A Scientific and Historical Survey. Edited by David L. Linton British Association for the Advancement of Science, 1956. Sheffield and its region: a scientific and historical survey, ed British Association for the Advancement of Science. Sheffield Local Executive Committee, David Leslie Linton, A Bibliography of British History, 1914-1989 Keith Robbins, American Historical Association, Royal Historical Society (Great Britain), 1996. Containing over 25 000 entries, this unique volume will be absolutely indispensable for all those with an interest in Britain in the twentieth century. Accessibly arranged by theme, with helpful introductions to each chapter, a huge range of topics is covered. There is a comprehensive index. The Victorian Music Hall Dagmar Kift, 1996-10-24. With the exception of the occasional local case study, music hall history has until now been presented as the history of the London halls. This book attempts to redress the balance by setting music hall history within a national perspective. Kift also sheds a new light on the roles of managements, performers, and audiences. For example, the author confutes the commonly held assumption that most women in the halls were prostitutes and shows them to have been working women accompanied by workmates of both sexes or by their families. She argues that before the 1890s the halls catered predominantly to working class and lower middle class audiences of men and women of all ages and were instrumental in giving them a strong and self-confident identity. The hall's ability to sustain a distinct class awareness was one of their greatest strengths, but this factor was also at the root of many of the controversies which surrounded them. These controversies are at the centre of the book, and Kift treats them as test cases for social relations which provide fresh insights into nineteenth-century British society and politics. Guide to Reference Material: Social & historical sciences, philosophy & religion Albert John Walford, Library Association, 1973. Conflict and Compromise Dennis Smith, 2016-06-17. First published in 1982, this study explores the dynamics of class formation during the vital decades between 1830 and 1914, when a rising urban industrial order was developing in complex interdependence with a declining rural agrarian order. The book follows the divergent paths of two cities, Birmingham and Sheffield, in their social development. These paths reflect the complex process of conflict and compromise as the old order was gradually replaced by the new It studies in detail many aspects of social life that were affected by these changes such as education public administration political structures public administration religion the professions popular culture and family This book will be of interest to those studying Victorian history and sociology Cinemas and Cinema-Going in the United Kingdom: Decades of Decline, 1945-65 Sam Manning, 2020-03-31 Cinema going was the most popular commercial leisure activity in the first half of the twentieth century peaking in 1946 with 1.6 billion recorded admissions Though going to the pictures remained a popular pastime the transition to peacetime altered citizens leisure habits During the 1950s increased affluence the growth of television ownership and the diversification of leisure led to rapid declines in attendance Cinema attendances fell in all regions but the speed nature and extent of decline varied widely across the United Kingdom By linking national developments to detailed case studies of Belfast and Sheffield this book adds nuance to our understanding of regional variations in film exhibition audience habits and cinema going experiences during a period of profound social and cultural change Drawing on a wide range of quantitative and qualitative sources Cinema and Cinema Going conveys the diverse nature of this important industry and the significance of place as a determinant of film attendance in post war Britain A Tale Of Two Cities Karen Evans, Penny Fraser, Ian Taylor, 2002-11-01 A Tale of Two Cities is a study of two major cities Manchester and Sheffield Drawing on the work of major theorists the authors explore the everyday life making contributions to our understanding of the defining activities of life The Geomorphology of North-west England Richard Hugh Johnson, 1985
