Representing Women:

Representing Women Linda Nochlin, 1999 Women as warriors workers mothers sensual women even absent women haunt nineteenth and twentieth century Western painting This book brings together Linda Nochlin's most important and pioneering writings on the representation of women in art as she considers works by Millet Delacroix Courbet Degas Seurat Cassatt and Kollwitz among many others In a riveting partly autobiographical introduction Nochlin argues for the honest virtues of an art history that rejects methodological presuppositions and for art historians who investigate the work before their eyes while focusing on its subject matter informed by a sensitivity to its feminist spirit

Representing Women? Mercedes Mateo Diaz, 2024-10-31 This work discusses questions on political participation representation and legitimacy in the European Union national parliaments Three major empirical questions structure the book What affects women's presence in parliaments Does the number of women in parliament have an effect And are women in parliament representing women Empirical evidences show that institutional reforms need a minimal environment in terms of socio economic development so as to prove effective As opposed to the critical mass theory claiming that a few representatives cannot have an impact on the political outcomes here the empirical evidences suggest that smaller groups can also influence the different components of the legislative process The last part turns to the fundamental question of whether a parliament that is descriptively representative i.e. in which the parliamentarians share certain characteristics with the voters also is a substantively descriptive parliament i.e. in which the parliamentarians mirror the voters opinions Evidence suggests that the electoral system's level of proportionality influences the extent to which assemblies socially and ideologically mirror their population The book ends by advancing new hypotheses and setting up guidelines for future research

Representing Women Beth Reingold, 2003-07-11 Women in public office are often assumed to make a difference for women as women in other words to represent their female constituents better than do their male counterparts But is sex really an accurate predictor of a legislator's political choices and actions In this book Beth Reingold compares the representational activities and attitudes of male and female members of the Arizona and California state legislatures to illuminate the broader implications of the election and integration of women into public office In the process she challenges many of the assumptions that underlie popular expectations of women and men in politics Using in depth interviews survey responses and legislative records Reingold actually uncovers more similarities between female and male politicians than differences Moreover the stories she presents strongly suggest that rather than assuming that who our representatives are determines what they will do in office we must acknowledge the possibility that the influence of gender on legislative behavior can be weakened distorted or accentuated by powerful forces within the social and political contexts of elective office

Representing Women Susan Sage Heinzelman, 1994 This anthology explores the provocative intersection between feminist literary and legal theories Written by feminist thinkers from law and literature discourses that each produce culturally powerful representations of women these essays contest the boundaries that usually separate these disciplines and thereby alter the possibilities of those representations that have traditionally disempowered women Beginning with an exploration of the ways in which women are represented how they either tell or have their stories told in literature in the law in a courtroom this collection demonstrates the interrelatedness of the legal and the literary Whether considering the status of medieval women readers or assessing the effectiveness and extent of contemporary rape law reform the essays show that power first comes with telling one's own story and that the degree and effect of that power are determined by the cultural significance of the forum in which the story is presented But telling the story is not enough One must also be aware of how the story is contained within traditional constructs or boundaries and is thus limited in its effects as Carol Sanger's essay on mothers and legal sexual identity makes clear One must also recognize how a story might perpetuate an ideological agenda that is not in the best interests of the storyteller as Elizabeth Butler Cullingford shows in her reading of Yeats's Leda and the Swan and one must know the historical context of a story and of its telling as Anne B Goldstein's essay on lesbian narratives discloses Breaking down the boundaries between law and literature this anthology makes evident the ways in which the effect of women's stories has been constrained and expands the range of possibilities for those who represent women tell women's stories or present women's issues Representing Women makes the retelling of old stories about women compelling and the telling of new ones both necessary and possible Contributors Kathryn Abrams Linda Brodkey Rita Copeland Elizabeth Butler Cullingford Margaret Anne Doody Susan B Estrich Michelle Fine Anne B Goldstein Angela P Harris Susan Sage Heinzelman Christine L Krueger Martha Minow Carol Sanger Judy Scales Trent

Representing Women in Parliament Marian Sawer, Manon Tremblay, Linda Trimble, 2006-09-27 Written by a major international team of authors this new study features twelve chapters on both new and established parliaments including Australia Canada New Zealand and the United Kingdom It tests the latest theories about women's political representation within Westminster style assemblies and is clearly organized into three key sections

