Ravens Call And More Northwest Coast Stories:

Raven's Call Robert James Challenger, 2011-04-25 Robert James Challenger uses the form of parables to teach children important values. The observations of Grandmother and other family members interpret the actions of nature's creatures in a variety of circumstances. His simple direct stories reflect a philosophy widely embraced: respect for our environment and understanding of all creeds, races, and generations. Each of the 18 stories is illustrated by a graceful motif that reflects the strong influence of First Nations art on Challenger's work. Orca's Family Robert James Challenger, 2011-03-01 This collection of west coast fables combines the approach of Aesop with the oral tradition of First Nations storytellers. Woodpecker shows how to be a true friend. Beaver demonstrates how to achieve dreams through hard work. Rainbow Trout finds that all things in nature have a purpose. Parents, grandparents, and teachers will embrace Robert James Challenger's stories which like all fables promote cultural values and respect among generations. Grizzly's Home Robert James Challenger, 2011-03-01 In this latest collection of beautifully illustrated easy to read fables, Robert James Challenger continues to teach children practical moral lessons about life in today's complicated world. Owl shows Grandson that a problem will only go away when each person involved becomes part of the solution. Little Mallard Duck finds out the hard way that things change over time and that even when we think we are not ready, it may be time to move on. Steelhead Trout learns that instead of swimming away from those who are different, it is much better to respect their points of view and help them to understand our own. All of Jim's books are perfect tools to teach children how to live in harmony with others and are widely used by parents and teachers to stimulate children to talk about their experiences. Conveying values of respect, cooperation, and kindness, their wisdom and beauty will leave a lasting impression on readers young and old. Quests for Fire, 2012-09-04 It is hard to imagine life without fire. Heat, light, food: where would we be without these essentials? Although we do not rely on fire as much today as in times past, nor have as much direct contact with it, fire was often crucial to survival when the stories in this collection were first told. People often told stories about it: what their lives were like without fire, how they first acquired it, and how it changed their lives. This collection of nine traditional tales retold by Jon C. Stott draws from eight different countries. Learn how Maui stole fire twice, New Zealand how Coyote and his friends captured fire, United States how Opossum brought fire back to the people, Mexico and how Vasilisa used the Baba Yaga's fire, Russia. The main characters of these stories differ in many aspects. Some are well-known heroes, and some are insignificant members of their groups. Some made their quests for fire alone, and some worked with others. Some were brave and unselfish, and some sought personal glory. But all knew that fire was essential for their people. Camping with Kids Jayne Seagrave, 2004 Children have certainly altered my camping life, writes Jayne Seagrave in this latest addition to her popular camping series. She rises to the challenge wonderfully, however, and with this detailed guide in hand, so will many other camping enthusiasts who feel daunted by the prospect of camping with kids. Ecologies of the Heart

E. N. Anderson, 1996-03-28 There is much we can learn about conservation from native peoples says Gene Anderson While the advanced nations of the West have failed to control overfishing deforestation soil erosion pollution and a host of other environmental problems many traditional peoples manage their natural resources quite successfully And if some traditional peoples mismanage the environment the irrational value some place on rhino horn for instance has left this species endangered the fact remains that most have found ways to introduce sound ecological management into their daily lives Why have they succeeded while we have failed In Ecologies of the Heart Gene Anderson reveals how religion and other folk beliefs help pre industrial peoples control and protect their resources Equally important he offers much insight into why our own environmental policies have failed and what we can do to better manage our resources A cultural ecologist Gene Anderson has spent his life exploring the ways in which different groups of people manage the environment and he has lived for years in fishing communities in Hong Kong Malaysia Singapore Tahiti and British Columbia as well as in a Mayan farmtown in south Mexico where he has studied fisheries farming and forest management He has concluded that all traditional societies that have managed resources well over time have done so in part through religion by the use of emotionally powerful cultural symbols that reinforce particular resource management strategies Moreover he argues that these religious beliefs while seeming unscientific if not irrational at first glance are actually based on long observation of nature To illustrate this insight he includes many fascinating portraits of native life He offers for instance an intriguing discussion of the Chinese belief system known as Feng Shui wind and water and tells of meeting villagers in remote areas of Hong Kong's New Territories who assert that dragons live in the mountains and that to disturb them by cutting too sharply into the rock surface would cause floods and landslides which in fact it does He describes the Tlingit Indians of the Pacific Northwest who before they strip bark from the great cedar trees make elaborate apologies to spirits they believe live inside the trees assuring the spirits that they take only what is necessary And we read of the Maya of southern Mexico who speak of the lords of the Forest and the Animals who punish those who take more from the land or the rivers than they need These beliefs work in part because they are based on long observation of nature but also and equally important because they are incorporated into a larger cosmology so that people have a strong emotional investment in them And conversely Anderson argues that our environmental programs often fail because we have not found a way to engage our emotions in conservation practices Folk beliefs are often dismissed as irrational superstitions Yet as Anderson shows these beliefs do more to protect the environment than modern science does in the West Full of insights Ecologies of the Heart mixes anthropology with ecology and psychology traditional myth and folklore with informed discussions of conservation efforts in industrial society to reveal a strikingly new approach to our current environmental crises      Canadian Books in Print 2002 Marian Butler,2002-02
