that patients find difficult to tolerate Facilitators are likely to be confronted with low motivation or complete disengagement as a result of the discomfort evoked by spending time in psychological groups Nonetheless once these difficulties are successfully overcome the group setting can be effectively utilised to address the specific aims of a given psychological intervention as well as tapping into these wider benefits Drawing upon research carried out by the Maudsley national inpatient eating disorders programme Brief Group Psychotherapy for Eating Disorders brings together expert contributions in order to review the evidence base as well as discussing how the challenges of the group setting can be overcome This book outlines newly developed protocols for group interventions aimed at providing brief but effective treatment for an increased numbers of patients and addresses the need to develop and evaluate cost effective psychological interventions for patients with Anorexia Nervosa Brief Group Psychotherapy for Eating Disorders is designed to offer therapists clinicians and researchers in the field a synopsis of the available evidence along with guidance on how to put theory into practice effectively It will also be an invaluable resource for students trainees and teachers in the clinical counselling psychology psychiatry nursing occupational therapy and other allied professions

Poems of sentiment and reflection ,1912 Narratives of Nothing in 20th-Century Literature Meghan Vicks,2017-04-20 The concept of nothing was an enduring concern of the 20th century As Martin Heidegger and Jean Paul Sartre each positioned nothing as inseparable from the human condition and essential to the creation or operation of human existence as Jacques Derrida demonstrated how all structures are built upon a nothing within the structure and as mathematicians argued that zero the number that is also not a number allows for the creation of our modern mathematical system Narratives of Nothing in 20th Century Literature suggests that nothing itself enables the act of narration Focusing on the literary works of Vladimir Nabokov Samuel Beckett and Victor Pelevin Meghan Vicks traces how and why these writers give narrative form to nothing demonstrating that nothing is essential to the creation of narrative that is how our perceptions are conditioned how we make meaning or madness out of the stuff of our existence how we craft our knowable selves and how we exist in language

J. Valberg,2018-06-26 Might this be a dream In this book distinguished philosopher J J Valberg approaches the familiar question about dream and reality by seeking to identify its subject matter what is it that would be the dream if this were a dream It turns out to be a subject matter that contains the whole of the world space and time but which like consciousness for Sartre is nothing in itself This subject matter the personal horizon lies at the heart of the main topics the first person the self and the self in time explored at length in the book The personal horizon is Valberg contends the subject matter whose center each of us occupies and which for each of us ceases with death This ceasing to be presents itself solipsistically not just as the end of everything for me but as the end of everything absolutely Yet since it is the same for everyone this cannot be Death thus confronts us with an impossible fact something that cannot be but will be The puzzle about death is one of several extraphilosophical puzzles about the self that Valberg discusses puzzles that can trouble everyday consciousness without any contribution from philosophy Nor can philosophy resolve the puzzles Its task is to get to the bottom of them and in this respect to understand ourselves a task philosophy has always set itself
