New Guinea Diaries, 1871-1883 Nikolai Nikolaevich Miklukho-Maklai, 1975 Non Aboriginal material New Guinea Diaries N. N. Miklucho-Maklaj, 1975 The New Guinea Diaries 1871- 1883 N N Miklouho-Maclay, 2023-05-01 Pioneering ecologist and humanist N N Miklouho Maclay lived at a time of great colonial and industrial expansion he was a pupil of the German philosopher Ernst Haeckel To prove that the people of all races are equally human Maclay went to the island of New Guinea 1870 the first white man to do so and stayed years with native Papuans while the rest of the world presumed he had been eaten His diaries are testimony to his time in New Guinea where he observed a native culture untouched by the outside world Maclay describes his first meeting with the natives A few Papuans moved closer to me Suddenly two arrows flashed in rapid succession close by me As the first arrow passed me by the eyes of many natives were fixed upon me trying to read the impressions in my face except for fatigue and curiosity registered I no emotion He was instead befriended by the Papuans they called him Tamo Russ believing that he had descended from the moon The diaries were originally edited with the help of Russian author Leo Tolstoy The books sold millions of copies in Eastern Europe Maclay tried hard to save Papuans and their traditional culture and died disillusioned at the age of 42 He tried to revise Darwin s theory of the selection of the species and challenged the idea that certain races of people are born genetically superior The New Guinea Diaries provide an authentic portrait of a timeless sustainable and egalitarian tribal society before the Europeans moved into the area The book is illustrated with original drawings made by Maclay during his New Guinean expedition Cultural Memory Jeannette Marie Mageo, 2001-02-01 How do foreign schemas and objects enter into indigenous ways of understanding the world How are the cultural self and the cultural other constructed in acts of remembering What is memory s role in the generation or degeneration of cultural meanings In contemporary Pacific societies these questions are not merely the subject of scholarly debate but speak to pressing life concerns This volume offers fruitful responses to such questions providing insights into colonial memory and its limitations and proposing explanations that illumine cultural memory processes These processes in turn elucidate ways of authoring cultural history and shed light on cultural identity which like other forms of identity is built from a remembered self Contributors explore valorizations of certain aspects of the remembered past amnesias about other aspects Both are part of the rhetoric of colonizing cultures and of cultural identity and nationhood in many contemporary Pacific societies The provocative analyses and responses offered here are both academic and personal close engagement with individuals and their ways of life is evident These are at once intellectual journeys through the colonial landscapes of Pacific memory and attempts to understand the problems of politics and personhood cultural identity and meaning for real people in real places Cultural Memory confronts many of the most central anthropological issues of our time New Guinea Clive Moore, 2003-07-31 New Guinea the world s largest tropical island is a land of great contrasts ranging from small glaciers on its highest peaks to broad mangrove swamps in its lowlands and hundreds of smaller islands and coral atolls along its coasts

Divided between two nations the island and its neighboring archipelagos form Indonesia's Papua Province or Irian Jaya and the independent nation of Papua New Guinea both former European colonies Most books on New Guinea have been guided by these and other divisions separating east from west prehistoric from historic precontact from postcontact colonial from postcolonial This is the first work to consider New Guinea and its 40 000 year history in its entirety The volume opens with a look at the Melanesian region and argues that interlocking exchange systems and associated human interchanges are the invisible government through which New Guinea societies operate Succeeding chapters review the history of encounters between outsiders and New Guinea's populations They consider the history of Malay involvement with New Guinea over the past two thousand years demonstrating the extent to which west New Guinea in particular was incorporated into Malay trading and raiding networks prior to Western contact The impact of colonial rule economic and social change World War II decolonization and independence are discussed in the final chapter

Mathematics Education in a Neocolonial

Country: The Case of Papua New Guinea Patricia Paraide, Kay Owens, Charly Muke, Philip Clarkson, Christopher Owens, 2023-01-10 Most education research is undertaken in western developed countries While some research from developing countries does make it into research journals from time to time but these articles only emphasize the rarity of research in developing countries The proposed book is unique in that it will cover education in Papua New Guinea over the millennia Papua New Guinea's multicultural society with relatively recent contact with Europe and the Middle East provides a cameo of the development of education in a country with both a colonial history and a coup less transition to independence Discussion will focus on specific areas of mathematics education that have been impacted by policies research circumstances and other influences with particular emphasis on pressures on education in the last one and half centuries This volume will be one of the few records of this kind in the education research literature as an in depth record and critique of how school mathematics has been grown in Papua New Guinea from the late 1800s and should be a useful addition to graduate programs mathematics education courses history of mathematics as well as the interdisciplinary fields of cross cultural studies scholarship focusing on globalization and post decolonialism linguistics educational administration and policy technology education teacher education and gender studies

Timothy McKeown, Honor Keeler, 2020-03-05 This volume brings together Indigenous and non Indigenous repatriation practitioners and researchers to provide the reader with an international overview of the removal and return of Ancestral Remains The Ancestral Remains of Indigenous peoples are today housed in museums and other collecting institutions globally They were taken from anywhere the deceased can be found and their removal occurred within a context of deep power imbalance within a colonial project that had a lasting effect on Indigenous peoples worldwide Through the efforts of First Nations campaigners many have returned home However a large number are still retained In many countries the repatriation issue has driven a profound change in the relationship between Indigenous peoples and collecting institutions It has enabled significant steps towards resetting this relationship from one constrained by colonisation to one that seeks a more just dignified and truthful basis for interaction The history of repatriation is one of Indigenous perseverance and success The authors of this book contribute major new work and explore new facets of this global movement They reflect on nearly 40 years of repatriation its meaning and value impact and effect This book is an invaluable contribution to repatriation practice and research providing a wealth of new knowledge to readers with interests in Indigenous histories self determination and the relationship between collecting institutions and Indigenous peoples Notebooks from New Guinea Vojtech Novotny, 2011-08-11 Hailed by Edward O Wilson as one of the most amazing books I have ever read this exhilarating volume offers a rare combination of first rank science and top notch storytelling Vojtech Novotny a world class researcher and a brilliant writer works on location in one of the toughest regions of the world a high risk locale rife with tropical diseases and venomous wildlife Moreover Novotny works closely with the indigenous peoples natives who still hunt food with spear and arrow involving them in his research and profiting from their deep familiarity with this rugged landscape As a result he has many a fascinating tale to tell and he is a marvelous storyteller Indeed this is an unusual and fascinating collection of almost one hundred brief vignettes adventurous tales and reflections that illuminate the native culture and what the West can learn from it Ably translated by David Short this delightfully engaging book brings to life with warmth and wisdom the place the people and the pursuit of knowledge deep in the jungles of New Guinea
