The Early Black-Figured Pottery of Attika in Context (c. 630-570 BCE) Alexandra Alexandridou, 2010-11-01 Setting as a starting point the introduction of the black figure technique in Attic workshops at around 630 BCE this book attempts a contextual analysis of Attic pottery until late in the first quarter of the sixth century BCE The shapes and their functions as well as the iconographic themes are explored through this perspective This offers an interesting insight into funerary cultic and profane activities in Athens and the Attic countryside which is completed by an extensive study of the trade and distribution of Attic vases during this period The result is a complete overview of early black figure Attic production enabling an afresh archaeological approach to late seventh and early sixth century Attic society

Silver in England Philippa Glanville, 2013-11-05 First Published in 2005 Silver is unique among the decorative arts in that its raw material is both inherently valuable and infinitely reusable Its ownership has been a social bench mark and its form has exercised the skills of sculptors designers chasers and engravers but ultimately it could be and normally was melted down and refashioned quite without sentiment Because of this constant recycling the survival of any individual object is quite random and unrelated to its uniqueness or otherwise in its period Hitherto plate historians have focused on individual objects almost to the exclusion of the context social or economic from which they came but now that context is seen as crucial in understanding historic plate So in the first section of this book each chapter considers contemporary attitudes and usage