Representing Women's Political Identity in the Early Modern Iberian World Jeremy Roe, Jean Andrews, 2020-10-07 By exploring textual visual and material culture this volume presents a range of new research into the experiences agencies and diverse political identities of Iberian women between the fifteenth and early eighteenth century Representing Women's Political Identity in the Early Modern Iberian World explores how the political identities of Iberian women were represented in various forms of visual culture including religious paintings and portraiture costume and devotional and funerary sculpture This study examines the transmission of Iberian culture and its concepts of identity to locations such as Peru Goa and Mexico providing a rich insight into Iberia's complex history and legacy The collection of essays explores the lives of protagonists which vary from queens and members of the nobility to painters and nuns allowing for a more nuanced understanding of both the elite and non elite woman's experience in Spain Portugal and their overseas realms during the early modern period By addressing the significance of gender alongside the visual representation of political ideology and identity this book is an invaluable source for students and researchers of early modern Iberia and the history of women Chapter 11 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution CC BY 4.0 license

What Women Represent Erica Rayment, 2024-05-07

Political equity advocates and academics often argue that we must elect more women but what difference does it make if we do What Women Represent shows that women can and do influence the issues raised and the decisions made in parliamentary debate and decision making Using a new framework for thinking about what it means for legislators to represent women and drawing on a database that encompasses five decades of debate in the House of Commons Erica Rayment investigates which members of Parliament represent women and what issues they address She then examines the role women parliamentarians played in two instances where governments threatened to curtail previous gender equality gains the Mulroney government's attempted recriminalization of abortion and the Harper government's plans to cut funding and weaken the mandate of Status of Women Canada Rayment's analysis decisively shows that parliamentary presence matters for the representation of women's interests women MPs regardless of party are more likely to act for women and play a critical role when the rights of women are at stake What Women Represent is the first large scale analysis of the substantive representation of women in Canadian politics adding depth and nuance to our understanding of issues of gender in parliamentary institutions

How Women Represent Women Tracy L. Osborn, 2012-03-22

This title argues that political parties fundamentally structure the ways in which women legislators represent women's interests Using original election sponsorship and roll call data across the US state chambers Osborn shows how parties shape the policy alternatives women offer

Women Transforming Congress Cindy Simon Rosenthal, 2002

From the first to one of the most recent Jeannette Rankin Montana 1916 to Hillary Rodham Clinton New York 2001 only two hundred women have ever served in the US Congress Have these relatively few women changed the predominantly masculine institution in which they serve Have women as voters activists staff and members made a difference Edited by Cindy Simon Rosenthal Women Transforming Congress examines the increasing influence of women on Congress and the ways in which gender defines and shapes Congress as a political institution Written by women in politics and leading scholars on Congress the essays in this volume go beyond the limitations of prior research through their diverse analytical approaches and singular historical breadth The volume follows women on the campaign trail in committee rooms in floor debate and in policy deliberations where previously the focus was on men's interests and activities A gallery of photographs showing notable women from their earliest years of involvement with Congress to the present complements the essays

Women in Contemporary Politics Wendy

Stokes, 2005-05-06 Looking at the representation of women in a wide range of political roles this text traces the development of women's political activism their roles in voting and elections and the specifics of women's partisanship

Substantive Representation of Women in Asian Parliaments Devin K. Joshi, Christian Echle, 2022-08-03 Combining data from nearly 100

interviews with national parliamentarians from ten Asian countries the contributors to this book analyze and evaluate the advancement of gender equality in Asia As of the year 2022 no country in Asia has gender parity in its parliament Meanwhile the proportion of national level women parliamentarians in Asia averages a mere 20% What is more important than simple descriptive representation however is whether outcomes for women are improving Rather than focusing on numerical representation the chapters in this book focus on the substantive representation of women In other words what do women and men parliamentarians do to advance women s well being and gender equality Using semi structured interviews the author of each chapter examines these efforts in the context of a specific Asian country The case studies include Bangladesh Indonesia Japan Malaysia Nepal the Philippines South Korea Sri Lanka Taiwan and Timor Leste The book is an essential resource for scholars and students of Asian politics and the politics of gender Representing the Other Sue

