Parents, Media and Panic through the Years Karen Leick, 2018-08-27 This book analyses articles that appeared in popular periodicals from the 1920s to the present, each revealing the panic that parents and adults have expressed about media, including radio, television, video games, and the Internet, for the last century. Karen Leick argues that parents have continuously shown an intense anxiety about new media while expressing a romanticized nostalgia for their own youth. Recurring tropes describe concerns about each addictive new media: children do not play outside anymore, lack imagination, and may imitate violent or other inappropriate content that they encounter. The Complete Idiot's Guide to Vegan Eating for Kids Andrew Villamagna M.D., M.Sc., Dana Villamagna M.S.J., 2010-02-02 Children can thrive on a vegan diet. autonomous individual forms of the search for spiritual meaning Film television the music industry and the internet are central to this process cutting through the monolithic assertions of world religions and giving access to more diverse and fragmented ideals While the sheer volume and variety of information travelling through global media changes modes of religious thought and commitment the human desire for spirituality also invigorates popular culture itself recreating commodities film blockbusters world sport and popular music as contexts for religious meanings Drawing on research into household media consumption Hoover charts the way in which media and religion intermingle and collide in the cultural experience of media audiences Religion in the Media Age is essential reading for everyone interested in how today mass media relates to contemporary religious and spiritual life Violence Alex Alvarez,Ronet D. Wartime Parenting Femi Reis,2022-07-19 Born At War No generation of the church has had to deal with a nonstop rapid fire of distracting iniquities as the generation that now walks the earth It appears as though like Herod who understood the times and ordered a mass slaughter of children from a certain age down satan has also ordered a mass attack of young people within a certain age bracket knowing full well the havoc they would cause him once they align with God s prophetic timing for the church While many parents are acutely aware of this attack they are greatly surprised to see their own children taken into captivity and slowly grow lukewarm with no appetite for the deep things of God and no commitment to be fully involved in what He is set to do and to see all this happen in spite of the sound home training they have provided as Christian parents only makes the situation all the more painful The mistake we ve made however is that we have attempted to raise a generation that is born at war with home training templates that were designed for peace Our good parenting models almost completely ignore the realities into which this generation is born and have raised godly seeds who end up as casualties in a battle they were never actively equipped for All this is about to change God is out to bring our children back from captivity and raise from them an end time army that would occupy for Him wherever they are and play a crucial role in what would be one of the greatest revivals the world has ever seen And He wants to raise that army right under our roofs This is a radically different approach to home training it is time to strap your boots and get ready for wartime parenting
