Feminist Perspectives on Advertising Kim Golombisky, 2018-11-29 This volume edited by Kim Golombisky applies an intersectional lens to advertising focusing on gender, race, ethnicity, sexuality, disability, age, class, and nationality. Intersectional feminist perspectives on advertising are rare in the advertising industry even as it faces pressure to reform. This anthology focuses on advertising messaging to follow up the professional practices covered in Feminists, Feminisms, and Advertising edited by Kim Golombisky and Peggy Kreshel. In this new collection, contributors write from a variety of perspectives including Black African, lesbian, transnational, poststructuralist, material, commodity, and environmental feminisms. The authors also discuss the reproductive justice framework, feminist disability studies, feminist ethnography, feminist discourse analysis, and feminist visual rhetoric. Together, these scholars introduce big ideas for feminist advertising studies. The first section, titled Historicize, includes work dealing with historicized analyses of advertising ranging from more than a century of stereotypes about Black women to early twentieth-century white women purchasing automobiles, all contextualized with women's complex relations with technologies from cars to Twitter. The second section, Advertising Body Politics, groups work on topics related to body politics in advertising, including lesbians, disabled women, aging women, and Chinese promotion girls. The third section, Media Reps, revisits advertising representation in novel ways from operational definitions of race and advertising news about gay men to advertising twenty-first-century masculinities in Ghana and the United States. The last section, Reproduction and Postfeminist Empowerment, ends the book with a selection of case studies on the advertising industry's cooptation and commodification of feminism, particularly in regressive postfeminist ideologies about women's reproductive health and mothering

The New Walford Ray Lester, 2005 Covers 15 broad subject groupings: social sciences, generic psychology, sociology, social work, politics, government, law, finance, accountancy, industries, business, education, sport, media, information, and tools for information professionals

The Impact of Watching Violent Television Programs on Secondary School Children in Tanzania Watson Lupogo Masiba, 2016-06-14 Violent television programs are highly preferred by children. They stimulate their emotions and increase curiosity about violence-related issues. This means that watching violent television programs has an impact upon their way of perceiving the world around them and acting in response to it. This study investigated the impacts of watching violent television programs on secondary school children in Tanzania The specific objectives were to examine children s accessibility to the TV ascertain the types of violent TV programs and the time children spend watching them determine the ways in which watching violent TV programs affects their academic performance find out the impact of watching violent TV programs on their discipline and examine the role of parents in addressing the impacts of watching violent TV programs upon their children Results indicate that most secondary school children watch violent TV programs at home in the sitting rooms They spend an average of three hours per day on weekdays and seven and half hours on weekends watching movies music drama and informational programs that were identified as the most violent ones Obviously spending lots of time watching violent TV programs decreases children s academic performance and discipline This book is important because it discusses the parents role in discouraging and limiting children from watching violent TV programs and choosing appropriate TV programs for them     Public Relations Jacquie L'Etang,2007-11-21 An excellent text for encouraging students to think critically about key public relations issues Not only does it help students to develop a deeper appreciation of public relations it also helps them to develop valuable learning skills Amanda Coady The Hague University A typically excellent piece of work from Jacquie L Etang Critical of every basic concept and provocative to all students Ideal for second and final year undergraduates plus MA students Chris Rushton Sunderland University Extending beyond the usual bounds of insularity this text is designed to encourage critical thought in students and improve practice in workplaces A refreshing read that is consistently inventive enough to attain both aims David McKie Waikato Management School At long last fills a void in the landscape of text books on public relations theory and practice it develops critical thinking skills while exposing interdisciplinary approaches and providing a very solid foundation for lively debate and further study Julia Jahansoozi University of Central Lancashire This book introduces students to the key concepts in Public Relations with 12 chapters providing clear and careful explanations of concepts such as Reputation Risk Impression management Celebrity Ethics Persuasion and propaganda Emotional and spiritual dimensions of management Promotional culture and globalization Drawing on a wide range of interdisciplinary sources Jacquie L Etang also encourages students to think critically about public relations as an occupation Student exercises critical reflections vignettes and discipline boxes help students to widen their intellectual perspective on the subject and to really engage the thinking that has shaped both the discipline and practice of public relations     Messages Arthur Asa Berger,2016-06-16 A brief inexpensive informal introductory text for the basic course in communication Messages features lively writing a focus on theorists of communication and inclusion of contemporary topics of identity social media and visual communication
