New European Music:

A New European Music Hans Adolf Neunzig, 1985 The history of European music in the 17th and 18th centuries is associated with three names the names of men who contributed decisively to the development and dissemination of new musical forms and structures which were to affect and dominate the future They are Heinrich Schutz 1585 1672 George Frideric Handel 1685 1759 and Johann Sebastian Bach 1685 1750 A century before Bach and Handel Heinrich Schutz became the father of modern music through the combination and assimilation of the Italian Netherlands music with the traditional musical forms of central Germany Without his work and his musical theories which were carried out into the world by his pupils neither the Baroque nor the Classical and Romantic music of Germany and Europe would have existed in the forms we know In George Frideric Handel the music of the Baroque found its ambassador With his operas and still more with his great oratorios he is the complete expression of the Baroque response to life and the wealth of musical expression of that period But the point of convergence of all European music is the work of the composer whom all Western music was to take its authority from then on Johann Sebastian Bach Their life their creativity and their influence on the history of music is outlined in the chapters of this book This account includes their origins evolution and social environment as well as their musical development

The Making of European Music in the Long Eighteenth Century D. R. M. Irving, 2024-09-03 In this book author D R M Irving traces the emergence of such large scale categories as European music and Western music showing how they originate from self fashioning in contexts of intercultural comparison outside the European continent rather than the resolution of national aesthetic differences within it Taken as a whole this study demonstrates how reductive labels for the musics of a continent or a hemisphere often imply homogeneity and essentialism and how a renewed critique of primary sources can help dismantle historiographical constructs that arose within narratives of musical pasts involving Europe

From 1989, or European Music and the Modernist Unconscious Seth Brodsky, 2017-01-24 What happened to musical modernism When did it end Did it end In this unorthodox Lacanian account of European New Music Seth Brodsky focuses on the unlikely year 1989 when New Music hardly takes center stage Instead one finds Rostropovich playing Bach at Checkpoint Charlie or Bernstein changing Joy to Freedom in Beethoven's Ninth or David Hasselhoff lip synching Looking for Freedom to thousands on New Year's Eve But if such spectacles claim to master their historical moment New Music unconsciously takes the role of analyst In so doing it restages earlier scenes of modernism As world politics witnesses a turning away from the possibility of revolution musical modernism revolves in place performing century old tasks of losing failing and beginning again in preparation for a revolution to come

Making Music Modern Carol J. Oja, 2000-11-16 New York City witnessed a dazzling burst of creativity in the 1920s In this pathbreaking study Carol J Oja explores this artistic renaissance from the perspective of composers of classical and modern music who along with writers painters and jazz musicians were at the heart of early modernism in America She also illustrates how the aesthetic attitudes and institutional structures from the 1920s left a deep imprint on the arts over the 20th century Aaron Copland George Gershwin Ruth Crawford Seeger Virgil Thomson William Grant Still Edgar Varèse Henry Cowell Leo Ornstein Marion Bauer George Antheil these were the leaders of a talented new generation of American composers whose efforts made New York City the center of new music in the country They founded composer societies such as the International Composers Guild the League of Composers the Pan American Association and the Copland Sessions Concerts to promote the performance of their music and they nimbly negotiated cultural boundaries aiming for recognition in Western Europe as much as at home They showed exceptional skill at marketing their work Drawing on extensive archival material including interviews correspondence popular periodicals and little known music manuscripts Oja provides a new perspective on the period and a compelling collective portrait of the figures puncturing many longstanding myths American composers active in New York during the 1920s are explored in relation to the Machine Age and American Dada the impact of spirituality on American dissonance the crucial behind the scenes role of women as patrons and promoters of modernist music cross currents between jazz and concert music the critical reception of modernist music especially in the writings of Carl Van Vechten and Paul Rosenfeld and the international impulse behind neoclassicism The book also examines the persistent biases of the time particularly anti-Semitism gender stereotyping and longstanding racial attitudes

European Music, 1520-1640 James Haar, 2014 An authoritative survey of music and its context in the Renaissance

