Looking High And Low Art And Cultural Identity:

Looking High and Low Brenda Jo Bright, Liza Bakewell, 2022-12-06 Can low riders rightfully be considered art Why are Chicano murals considered art while graffiti is considered vandalism What do Native American artisans think about the popular display of their ceremonial objects How do the middlebrow notions of Getty workers influence highbrow values at the J Paul Getty Trust Looking High and Low attempts to answer these questions and the broader question What is art by bringing together a collection of challenging essays on the meaning of art in cultural context and on the ways that our understandings of art have been influenced by social process and aesthetic values Arguing that art is constituted across cultural boundaries rather than merely inside them the contributors explore the relations between art cultural identity and the social languages of evaluation among artists art critics art institutions and their audiences in the Southwest and in Mexico The authors use anthropological methods in art communities to uncover compelling evidence of how marginalized populations make meaning for themselves how images of ethnicity function in commercial culture how Native populations must negotiate sentimental marketing and institutional appropriation of their art work and how elite populations use culture and ritual in ways that both reveal and obscure their power and status The authors make dramatic revelations concerning the construction and contestation of ideas of art as they circulate between groups where notions of what art should be are often at odds with each other This volume challenges conventional modes of analyzing art Its ethnographic explorations illuminate the importance of art as a cultural force while creating a greater awareness of the roles that scholars museum curators and critics play in the evaluation of art Contents Introduction Art Hierarchies Cultural Boundaries and Reflexive Analysis Brenda Jo Bright Bellas Artes and Artes Populares The Implications of Difference in the Mexico City Art World Liza Bakewell Space Power and Youth Culture Mexican American Graffiti and Chicano Murals in East Los Angeles 1972 1978 Marcos Sanchez Tranquilino Remappings Los Angeles Low Riders Brenda Jo Bright Marketing Maria The Tribal Artist in the Age of Mechanical Reproduction Barbara Babcock Aesthetics and Politics Zuni War God Repatriation and Kachina Representation Barbara Tedlock Middlebrow into Highbrow at the J Paul Getty Trust Los Angeles George E Marcus

A New Deal for Native Art Jennifer McLerran, 2022-08-16 As the Great Depression touched every corner of America the New Deal promoted indigenous arts and crafts as a means of bootstrapping Native American peoples But New Deal administrators romanticization of indigenous artists predisposed them to favor pre industrial forms rather than art that responded to contemporary markets In A New Deal for Native Art Jennifer McLerran reveals how positioning the native artist as a pre modern Other served the goals of New Deal programs and how this sometimes worked at cross purposes with promoting native self sufficiency She describes federal policies of the 1930s and early 1940s that sought to generate an upscale market for Native American arts and crafts And by unraveling the complex ways in which commodification was negotiated and the roles that producers consumers and New Deal administrators played in that process she sheds new light on native art s commodity status and the artist s position as colonial subject In this first book to address the ways in which New Deal Indian policy specifically advanced commodification and colonization McLerran reviews its multi pronged effort to improve the market for Indian art through the Indian Arts and Crafts Board arts and crafts cooperatives murals museum exhibits and Civilian Conservation Corps projects Presenting nationwide case studies that demonstrate transcultural dynamics of production and reception she argues for viewing Indian art as a commodity as part of the national economy and as part of national political trends and reform efforts McLerran marks the contributions of key individuals from John Collier and Rene d Harmoncourt to Navajo artist Gerald Nailor whose mural in the Navajo Nation Council House conveyed distinctly different messages to outsiders and tribal members Featuring dozens of illustrations A New Deal for Native Art offers a new look at the complexities of folk art revivals as it opens a new window on the Indian New Deal

Exhibiting Mestizaje Karen Mary Davalos,2001 In this authoritative study Davalos challenges the sometimes hidden sometimes blatant assumptions that underlie the practice of creating museum exhibits and asks what happens when people of Mexican American descent put themselves in command of the collection display and interpretation of their cultural products Advancing a Chicana feminist interpretation Davalos carefully explores both the history of nineteenth and twentieth century museum practices and the more recent phenomenon of physically locating Mestizo Chicano art within insider spaces such as ethnically or racially specific cultural institutions and alternative galleries Just as public museums instruct visitors about who does and who does not belong to a nation s cultural legacy Davalos makes clear that exhibitions in so called minority museums are likewise shaped by notions of difference and nationalism and by the politics of identity and race Davalos pays particular attention to museum and cultural centers in major Mexican diaspora communities including the Mexican Fine Arts Museum in Chicago and Galeria de la Raza in San Francisco Throughout she critically examines Chicano Mexican Mestizo and Mexican American subjectivities as they are expressed in curatorial decisions and practices in educational materials and catalog texts and in the performances and other public events that accompany museum exhibits That practice what Davalos calls exhibiting mestizaje produces complex representations of Mexican Americans Davalos s analysis shows clearly that the value of mestizaje and diaspora lies in their ability to create a cultural poetics from fluidity and conflict Davalos accomplishes the difficult task of discussing Chicano art as both aesthetic and political work She does not reduce artistic expression to political propaganda but neither does she examine aesthetic issues in isolation from the social processes that give them shape and meaning George Lipsitz Chair Ethnic Studies Department UC San Diego

The Archaeology of Art in the American Southwest Marit K. Munson, 2011-04-16 Archaeologists seldom study ancient art even though art is fundamental to the human experience The Archaeology of Art in the American Southwest argues that archaeologists should study ancient artifacts as artwork as applying the term art to the past raises new questions about artists audiences and the works of art themselves Munson proposes that studies of ancient artwork be based on standard archaeological approaches to material culture framed by theoretical insights of disciplines such as art history visual studies and psychology Using examples drawn from the American Southwest The Archaeology of Art in the American Southwest discusses artistic practice in ancestral Pueblo and Mimbres ceramics and the implications of context and accessibility for the audiences of painted murals and rock art Studies of Hohokam figurines and rock art illustrate methods for studying ancient images while the aesthetics of ancient art are suggested by work on ceramics and kivas from Chaco Canyon This book will be of interest to archaeologists working in the Southwest who want to broaden their perspective on the past It will also appeal to archaeologists in other parts of the world and to anthropologists art historians and those who are intrigued by the material world aesthetics and the visual
