Shaping Globalization

Nicanor Perlas

Shaping Globalization:

Shaping Globalization Nicanor Perlas, 2019-03-25 Civil Society has become a major power in the world The stunning defeat of the controversial and secretive Multilateral Agreement on Investments the massive worldwide WTO protests and the yearly meetings of the World Social Forum are testimony to its coming of age From these significant victories civil society continued to catch world attention with the Arab Spring the grassroots movement that helped elect former US President Barack Obama and the significant gains of the anti fracking campaign With tens of millions of citizens and over a trillion dollars involved in advancing its agenda civil society now joins the state and the market as the third key institution shaping globalization However it cannot fully mobilize its resources and power as it currently lacks clear understanding of its identity Shaping Globalization argues that global civil society is a cultural institution wielding cultural power and shows how through the use of this distinct power it can advance its agenda in the political and economic realms of society without compromising its identity Nicanor Perlas outlines the strategic implications for civil society both locally and globally and explains that civil society s key task is to inaugurate threefolding the forging of strategic partnerships between civil society government and business Such authentic tri sector partnerships are essential for advancing new ways for nations to develop and for charting a different sustainable type of globalization Using the model of the Philippine Agenda 21 we are shown how civil society and progressive individuals and agencies in government and business are demonstrating the effectiveness of this new understanding to ensure that globalization benefits the environment the poor and society as a whole This reprinted edition includes a new Afterword
