Defying Ocean's End Linda Glover, Sylvia Earle, 2012-09-26 If humankind were given a mandate to do everything in our power to undermine the earth's functioning we could hardly do a better job than we have in the past thirty years on the world's oceans both by what we are putting into it millions of tons of trash and toxic materials and by what we are taking out of it millions of tons of wildlife Yet only recently have we begun to understand the scale of those impacts Defying Ocean's End is the result of an unprecedented effort among the world's largest environmental organizations scientists the business community media and international governments to address these marine issues In June 2003 in the culmination of a year long effort they met specifically to develop a comprehensive and achievable agenda to reverse the decline in health of the world's oceans As conservation organizations begin to expand their focus from land issues to include a major focus on preservation of the sea it is increasingly apparent that we have to approach marine conservation differently and at much larger scale than we have to date What's also clear is the magnitude and immediacy of the growing ocean concerns are such that no one organization can handle the job alone Defying Ocean's End is a bold step in bringing the resources needed to bear on this vast problem before it is too late It offers a broad strategy a practical plan with priorities and costs aimed at mobilizing the forces needed to bring about a sea change of favorable attitudes actions and outcomes for the oceans and for all of us

The Oceans Eelco J. Rohling, 2020-07-14. The 4.4 billion year history of the oceans and their role in Earth's climate system. It has often been said that we know more about the moon than we do about our own oceans. In fact, we know a great deal more about the oceans than many people realize. Scientists know that our actions today are shaping the oceans and climate of tomorrow and that if we continue to act recklessly, the consequences will be dire. Eelco Rohling traces the 4.4 billion year history of Earth's oceans while also shedding light on the critical role they play in our planet's climate system. This timely and accessible book explores the close interrelationships of the oceans, climate, solid Earth processes and life using the context of Earth and ocean history to provide perspective on humankind's impacts on the health and habitability of our planet.
