The intertextuality of Roland Barthes's "The Lover's Discourse" in Jeffrey Eugenides novel "The Marriage Plot" Olena Brandes, 2022-08-31 Seminar paper from the year 2021 in the subject Literature Comparative Literature grade 1.7 University of Göttingen language English abstract The aim of this paper is to explore the different intertextual links between the two literary works While the main character Madeleine deconstructs Barthes's deconstruction of love in her term paper and applies it to her own life the narrator deconstructs Madeleine's love life and this paper should deconstruct the narration's deconstruction of the relationship If the concept of love is to be seen as an architectural building consisting of a foundation roofs walls floors stairs openings standing in a specific location and having a personal interior design it can be disassembled into its individual parts Even though most buildings are different and fewest are identical they all share the same basic elements they are built of The French philosopher Roland Barthes breaks down the concept of love into its fragments in his work A Lover's Discourse 1977 34 years later the American novelist Jeffrey Eugenides publishes a romance novel The Marriage Plot 2011 where Barthes's fragments are a reference point to the narrator Some of these fragments are direct quotes but most remain unsaid lying under the surface Finding all fragments would go beyond the constraints of this paper Thus the focus should be on only a few fragments In particular focusing on the most prominent main character's perspective while the plot contains two more discourses on love from the main character's love interests

Paralyses John Culbert, 2010-01-01 Modernity has long been equated with motion travel and change from Marx's critical diagnoses of economic instability to the Futurists glorification of speed Likewise metaphors of travel serve widely in discussions of empire cultural contact translation and globalization from Deleuze's nomadology to James Clifford's traveling cultures John Culbert in contrast argues that the key texts of modernity and postmodernity may be approached through figures and narratives of paralysis motion is no more defining of modern travel than fixations resistance and impasse concepts and figures of travel he posits must be rethought in this more static light Focusing on the French and Francophone context in which paralyzed travel is a persistent motif Culbert also offers new insights into French critical theory and its often paradoxical figures of mobility from Blanchot's pas au del and Barthes's dérive to Derrida's aporias and Glissant's diversions Here we see that paralysis is not merely the failure of transport but rather the condition in which travel by coming to a crisis calls into question both mobility and stasis in the language of desire and the order of knowledge Paralyses provides a close analysis of the rhetoric of empire and the economy of tourism precisely at their points of breakdown which in turn enables a deconstruction of master narratives of exploration conquest and exoticism A reassessment of key authors of French modernity from Nerval and Gautier to Fromentin Paulhan Beckett Leiris and Boudjedra Paralyses also constitutes a new theoretical intervention in debates on travel translation ethics and postcoloniality

Interculturality in Fragments Fred Dervin, 2022-10-28 This book continues the author's long term reflections over 20 years of scholarship and experience in intercultural communication education around the fascinating and yet contestable notion of interculturality in education As an unstable and polysemic notion interculturality deserves to be opened up again and again and there is a need to engage with it continuously observing critiquing and problematizing its complexities This book urges researchers students and interculturalists to take the time to think carefully and deeply about interculturality and to find inspiration beyond the dominating Western ideological world of intercultural research and education This book starts from short fragments written by the author for himself over a period of one year In these short statements and notes about interculturality the author reflects creatively on the questions he had in mind at the time of writing and offers some temporary answers which in turn are questioned and revised Over the 1000 fragments that the author wrote he selected about 100 for which he wrote commentaries referring to and reviewing current research and debates on interculturality in the process One of the specificities of the book is to be highly multidisciplinary to help us get used to looking for inspiration in other fields of research and creativity The fragments can be read randomly the reader may open the book at any page and pick any fragment The author suggests reading each individual fragment first and then the accompanying explanatory texts While reading them the reader is also invited to reflect on any potential addition to what the author wrote anything they might disagree with anything they would have wanted to discuss with the author Questions have been added at the end of each chapter for readers to reflect on and to enrich their own criticality and reflexivity The book serves as continuous guidance for the relationship between philosophy and theology Covering the ground from some of his earliest writings on this topic to very recent reflections they are particularly useful for understanding the progression of Marion s thought on such topics as the saturated phenomenon and the possibility of something like Christian Philosophy The book contains his seminal pieces on the saturated phenomenon and on the gift although the essays also explore more recent developments of his thought on these topics Several chapters explicitly explore the boundary line between philosophy and theology or their mutual enrichment and influence In one of the final pieces The Banality of Saturation Marion considers some of the most recent objections brought against his notion of the saturated phenomenon and responds to them in detail suggesting that saturated phenomena are neither as rare nor as inflexible as often assumed The work contains two chapters not previously available in English and brings together several other pieces previously translated but now difficult to find For readers interested in the relation between the two disciplines this is indispensable reading      The Ballad in American Popular Music David