Revival and Reconciliation Philip V. Bohlman, 2013-06-07 Sacred music has long contributed fundamentally to the making of Europe The passage from origin myths to history the sacred journeys that have mobilized pilgrims crusaders and colonizers the politics and power sounded by the vox populi all have joined in counterpoint to shape Europe's historical longue durée Drawing upon three decades of research in European sacred music Philip V Bohlman calls for a reexamination of European modernity in the twenty first century a modernity shaped no less by canonic religious and musical practices than by the proliferation of belief systems that today more than ever respond to the diverse belief systems that engender the New Europe In contrast to most studies of sacred musical practice in European history with their emphasis on the musical repertoires and ecclesiastical practices at the center of society Bohlman turns our attention to individual and marginalized communities and to the collectives of believers to whose lives meaning accrues upon sounding the sacred together In the historical chapters that open Revival and Reconciliation Bohlman examines the genesis of modern history in the convergence and conflict that lie at the heart of the Abrahamic faiths Judaism Christianity and Islam Critical to the meaning of these religions to Europe Bohlman argues has been their capacity to mobilize both sacred journey and social action which enter the everyday lives of Europeans through folk religion pilgrimage and politics the subjects of the second half of his study The closing sections then cross the threshold from history into modernity above all that of the New Europe with its return to religion through revival and reconciliation Based on an extensive ethnographic engagement with the sacred landscapes and sites of conflict in twenty first century

Europe Bohlman calls in his final chapters for new ways of hearing the silenced voices and the full chorus of sacred music in our contemporary world Ethnomusicologists from different traditions as well as scholars of religious studies and the history of modern Europe will find Revival and Reconciliation a fascinating exploration of the connections between sacred music and the role it plays in the formations of the modern self

Music and the Racial Imagination Ronald M. Radano, Philip V. Bohlman, 2000-12 A specter lurks in the house of music and it goes by the name of race write Ronald Radano and Philip Bohlman in their introduction Yet the intimate relationship between race and music has rarely been examined by contemporary scholars most of whom have abandoned it for the more enlightened notions of ethnicity and culture Here a distinguished group of contributors confront the issue head on Representing an unusually broad range of academic disciplines and geographic regions they critically examine how the imagination of race has influenced musical production reception and scholarly analysis even as they reject the objectivity of the concept itself Each essay follows the lead of the substantial introduction which reviews the history of race in European and American non Western and global musics placing it within the contexts of the colonial experience and the more recent formation of world music Offering a bold new revisionist agenda for musicology in a postmodern postcolonial world this book will appeal to students of culture and race across the humanities and social sciences

The Rise of European Music, 1380-1500 Reinhard Strohm, 2005-02-17 This is a detailed and comprehensive survey of music in the late middle ages and early Renaissance By limiting its scope to the 120 years which witnessed perhaps the most dramatic expansion of our musical heritage the book responds in the 1990s to the tremendous increase in specialised research and public awareness of that period Three of the four main Parts I II IV describe the development of polyphony and its cultural contexts in many European countries from the successors of Machaut d 1377 to the achievements of Josquin des Prez and his contemporaries working in Renaissance Italy around 1500 Part III by contrast illustrates the musical life of the institutions and musical practices outside the realm of composed polyphony that were traditional and common all over Europe The book proposes fresh views in each chapter discussing dozens of musical examples adducing well known and hitherto unknown documents and referring to and evaluating the most recent scholarship in the field

Rituals and Music in Europe Daniel Burgos, 2024-06-14 This book explores modern European religious and non religious rituals and their main features by focusing on music as a key element required for the full expression of beliefs It specifically examines the relationship between religious non religious pagan cultural celebratory and traditional rituals In doing so this text focuses on the extent to which the rituals overlap replace or feed religious or pseudo religious beliefs to create alternative beliefs individual or collective that systematically ignore any religion The book further analyses the relationship between daily habits holidays sports politics culture and other pagan rituals as forms that represent social feelings by identifying enjoying or impersonating emotions and transversally it explores how music facilitates and fosters those emotions The volume also investigates how rituals coexist and mutually influence each other through a representation
