

The background of the cover is a vibrant, stylized illustration. At the top, a multi-colored rainbow arches across a blue sky. White, fluffy clouds are scattered around the rainbow. In the center, a large orange and yellow butterfly is shown in flight. Below the butterfly, there are green leaves and a small red flower. At the bottom left, a small pond with a blue surface and a white lily pad is visible. The entire scene is framed by a dark blue, scalloped border.

Renee Briggs,2017-05-31 How do children read the Bible This book makes a major contribution to this underexplored area by analyzing how children interpret Bible stories focused around an empirical investigation of one group of eleven to fourteen year old children and their readings of the Gospel of Luke The first section of the study establishes the nature of the text and the readers in this project exploring the Gospel of Luke as a narrative of Jesus birth life death and resurrection and then looking at the developmental traits of children as readers The next section offers a model account of how biblical scholars can investigate empirical readings of Scripture by describing the methods used to bring together one group of child readers and Luke The third section then analyzes the resulting multitude of interpretations that the children offered in their reading of the book concentrating on the key trends in their interpretive strategies It critiques the children s readings of Luke but it also points to some of the surprising and beneficial results of reading Luke using the interpretive strategies of a child

Pathways With Purpose Sarah J. Royer,2018-08-21 When I started thinking about building a Faith based curriculum for the early childhood classroom my goal was to create a curriculum that would catch the interest of children 0 Kindergarten See I have worked in the early childhood classroom for almost two decades and while the goal is at the heart of the curriculum I have used the interest it has sparked in our young ones is mild and dulled down at best How can we best instill an excitement to learn in our young ones By making the material and manipulatives hands on and exciting I don t mean by reading a story and pulling out paper puppets on craft sticks although this may be what some children like and want to explore What I mean is presenting values and morals in an explorative manner in conjunction with developmentally appropriate learning standards that help engage your students in learning experiences while getting them excited Including stories and sensory materials story buckets role playing with dress up materials including a variety of mixed media to spark your student s interests is absolutely necessary Create an environment that appeals to learners of various ages backgrounds and learning styles Make your lesson times fun and interesting and your learners will gravitate back for more Sons and the same schools as the children this book offers an insightful look into younger children's religious education providing statistical evidence to dismantle the belief that young children lack the ability to conceptualise God in abstract terms The information obtained from these children and their teachers reveals a major discrepancy between the teachers perceptions of young children's conceptual abilities for RE learning on the one hand and children's actual abilities revealed in their responses throughout the study on the other Based on the evidence described in the volume Petrovich argues that teacher training courses for primary RE need to be designed to include a substantial component of contemporary developmental research that is of direct relevance to children's conceptual abilities and understanding of abstract concepts Developmental Psychology and Young Children's Religious Education is essential reading for students and researchers in developmental psychology religious education teacher education education studies and cultural anthropology Children's Catalog of Thirty-five Hundred Books H.W.
