City Status in the British Isles, 1830-2002 John Beckett, 2017-07-05 Based on a wide variety of government and civic records this book traces the evolution of the changing nature of city status particularly through the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Beginning with an explanation of how city status first became connected to cathedrals in the medieval period the book explores how during the nineteenth century links evolved between Anglican diocesan sub divisions and city creation It then shows how in a few years between 1888 and 1907 the traditional interpretation of a city was overturned as the most major British industrial and commercial towns received city status and lord mayoralties The second half of the book concentrates on city status during the twentieth century and particularly the politicisation of the process and the linking of grants to royal occasions The study concludes by looking at the city status competitions of 2000 and 2002 in relation to the previous two hundred years of city history Building on the Past Peter Malpass, Liz Cairncross, 2006-03-29 Despite the improved supply and quality of housing in the UK and Europe the future of housing remains uncertain Is decent affordable housing an achievable goal How far will governments seek to shape the market and respond to demographic pressures This book looks at the big questions housing as a key indicator of social and economic well being Remembering the South African War Peter McIntosh Donaldson, 2013 The first comprehensive survey of the memorialisation process in Britain in the aftermath of the South African War uncovering the themes and myths that underpinned the interpretations of the war as well as shifting patterns in how the war was represented and conceived Black 1919 Jacqueline Jenkinson, 2009-05-01 The riots that broke out in various British port cities in 1919 were a dramatic manifestation of a wave of global unrest that affected Britain parts of its empire continental Europe and North America during and in the wake of the First World War During the riots crowds of white working class people targeted black workers their families and black owned businesses and property One of the chief sources of violent confrontation in the run down port areas was the colour bar implemented by the sailors trades unions campaigning to keep black Arab and Asian sailors off British ships in a time of increasing job competition Black 1919 sets out the economic and social causes of the riots and their impact on Britain s relationship with its empire and its colonial subjects The riots are also considered within the wider context of rioting elsewhere on the fringes of the Atlantic world as black people came in increased numbers into urban and metropolitan settings where they competed with working class white people for jobs and housing during and after the First World War The book details the events of the port riots in Britain with chapters devoted to assessing the motivations and make up of the rioting crowds examining police procedures during the riots considering the court cases that followed and looking at the longer term consequences for the black British workers and their families Black 1919 is a stark and timely reminder of the violent racist conflict that emerged after the First World War and the shockwaves that reverberated around the Empire Tracing Your Manchester & Salford Ancestors Sue Wilkes, 2017-04-30 For readers with family ties to Manchester and Salford and researchers delving into the rich history of these cities this informative accessible guide will be essential reading and a fascinating source of reference Sue Wilkes outlines the social and family history of the region in a series of concise chapters She discusses the origins of its religious and civic institutions transport systems and major industries Important local firms and families are used to illustrate aspects of local heritage and each section directs the reader towards appropriate resources for their research No previous knowledge of genealogy is assumed and in depth reading on particular topics is recommended The focus is on records relating to Manchester and Salford including current districts and townships and sources for religious and ethnic minorities are covered A directory of the relevant archives libraries academic repositories databases societies websites and places to visit is a key feature of this practical book     Feeding the Victorian City Roger Scola,1992     Building on the past Malpass, Peter,Cairncross, Liz,2006-03-29 Despite the improved supply and quality of housing in the UK and Europe over the last 60 years the future of housing remains uncertain Will the supply of new housing meet demand Is decent affordable housing an achievable goal How far will governments seek to shape the market How will they respond to demographic pressures in different parts of the country Will housing wealth become a central issue in wider debates about the future of public services This book looks at the big questions affecting the future of housing as a key indicator of social and economic well being in the 21st century It brings together specially commissioned contributions by leading housing experts who explore a wide range of themes and issues affecting the prospects for the coming 20 years or more Drawing on the evidence of the past and present they analyse the implications of current trends to consider how markets and governments might respond to the challenges ahead The book is not a work of prophecy or a manifesto for action It is designed to stimulate and contribute to informed debate about possible futures and what can be done to influence what happens Building on the past will be of interest to all those concerned about the future of housing neighbourhoods and communities over the next 20 years     Lancashire Clare Hartwell,Matthew Hyde,Nikolaus Pevsner,Sir Nikolaus Pevsner,2004-01-01 A comprehensive guide to the buildings of south east Lancashire     The Municipal Journal and Public Works Engineer ,1925     The Solicitors' Journal & Reporter ,1866

Reconsidering Neighbourhoods and Living with Dementia: Spaces, Places, and People John Keady, 2023-10-19 This book holds the story of a monumental research effort. It provides a moving thoughtful understanding of what neighbourhood means and is a beacon for efforts aimed at improving the quality of life of all involved. Steven R Sabat Professor Emeritus of Psychology Georgetown University Washington D C USA. It is indicative reading for educators researchers clinicians and policy makers nationally and internationally. By grounding the underpinning research in the lived experience of people with dementia the book's appeal extends to voluntary and community groups. Reading it is a must. Assumpta Ryan Professor of Ageing and Health Ulster University UK. A remarkable contribution to the Reconsidering Dementia series. Bob Woods Emeritus Professor Bangor University UK. This book provides research based insights into the lived experience of dementia aging in place and the use of participatory and creative social research approaches in the field of dementia studies. For the first time the key findings of one of the UK's largest funded social science research projects the Neighbourhoods study are assembled into one accessibly written blueprint for dementia care aiding better understanding of the place and position of those living with dementia in the home and neighbourhood context. Reconsidering Neighbourhoods and Living with Dementia highlights the importance of home for people living with dementia and that neighbourhoods are seen to be relational virtual technological connected lived remembered and imagined and to exist within and across time. The book is organised under five key parts: The Lived Neighbourhood, Neighbourhoods Measurement and Technology, Neighbourhoods and Big Data, Personal Well Being and Neighbourhood Programme Support, Bringing it Together and Future Directions. This comprehensive book is appropriate to a wide range of readers and disciplines including those living with dementia, the related health and voluntary professions, family carers, practitioners, academics and students undertaking a variety of courses aligned to gerontology, dementia studies and human geography. The Reconsidering Dementia Series is an interdisciplinary series published by Open University Press that covers contemporary issues to challenge and engage readers in thinking deeply about the topic. The dementia field has developed rapidly in its scope and practice over the past ten years and books in this series will unpack not only what this means for the student, academic and practitioner but also for all those affected by dementia. Series Editors: Dr Keith Oliver and Professor Dawn Brooker MBE. John Keady is a mental health nurse who has been involved in dementia care for over 30 years. Since 2006 he has held a joint appointment between the University of Manchester and the Greater Manchester Mental Health NHS Foundation Trust. He was the Chief Investigator of the Neighbourhoods study. Mark Lane Express, 1916 Municipal Journal, 1929 The Dead City Paul Dobraszczyk, 2017-06-30. The Dead City unearths meanings from such depictions of ruination and decay, looking at representations of both thriving cities and ones which are struggling, abandoned or simply in transition. It reveals that ruination presents a complex opportunity to envision new futures for a city, whether that is by rewriting its past or throwing off old assumptions and proposing radical change. Seen in a certain light, for example, urban ruin and decay are a challenge to capitalist narratives of unbounded progress They can equally imply that power structures thought to be deeply ingrained are temporary contingent and even fragile Examining ruins in Chernobyl Detroit London Manchester and Varosha this book demonstrates that how we discuss and depict urban decline is intimately connected to the histories economic forces power structures and communities of a given city as well as to conflicting visions for its future
