Applied Econometric Time Series Enders, 1996-04-12 Amstat News asked three review editors to rate their top five favorite books in the September 2003 issue Applied Econometric Times Series was among those chosen Unique in that it covers modern time series analysis from the sole prerequisite of an introductory course in multiple regression analysis Describes the theory of difference equations demonstrating that they are the foundation of all time series models with emphasis on the Box Jenkins methodology Considers many recent developments in time series analysis including unit root tests ARCH models cointegration error correction models vector autoregressions and more There are numerous examples to illustrate various techniques many of which concern econometric models of transnational terrorism The accompanying disk provides data for students to work with

Introductory Econometrics for Finance Chris Brooks, 2002 This is the first textbook to teach introductory econometrics to finance majors The text is data and problem driven giving students the skills to estimate and interpret models whilst having an intuitive grasp of the underlying theoretical concepts The approach of Dr Brooks based on the successful course he teaches at the Cass Business School one of Europe's leading business schools ensures that the text focuses squarely on the needs of finance students including advice on planning and executing a project in empirical finance The book assumes no prior knowledge of econometrics and covers important modern topics such as time series forecasting volatility modelling switching models and simulation methods It includes detailed examples and case studies from the finance literature Sample instructions and output from two popular and widely available computer packages EViews and WinRATS are presented as an integral part of the text

Agenda-setting Dynamics in Canada Stuart Neil Soroka, 2002 Why do public issues like the environment rise and fall in importance over time To what extent can the trends in salience be explained by real world factors To what degree are they the product of interactions between media content public opinion and policymaking This book surveys the development of eight issues in Canada over a decade AIDS crime the debt deficit the environment inflation national unity taxes and unemployment to explore how the salience of issues changes over time and to examine why these changes are important to our understanding of everyday politics Agenda Setting Dynamics in Canada offers one of the first empirical analyses of the interaction of the media the public and policymakers in Canada and more generally makes an important contribution to the study of political communications and policymaking well beyond the Canadian context

The Theory of Environmental Agreements and Taxes Martin Enevoldsen, 2005-01-01 Martin Enevoldsen's book is a pioneering work that compares the impacts of various non regulatory environmental strategies in achieving measurable pollution reductions Much has been written on the theoretical virtues and drawbacks of green taxation versus the adoption of voluntary agreements when it comes to effective implementation of environmental goals In convincing detail this book makes the case for the effectiveness of environmental taxation its barriers being primarily political in nature rather than economic Green taxes are highly controversial even in the most environmentally conscious nations particularly when they are regarded as a purely fiscal instrument The successful Danish CO2 taxation on industry which this study proves to be much more effective than the Dutch system of voluntary agreements or the Austrian laissez faire policies relied not only on the inducement of the CO2 tax itself all of the tax revenue was ploughed back into industry as subsidies for investments in advanced energy saving technologies Martin Enevoldsen s book is simply a must for political scientists environmental economists and environment policymakers Svend Auken M P and former Danish Minister for Environment and Energy Although there is a huge demand for accurate analysis of environmental policy outcomes in both the academic and policy making communities there is currently very little theoretical research on this issue This ambitious book redresses the balance by constructing a new theoretical framework at the crossroads between economics and political science to account for the effectiveness of environmental governance Drawing on insights from new institutional economics environmental economics collective action theory and social capital theory the author analyses how policy outcomes are influenced by institutional factors that constrain and empower the target groups of environmental regulation

International Journal of Applied Mathematics , 2003 Assessing the Macroeconomic Impact of HIV/AIDS in Uganda , 2007 The Econometrics of Panel Data László Mátyás, Patrick Sevestre, 2013-12-01 The aim of this volume is to provide a general overview of the econometrics of panel data both from a theoretical and from an applied viewpoint Since the pioneering papers by Kuh 1959 Mundlak 1961 Hoch 1962 and Balestra and Nerlove 1966 the pooling of cross section and time series data has become an increasingly popular way of quantifying economic relationships Each series provides information lacking in the other so a combination of both leads to more accurate and reliable results than would be achievable by one type of series alone Over the last 30 years much work has been done investigation of the properties of the applied estimators and test statistics analysis of dynamic models and the effects of eventual measurement errors etc These are just some of the problems addressed by this work In addition some specific difficulties associated with the use of panel data such as attrition heterogeneity selectivity bias pseudo panels etc have also been explored The first objective of this book which takes up Parts I and II is to give as complete and up to date a presentation of these theoretical developments as possible Part I is concerned with classical linear models and their extensions Part II deals with nonlinear models and related issues logit and probit models latent variable models incomplete panels and selectivity bias and point processes

