Reforms In Albanian Agriculture Assessing A Sector In Transition:

Reforms in Albanian Agriculture Severin Kodderitzsch, 1999-01-01 Agriculture provides the livelihood to 60% of the Albanian population Even though it is still fairly primitive and it will never probably ensure self sufficiency in major agricultural commodities it represents a useful shock absorber in the current situation of economic and social unrest Since it started its transition to a market economy in 1991 Albania has carried out major reforms in the agricultural sector at large achieving remarkable increases both in output and total factor productivity However more needs to be done to reduce rural poverty stop environmental degradation and increase integration with regional and international economies The paper provides an overview of the different policy and institutional aspects that will need to be considered for a balanced outcome

Structural Reforms in Southeastern Europe Since the Kosovo Conflict Daniela Gressani, Saumya Mitra, 2002-01-01 This study examines the progress made by the countries of south east Europe Albania Bosnia and Herzegovina Bulgaria Croatia FYR Macedonia Romania and the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia towards implementing structural economic reforms in the three years since the end of the Kosovo conflict as well as considering the challenges that lie ahead It discusses four key areas of reform strengthening public finances and fighting corruption creating a liberal trade environment encouraging foreign investment and fostering the growth of private markets

Structural Change in the Farming Sectors in Central and Eastern Europe Csaba Csáki, Zvi Lerman, 2000-01-01 Farm structures in Central and Eastern Europe CEE today cover a whole spectrum of forms which include small subsistence oriented household plots medium sized commercial family farms and large corporations The agricultural sector in CEE definitely has not embraced the family farm as the dominant farming structure thus confounding the original expectations of Western experts On the other hand agriculture did not collapse because of fragmentation and privatization as predicted by conservative doomsayers To address the concerns of the farming sector in CEE with relation to EU accession a workshop was held in Warsaw Poland in June 1999 This volume represents a selection of papers presented at this workshop It examines the reforms and policy changes necessary in the food and agriculture sectors of the ten countries that have started the accession process for eventual membership in the European Union Bulgaria Czech Republic Estonia Hungary Latvia Lithuania Poland Romania Slovakia and Slovenia The papers are organized around the following three topics Evolving farm structures and competitiveness in agriculture Land laws and legal institutions for development of land markets and farm restructuring and Development of farm services for improved competitiveness This volume will be of interest to agricultural policy makers and government officials in the candidate countries EU officials World Bank and FAO staff development scholars and all others interested in the process of agricultural reform in CEE

Agricultural Markets in a Transitioning Economy Catherine Chan-Halbrendt, Jean Fantle-Lepczyk, 2013 This book presents major challenges and opportunities facing agriculture sectors in the wake of the transition from a planned to market economy Using Albania as a case study it examines the shift from communism to free markets and the lasting effects of such change on agricultural production and education Using primary research sources to give readers an accurate portrayal of the path that lies ahead for many developing countries the book also looks at the future of agriculture in transitioning economies

Agriculture in Transition Zvi Lerman,Csaba Csáki,Gershon Feder,2004-01-01 In Agriculture in Transition Land Policies and Evolving Farm Structures in Post Soviet Countries authors Zvi Lerman Csaba Csaki and Gershon Feder study the land policies and farming structures of these newly emerging nations as components of institutional change in the rural sector change from a centralized rural economy to a market oriented economy Agricultural Policies in Emerging and Transition Economies 1999 OECD,1999-08-30 This publication is the seventh in a series of annual evaluations of agricultural policies markets and trade developments in non OECD countries It

Economic Reform and Environmental Performance in Transition Economies Gordon Hughes,Magda Lovei,1999-01-01 transition has proved to be a much longer and more difficult process than most had anticipated and progress has varied By 1998 only one country Poland which embarked on economic reform before the rest of the region had reestablished sustained economic growth and surpassed the pretransition level of real gross domestic product GDP From Economic Reform and Environmental Performance in Transition Economies Most global economy and environmental watchers expect the transition to a market economy to yield environmental benefits The changing incentives that a market economy introduces should foster more efficient production better use of resources and increased community input The advanced reformers of the Central and Eastern European CEE countries proved this to be the case They improved energy efficiency and reduced emissions intensity of pollutants The slower reforming countries of the Newly Independent States NIS also experienced lower pollution However that downturn coincided with the economic decline which shut down many major polluters This report reviews progress in environmental trends since transition began It looks at air and water pollution and health indicators in the trends and in light of the environmental issues identified in the Environmental Action Programme for Central and Eastern Europe It continues and builds on the World Bank s work in analyzing the environmental effects of transition restructuring and privatization with a view to identifying priority areas for investment and policy initiatives The report will interest environmental policy makers and practitioners

Institutional Reform for Irrigation and Drainage Fernando J. Gonzalez,Salman M. A. Salman,2002-01-01 If sustainable management of tropical forests is to be accomplished and deforestation brought under control the on the ground performance of existing forest concessions along with the allocation of new concessions will have to be strengthened This study examines the failures of forest concessions and the loss of tropical forests due to mismanagement during the last two decades It also emphasizes the potential gains resulting from strengthening the allocation management and supervision of concessions by concentrating on improving procedures introducing performance incentives and monitoring key performance elements

These publications will be of interest to EU member and candidate countries, their ministries, and any one studying the accession issue.

Farm Sector Restructuring in Belarus Csaba Csáki, Zvi Lerman, Serge Sotnikov, 2000. Agriculture remains the main source of employment and livelihood for the large rural population of many transition countries, especially among the former Soviet republics. Accordingly, the World Bank continuously monitors the progress of land reform and farm restructuring in the region because of the potential impact of these processes on rural development and poverty alleviation in rural areas. The present study on Belarus is the latest addition to a long and growing series of World Bank publications on land reform and farm restructuring in the former socialist countries of Europe and Central Asia. The unique features of all these publications is their reliance on first-hand empirical information collected through extensive farm surveys of various rural constituencies. Analysis of survey findings enables the World Bank to base its policy dialogue with governments in the region on solid empirical facts, making the Bank's recommendations more credible and relevant. The survey findings in this volume will provide a platform for useful policy discussions with this country's government and supply international donors that are active there with essential information to design their strategic programs.

Demystifying MIS Luc Lecuit, 1999-01-01. Managers are often far from the real action, so they need something that will tell them what is going on. Luckily, the rapid evolution of tools for collecting, analyzing, and diffusing information has greatly improved our ability to manage from a distance. However, the speed of technological change means that changes in management practices and tools are inescapable. Development of Management Information Systems (MIS) for social funds has become essential due to some of the characteristics unique to these types of projects or organizations. Among these unique characteristics are the need for transparency and efficiency because of the highly visible nature of the activities. These guidelines define MIS and underscore its importance. They also outline specific tools to assist in selection of an MIS and summarize its design and implementation. These guidelines are meant to be a practical tool to help those who are setting up or managing a social fund navigate in MIS waters. Technical jargon is kept to a minimum, and a glossary of technical terms is provided to assist readers who do not have a technical background. However, special Technical Boxes have been included for the experts in this field.
