Reading Dido Marilyn Desmond, 1994 Reading Dido Marilyn Desmond, 1994 Gender and Text in the Later Middle Ages Jane Chance, 2019-11-07 The women who spoke or wrote in the margins of the Middle Ages women who were oppressed and diminished by social and religious institutions often were not literate Or if they could read they did not know how to write Transforming or subverting Western and patristic traditions associated with the clergy they also turned to Eastern and North African traditions and to popular oral theater and focused in their choice of genre on lyric romance and confessional autobiography These essays analyze their texts and reconstruct a medieval feminine aesthetic that begins a rewriting of cultural and literary history Virgil in the Renaissance David Scott Wilson-Okamura, 2010-08-12 The disciplines of classical scholarship were established in their modern form between 1300 and 1600 and Virgil was a test case for many of them This book is concerned with what became of Virgil in this period how he was understood and how his poems were recycled What did readers assume about Virgil in the long decades between Dante and Sidney Petrarch and Spenser Boccaccio and Ariosto Which commentators had the most influence What story if any was Virgil's Eclogues supposed to tell What was the status of his Georgics Which parts of his epic attracted the most imitators Building on specialized scholarship of the last hundred years this book provides a panoramic synthesis of what scholars and poets from across Europe believed they could know about Virgil's life and poetry Desiring Discourse James Paxon, Cynthia Gravlee, 1998-12 These essays examine the central role played by Ovid in medieval amatory literature In so doing they address the theoretical problems of the entrenched aesthetics of reception long tied to the Ovidian Middle Ages while they also seek at times to overturn many of the prior critical perceptions associated with Ovidian suasive discourse in particular the unproblematized assertion of male will and the erasure of female voice Responding to the great fund of critical work done on amatory literature in the Middle Ages a literature thus far organized into an array of categories such as the rhetorical institution of persuasion and seduction the Ovidian heritage aetas ovidiana the language of amatory trial the genealogy of the romance and the convention of courtly love this volume seeks to provide a comprehensive look at the rhetorical and social conditions of desire Anthology of Ancient Medieval Woman's Song A. Klinck, 2004-04-16 This collection focuses on a woman's point of view in love poetry and juxtaposes poems by women and poems about women to raise questions about how femininity is constructed Although most medieval woman's songs are either anonymous or male authored lyrics in a popular style the term can usefully be expanded to cover poetry composed by women and poetry that is aristocratic or learned rather than popular Poetry from ancient Greece and Rome that resonates with the medieval poems is also included here Readers will find a range of voices often echoing similar themes as women rejoice or lament praise or condemn plead or curse speak in jest or in earnest to men and to each other about love Abandoned Women Suzanne C. Hagedorn, 2004 Sheds light on the complex web of allusions that link medieval authors to their literary predecessors They Keep It All Hid Peter E.