Journal of Economic Literature , 1996 Multivariate Tests for Time Series Models Jeff B. Cromwell, 1994 Which time series test should researchers choose to best describe the interactions among a set of time series variables Providing guidelines for identifying the appropriate multivariate time series model to use this book explores the nature and application of these increasingly complex tests Handbook of Computational Econometrics David A. Belsley, Erricos Kontoghiorghes, 2009-08-18

Handbook of Computational Econometrics examines the state of the art of computational econometrics and provides exemplary studies dealing with computational issues arising from a wide spectrum of econometric fields including such topics as bootstrapping the evaluation of econometric software and algorithms for control optimization and estimation Each topic is fully introduced before proceeding to a more in depth examination of the relevant methodologies and valuable illustrations This book Provides self contained treatments of issues in computational econometrics with illustrations and invaluable bibliographies Brings together contributions from leading researchers Develops the techniques needed to carry out computational econometrics Features network studies non parametric estimation optimization techniques Bayesian estimation and inference testing methods time series analysis linear and nonlinear methods VAR analysis bootstrapping developments signal extraction software history and evaluation This book will appeal to econometricians financial statisticians econometric researchers and students of econometrics at both graduate and advanced undergraduate levels

Econometric Modelling with Time Series Vance Martin, Stan Hurn, David Harris, 2013 Maximum likelihood estimation is a general method for estimating the parameters of econometric models from observed data The principle of maximum likelihood plays a central role in the exposition of this book since a number of estimators used in econometrics can be derived within this framework Examples include ordinary least squares generalized least squares and full information maximum likelihood In deriving the maximum likelihood estimator a key concept is the joint probability density function pdf of the observed random variables y_t Maximum likelihood estimation requires that the following conditions are satisfied 1 The form of the joint pdf of y_t is known 2 The specification of the moments of the joint pdf are known 3 The joint pdf can be evaluated for all values of the parameters 9 Parts ONE and TWO of this book deal with models in which all these conditions are satisfied Part THREE investigates models in which these conditions are not satisfied and considers four important cases First if the distribution of y_t is misspecified resulting in both conditions 1 and 2 being violated estimation is by quasi maximum likelihood Chapter 9 Second if condition 1 is not satisfied a generalized method of moments estimator Chapter 10 is required Third if condition 2 is not satisfied estimation relies on nonparametric methods Chapter 11 Fourth if condition 3 is violated simulation based estimation methods are used Chapter 12 1 2 Motivating Examples To highlight the role of probability distributions in maximum likelihood estimation this section emphasizes the link between observed sample data and 4 The Maximum Likelihood Principle the probability distribution from which they are drawn Provided by publisher Computing Skills for Economists Guy Judge, 2000-06-08 Today's students are expected to use computers and familiarize themselves with wordprocessing and spreadsheet packages They are also expected to be able to use the Internet This volume adopts a practical approach in teaching the subject with emphasis on the software used by economists Econometric Business Cycle Research Jan Jacobs, 2012-12-06 Econometric Business Cycle Research deals with econometric business cycle research EBCR a term introduced by the Nobel laureate Jan Tinbergen for his econometric method of testing economic business cycle theories EBCR combines economic theory and measurement in the study of business cycles i.e. ups and downs in overall economic activity We assess four methods of EBCR business cycle indicators simultaneous equations models vector autoregressive systems and real business indicators After a sketch of the history of the methods we investigate whether the methods meet the goals of EBCR the three traditional ones description forecasting and policy evaluation and the one Tinbergen introduced the implementation testing of business cycles The first three EBCR methods are illustrated for the Netherlands a typical example of a small open economy The main conclusion of the book is that simultaneous equation models are the best vehicle for EBCR if all its goals are to be attained simultaneously This conclusion is based on a fairly detailed assessment of the methods and is not overturned in the empirical illustrations The main conclusion does not imply the end of other EBCR methods Not all goals have to be met with a single vehicle other methods might serve the purpose equally well or even better For example if one is interested in business cycle forecasts one might prefer a business cycle indicator or vector autoregressive system A second conclusion is that many ideas concepts that play an important role in current discussions about econometric methodology in general and EBCR in particular were put forward in the 1930s and 1940s A third conclusion is that it is difficult if not impossible to compare the outcomes of RBC models to outcomes of the other three methods because RBC modellers are not interested in modelling business cycles on an observation per observation basis A more general conclusion in this respect is that methods should adopt the same concept of business cycles to make them comparable AJPS American Journal of Political Science ,2001