Wilkinson,Celia Kitzinger,1996-07-16 This innovative collection addresses a challenging issue in contemporary feminist theory and practice whether and how we should represent members of groups to which we do not ourselves belong The discussions identify key concerns related to representation and difference Contributors draw on personal experiences of speaking for and about Others in their research professional practice writing or political activism Problems of representing Others with ethnic or cultural backgrounds different from one s own are highlighted and the discussions extend to representations of children prostitutes infertile women fat women gay men with HIV AIDS and people with disabilities

New Labour's Women MPs Sarah Childs,2004-07-31 Drawing on interviews with over half of new Labour women MPs Sarah Childs reveals how the women experienced being MPs and explores whether they acted for and like women in constituencies in Parliament and in government What Women Want Deborah L. Rhode,2014 What Women Want comprehensively analyzes the challenges the feminist movement faces today and puts forward a new policy agenda for women Representing Women Linda Nochlin,1999-01-01 Women as warriors workers mothers sensual women even absent women haunt nineteenth and twentieth century Western painting This book brings together Linda Nochlin s most important and pioneering writings on the representation of women in art as she considers works by Millet Delacroix Courbet Degas Seurat Cassatt and Kollwitz among many others In a riveting partly autobiographical introduction Nochlin argues for the honest virtues of an art history that rejects methodological presuppositions and for art historians who investigate the work before their eyes while focusing on its subject matter informed by a sensitivity to its feminist spirit Copyright Libri GmbH All rights reserved The Mixed Member Proportional System: Providing Greater Representation for Women?

Tracy-Ann Johnson-Myers,2016-11-16 This Brief discusses the adoption of the mixed member proportional MMP electoral system in New Zealand and its subsequent effect on representation for women Concerns about the homogeneity of the legislature under the Single Member Plurality electoral system and the need for increased representativeness and greater proportionality of party preference lead to the changeover in 1996 The book addresses the question of whether an increase in descriptive representation for women in New Zealand's House of Representatives has translated to policy outcomes that are beneficial to them. It also examines the extent to which female MPs meet the expectation that they will act for members of their groups pushing minority and gender friendly legislation and policies into the political arena. Finally it raises questions about where women are found in New Zealand's decision making bodies and what influence they might have on policy outcomes. The first book to examine the effects of the MMP system on female descriptive and substantive representation using a case study analysis, this Brief adds to the literature on electoral systems and women's political representation. This book will be of use to political science students at both the undergraduate and graduate level particularly those interested in electoral studies, political institutions, politics and gender and minority representation. Women and Partisan Art Elena Messner, Cristina Beretta, Goran Lazić, Markus Gönitzer, 2025-10-31. The resistance by partisan women in Yugoslavia and Carinthia, Austria and particularly their artistic production have not been acknowledged in the historical accounts of World War II. Their art was both a form of resistance and a culturally subversive practice ranging from avant garde aesthetics to traditional forms of folk art and handicraft. The cultural production by and subsequently about the Yugoslav and Carinthian women partisans includes literature, visual arts, film, photography, comics, textiles, press, theater, dance and monument architecture. The contributors to this volume present this groundbreaking research to mark eighty years since the victory over Nazism and fascism in Europe. Girls, Women, and Crime Meda Chesney-Lind, Lisa Pasko, 2004. This reader accompanies The Female Offender. Women's Representation in African Politics Zainab Monisola Olaitan, 2024-12-11. Does the election of more and more women into political offices mean that women's interests will be better protected? This question forms the background upon which this book is written as it forms a timely intervention concerning the clamour for increased women's representation in African politics. The book examines the relationship between gender quotas and gender focused legislative policy outcomes in the national Parliaments of South Africa and Botswana. By investigating the utility of gender quotas to ensure the substantive representation of women in African politics, the book engages the assumption that increased women's political participation will automatically improve the qualitative well being of African women. The book is intended for both academic and non academic audiences with differing purposes. It contributes to scholarly debates on the transcending relevance of quotas beyond numbers. For non academics it provides opportunities to engage gender quotas as a policy tool to ensure the qualitative well being of African women. Women and Leadership Deborah L. Rhode, 2017. Women and Leadership explores the causes and consequences of the underrepresentation of women in America's leadership roles. Drawing on comprehensive research and a survey of prominent women leaders, the book describes the reasons for gender inequity in leadership and identifies compelling solutions. It is essential reading for anyone interested in leveling the playing field for women.
