framework of competences for democratic culture - Teacher reflection tool Claudia Lenz,Bernt Gebauer,Patricia Hladschik,Călin Rus,Angelos Valianatos,2022-02-01 A journey towards a democratic teacher ethos and a democratic culture in schools Being a democratic teacher requires more than just being good at one s subject Among other things it requires the ability to listen to learners colleagues and parents and openness to the cultural affiliations and practices they bring to the educational process empathy and a sense of responsibility for the well being and empowerment of all learners The teacher self reflection tool aims to support teachers and other educators to develop their own competences relating to democratic culture and a democratic professional ethos which builds on the values of democracy human rights and intercultural dialogue

It offers guidance throughout this development process and on working with the Council of Europe's Reference Framework of Competences for Democratic Culture RFCDC. The tool can be used as a means of getting acquainted with the RFCDC but it can also be used as a companion to self-reflection on teaching and democratic competences.

Researching Critical Reflection Jan Fook, Val Collington, Fiona Ross, Gillian Ruch, Linden West, 2015-10-05. Critical reflection helps professionals to learn directly from their practice experience so that they can improve their own work in an ongoing and flexible way something essential in today's complex and changing organisations. It allows change to be managed in a way which enables individuals to preserve a sense of what is fundamentally important to them as professionals. It is particularly important as it can also help make sense of some fundamental issues and so also has implications for how we live our lives. However more systematic research on critical reflection is needed to help us understand what works best for professionals in different settings. This timely work explores how critical reflection is researched, evaluated and used as a research method itself with the aim of improving how it is taught and practised in a rigorous and transferable way. Developing a more comprehensive and multi-disciplinary view of the current state of critical reflection and the research directions which need to be taken, the book is divided into four parts. It provides an overview of different perspectives on critical reflection and stimulates dialogue between them. Establishes some common platforms from which to develop further research directions. Identifies the major issues in evaluating critical reflection teaching and main methods for doing so. Contributes to social science methodological innovations by exploring how methods based on critical reflection can be used for researching professional practice. Contains contributions from academics who are internationally known and highly experienced in different aspects of critical reflection. Researching Critical Reflection is an important reference for all students, practitioners and researchers including in the areas of education, management, health and social work who engage with critical reflection to develop their practice.

Leading Professional Practice in Education Christine Wise, Marion Cartwright, Pete Bradshaw, 2012-09-05. This volume provides an overview of key contemporary themes in educational leadership. It focuses on developing professional capacity, organisation improvement and the implementation of change, looking at theoretical frameworks and concepts, recent research studies and case examples of effective practice. The book covers leading learning and learner leadership, change processes and distributed leadership, leading professional development for educational contexts. Designed to encourage critical analysis and debate, this volume will be a useful resource for postgraduate and professional development courses in educational leadership and for practitioners. It is a companion to Educational Leadership: Context, Strategy and Collaboration, also published by Sage.

Reflective Practice in Education and Social Work Robyn Ewing, Fran Waugh, David L. Smith, 2021-12-14. This book offers unique interdisciplinary insights into developing connections between reflective practice and employability, particularly through the lenses of the education and social work professions. It recognises the various meanings that can be applied to the notion of reflection and examines the challenges of using reflective practice in the workplace The chapters explore the tensions that arise from preparing professionals to be agents of change and concerned with social justice and equity Further the book provides much needed perspective on how diverse positions can be identified and leveraged and shared meanings negotiated in the creation of meaningful professional learning resources for early career teachers and social workers and across the career continuum Bringing together contributions from internationally renowned scholars Reflective Practice in Education and Social Work is essential reading for early career and experienced professionals in education and social work academics and practitioners seeking further professional development in reflective practice

Self-Reflective Renewal in Schools

Bradley S. Portin,Lynn G. Beck,Michael Knapp,Joseph Murphy,2003-02-28 The primary purpose of this study is to learn from the experiences of schools across the U S that are engaged in a largely process oriented reform strategy Schools vary in their capacity for productive self reflection The authors examine the process of self assessment that many schools engaged in during this time of widespread public attention to the equality of schools The schools examined in these cases reveal a complex interaction between the nature of the self reflective activity the schools were engaged in in this case a National Education Association school review process entitled KEYS to Success in Schools the contexts that shape the school and the readiness on the part of school staff to engage in systematic reflection around issues that affect teaching and learning The act of self reflection in schools may not provide by itself a source of new ideas alternative models and a sense of what might be possible for the school to accomplish Some external agent can often provide the impetus for or constrain the actions of school staffs in examining their programs and capacity for renewal The acts and outcomes of self reflection are inevitably guided and or constrained by various contexts including the school s history culture structure and supports and pressures provided from communities districts and states
