from scratch so the initial layout and buildings and the forms of communication that result may come to shackle further development and also to place constraints on social and political change Using this theoretical framework Dr Fletcher reviews worldwide settlement growth over the past 15 000 years and concludes with a major discussion of the great transformations of human settlements from mobile to sedentary sedentary to urban and urban to industrial This book is an ambitious contribution to archaeological theory and the questions it raises also have implications for the future of urban settlement

History and Precedent in Environmental Design Anatol Rapoport, 2013-06-29 This book is about a new and different way of approaching and studying the history of the built environment and the use of historical precedents in design However although what I am proposing is new for what is currently called architectural history both my approach and even my conclusions are not that new in other fields as I discovered when I attempted to find supporting evidence In fact of all the disciplines dealing with various aspects of the study of the past architectural history seems to have changed least in the ways I am advocating There is currently a revival of interest in the history of architecture and urban form a similar interest applies to theory vernacular design and culture environment relations After years of neglect the study of history and the use of historical precedent are again becoming important However that interest has not led to new approaches to the subject nor have its bases been examined This I try to do In so doing I discuss a more rigorous and I would argue a more valid way of looking at historical data and hence of using such data in a theory of the built environment and as precedent in environmental design Underlying this is my view of Environment Behavior Studies CEBS as an emerging theory rather than as data to help design based on current theory Although this will be the subject of another book a summary statement of this position may be useful

Circular Villages of the Monongahela Tradition Bernard K. Means, 2007-08-19 Between A D 1000 and 1635 the inhabitants of southwestern Pennsylvania and portions of adjacent states known to archaeologists as the Monongahela Culture or Tradition began to reside regularly in ring shaped village settlements These circular settlements consisted of dwellings around a central plaza A cross cultural and cross temporal review of archaeological ethnohistorical and ethnographic cases demonstrates that this settlement form appeared repeatedly and independently worldwide including throughout portions of the Eastern Woodlands among the Plains Indians and in Central and South America Specific archaeological cases are drawn from Somerset County Pennsylvania that has the largest number of completely excavated Monongahela villages Most of these villages excavated in the 1930s as federal relief projects were recently dated Full analysis of the extensive excavations reveals not only the geometric architectural patterning of the villages but enables an analysis of the social groupings population estimates and economic status of residents who inhabited the circular villages

Circular patterning can be revealed at less fully excavated archaeological sites Focused test excavations can help confirm circular village plans without extensive and destructive excavations Language of Space Bryan Lawson,2007-08-15 Helps to reconnect your everyday implicit knowledge with your professional conceptual knowledge Gain a greater understanding of clients by questioning the values you commonly hold Promotes easier communication by taking the abstract idea of space and placing it in real terms Cognitive Approaches to Ancient Religious Experience Esther Eidinow,Armin W.
