Shattered Self End Of Natural Evolution:

Towards a Collaborative Environment Research Agenda Alyson Warhurst,2000 The Shattered Self Pierre Baldi,2001 An exploration of the far reaching scientific and social changes made possible by advances in molecular biotechnology Knowledge Politics Nico Stehr,2015-12-03 This book argues that new technologies and society's response to them have created a relatively new phenomenon knowledge politics Nico Stehr describes Western society's response to a host of new technologies developed only since the 1970s including genetic experiments test tube human conception recombinant DNA and embryonic stem cells genetically engineered foods neurogenetics and genetic engineering and reproductive cloning and the reconstruction of the human ancestral genome He looks also at the prospective fusion of nanotechnology biotechnology information technology transgenic human engineering and cognitive science whose products may as its boosters claim some day cure disease slow the aging process eliminate pollution and generally enhance human performance Knowledge Politics shows how human civilization has reached a new era of concern about the life altering potentials of new technologies Concerns about the societal consequences of an unfettered expansion of natural scientific knowledge are being raised more urgently and are moving to the center of disputes in society and thus to the top of the political agenda Stehr explains the ramifications of knowledge politics and the approaches society could take to resolve difficult questions and conflicts over present and future scientific innovation A History of Science in Society Andrew Ede,Lesley B. Cormack,2012-01-01 A History of Science in Society is a concise overview that introduces complex ideas in a non technical fashion Volume II begins with the work of Sir Isaac Newton and ends with a new section on climate change

New Approaches to Contemporary Adaptation Betty Kaklamanidou,2020-11-17 Scholars of cultural gender film literary and adaptation studies will find this collection innovative and thought provoking Transacting Sites of the Liminal

Bodily Spaces Catalina Florina Florescu, 2011-01-18 This book focuses on liminal bodies and their delicate transaction with themselves and other people's bodies. More specifically, it explores the spatiality and discourses of the body dying, the body opened in surgery or through MRIs, CATs, and sometimes in autopsies, the body preserved through computerized images such as those created by the Visual Human Project, the metonymic body that continues to live in another body through organ replacement, and the bodily parts cast in silver and then abandoned in a museum. This study also analyzes the discourses of the contemporary body commissioned by the vast industry of mass media. This type of body has started to direct itself toward frugal, almost furtive pleasures; consequently, unlike those seriously affected by illnesses, a body constantly guarded by fear eventually runs on empty, becomes a corps d j vu, and thus moves toward different types of minimal and liminal topology. The primary works examined include memoirs: Marjorie Williams's Hit by Lightning, A Cancer Memoir; Arthur W. Frank's At the Will of the Body; Reflections on Illness; Audre Lorde's The Cancer Journals; films: Alejandro Amenabar's The Sea Inside; Akira Kurosawa's Ikiru; Pedro Almodvar's All about My Mother; stories: Marisa Silver's Night Train to Frankfurt; visual artworks as accomplished by Jo Spence, David Wojnarowicz, Felix Gonzales Torres, and Natalie Horne; and plays: Bryony Lavery's Last Easter; Paula Vogel's Baltimore; Waltz; William Hoffman's As Is, which are read comparatively, namely as works positioned at the intersection between literature, visual art, and social diaries. This book has become part of the collections of the world's leading universities: Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, the Library of Congress, and more.

Debating Biology Gillian

Bendelow, Lynda Birke, Simon Williams, 2005-07-28 Relations between the biological and social sciences have been hotly contested and debated over the years. The uses and abuses of biology, not least to legitimate or naturalize social inequalities and to limit freedoms, have rightly been condemned. All too often, however, the style of debate has been reductionist and ultimately unfruitful. As we enter an age in which ultra-Darwinian forms of explanation gather momentum and the bio-tech revolution threatens a Brave New World of possibilities, there is an urgent need to re-open the dialogue and rethink these issues in more productive ways. Debating Biology takes a fresh look at the relationship between biology and society as it is played out in the arena of health and medicine. Bringing together contributions from both biologists and sociologists, the book is divided into five themed sections. Theorising Biology draws on a range of critical perspectives to discuss the case for bringing back the biological into sociology. Structuring Biology focuses on the interplay between biological and social factors in the patterning of health and illness. Embodying Biology examines the relationship between the lived body and the biological body. Technologizing Biology takes up the multiple relations between biology, science, and technology. Reclaiming Biology looks at the broader ethical and political agendas. Written in an accessible and engaging style, this timely volume will appeal to a wide audience within and beyond the social sciences, including students, lecturers, and researchers in health and related domains.

Evolutionary Bioinformatics Donald R. Forsdyke, 2010-11-11 Books on bioinformatics, which began appearing in the mid 80s, primarily served gene hunters and biologists who wished to construct family trees showing tidy lines of descent. Given the great pharmaceutical industry interest in genes this trend has continued in most subsequent texts These deal extensively with the exciting topic of gene discovery and searching databases but hardly consider genomes as information channels through which multiple forms and levels of information including genic information have passed through the generations

Technophobia! Daniel Dinello, 2013-08-26 Techno heaven or techno hell If you believe many scientists working in the emerging fields of twenty first century technology the future is blissfully bright Initially human bodies will be perfected through genetic manipulation and the fusion of human and machine later human beings will completely shed the shackles of pain disease and even death as human minds are downloaded into death free robots whereby they can live forever in a heavenly posthuman existence In this techno utopian future humanity will be saved by the godlike power of technology If you believe the authors of science fiction however posthuman evolution marks the beginning of the end of human freedom values and identity Our dark future will be dominated by mad scientists rampaging robots killer clones and uncontrollable viruses In this timely new book Daniel Dinello examines the dramatic conflict between the techno utopia promised by real world scientists and the techno dystopia predicted by science fiction Organized into chapters devoted to robotics bionics artificial intelligence virtual reality biotechnology nanotechnology and other significant scientific advancements this book summarizes the current state of each technology while presenting corresponding reactions in science fiction Dinello draws on a rich range of material including films television books and computer games and argues that science fiction functions as a valuable corrective to technological domination countering techno hype and reflecting the weaponized religiously rationalized profit fueled motives of such science By imaging a disastrous future of posthuman techno totalitarianism science fiction encourages us to construct ways to contain new technology and asks its audience perhaps the most important question of the twenty first century is technology out of control
