Rereading The Harlem Renaissance:

REREADING THE HARLEM RENAISSANCE SHARON L. JONES, 2002-12-30 Discusses the fiction of Fauset Hurston and West in terms of aesthetic influence and a shared drive to challenge oppression Rereading the Harlem Renaissance Sharon L. Jones, 2002-12-30 African American writers of the Harlem Renaissance generally fall into three aesthetic categories the folk which emphasizes oral traditions African American English rural settings and characters from lower socioeconomic levels the bourgeois which privileges characters from middle class backgrounds and the proletarian which favors overt critiques of oppression by contending that art should be an instrument of propaganda Depending on critical assumptions regarding what constitutes authentic African American literature some writers have been valorized others dismissed This rereading of the Harlem Renaissance gives special attention to Fauset Hurston and West Jones argues that all three aesthetics influence each of their works that they have been historically mislabeled and that they share a drive to challenge racial class and gender oppression The introduction provides a detailed historical overview of the Harlem Renaissance and the prevailing aesthetics of the period Individual chapters analyze the works of Hurston West and Fauset to demonstrate how the folk bourgeois and proletarian aesthetics figure into their writings The volume concludes by discussing the writers in relation to contemporary African American women authors Rereading the Harlem Renaissance Sharon Transition, 1930-1940: Volume 10 Eve Dunbar, Ayesha K. Hardison, 2022-04-07 The volume explores 1930s African American writing to examine Black life culture and politics to document the ways Black artists and everyday people managed the Great Depression's economic impact on the creative and the social. Essays engage iconic figures such as Sterling Brown, Langston Hughes, Zora Neale Hurston, Dorothy West, and Richard Wright, as well as understudied writers such as Arna Bontemps and Marita Bonner. Henry Lee Moon and Roi Ottley. This book demonstrates the significance of the New Deal's Works Progress Administration (WPA), the Communist Party of the United States (CPUSA), and Black literary circles in the absence of white patronage. By featuring novels, poetry, short fiction, and drama alongside guidebooks, photographs, and print culture, African American Literature in Transition, 1930-1940 provides evidence of the literary culture created by Black writers and readers during a period of economic precarity, expanded activism for social justice, and urgent internationalism.

American Modernism (Re)Considered Robert C. Hauhart, Jeff Birkenstein, 2025-08-07 What exactly is modernism, and who are modernist writers? What distinguishes American modernism from its European counterpart? American Modernism (Re)Considered questions the principal distinction between modernism and other genres, movements, styles in literature through new critical readings of canonical modernist texts.

alongside texts which pose a problem for modernism due to their ambiguous if not marginal relation to some of its predominant tenets. It asks: Is modernism characterized principally by a transition from older forms like naturalism and realism to a style that is new, innovative and experimental? Is it found in shared understandings and alignments regarding the nature and purpose of art? Is it identifiable by modernists' treatment of various central themes including as a reaction to modernity as a response to the Boer and World wars as an interrogation of Britain's empire and its dissolution and how these events fragmented modern life? Or is it all of the above? Contributors discuss a wide range of texts by authors such as Nella Larsen, Willa Cather, Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Anne Carson, Wallace Stevens, Amrico Paredes, Richard Wright, Ernest Hemingway and T.S. Eliot to challenge the aesthetic, social and temporal boundaries of modernism in America. Through original close readings of these texts, American Modernism Reconsidered subjects modernism to new interrogations and offers new answers to questions that remain contemporary even as they harken back to its height of popularity and interest in the mid 1920s.

Racial Discourse and Cosmopolitanism in Twentieth-Century African American Writing Tania Friedel, 2010-06-21 This book engages the critical mode of cosmopolitanism through racial discourse in the work of several major twentieth century African American authors such as W.E.B. Du Bois, Jean Toomer, Jessie Fauset, Langston Hughes and Albert Murray.

Historical Dictionary from the Great War to the Great Depression Neil A. Wynn, 2013-12-16 The period from 1913 to 1933 is not often seen as a coherent entity in the history of the United States. It is more often viewed in terms of two distinct periods with the pre-war era of political engagement, idealism and reform known as progressivism separated by World War I from the materialism, conservatism and disengagement of the prosperous 1920s. To many postwar observers and later historians, the entry of the United States into the European conflict in 1917 marked not just a dramatic departure in foreign relations but also the end of an era of reform. This second edition of Historical Dictionary from the Great War to the Great Depression covers the history of this period through a chronology, an introductory essay, appendixes and an extensive bibliography. The dictionary section has more than 700 cross-referenced entries on important personalities, politics, economy, foreign relations, religion and culture. This book is an excellent access point for students, researchers and anyone wanting to know more about a vital period in U.S. history.

Decolonizing Revelation Rufus Burnett Jr., 2018-03-16 At a time when ideas like post-racial society and BlackLivesMatter occupy the same space, scholars of black American faith are provided a unique opportunity to regenerate and imagine theological frameworks that confront the epistemic effects of racialization and its confluence with the theological imagination. Decolonizing Revelation contributes to this task by rethinking or taking a second look at the cultural production of the blues. Unlike other examinations of the blues that privilege the hermeneutic of race, this work situates the blues spatially, offering a transracial interpretation that looks to establish an option for disentangling racial ideology from the theological imagination. This book dislocates race in particular and modernity in general as the primary means by which God's self-disclosure is read across human history. Rather than looking to the experience of antiblack racism as revelational the work looks to a people group blues people and their spatial sonic and sensual activities Following the basic theological premise that God is a God of life Burnett looks to the spaces where blues life occurs to construct a decolonial option for a theology of revelation

Dorothy West's Paradise Cherene Sherrard-Johnson, 2012-01-01 Dorothy West is best known as one of the youngest writers involved in the Harlem Renaissance Subsequently her work is read as a product of the urban aesthetics of this artistic movement But West was also intimately rooted in a very different milieu Oak Bluffs an exclusive retreat for African Americans on Martha's Vineyard She played an integral role in the development and preservation of that community In the years between publishing her two novels 1948's The Living is Easy and the 1995 bestseller The Wedding she worked as a columnist for the Vineyard Gazette Dorothy West's Paradise captures the scope of the author's long life and career reading it alongside the unique cultural geography of Oak Bluffs and its history as an elite African American enclave a place that West envisioned both as a separatist refuge and as a space for interracial contact An essential book for both fans of West's fiction and students of race class and American women's lives Dorothy West's Paradise offers an intimate biography of an important author and a privileged glimpse into the society that shaped her work
