Research Issues Learning Disab:

Research Issues in Learning Disabilities Sharon Vaughn, Candace S. Bos, 2012-12-06 In this chapter we described issues in conducting intervention research with students with learning disabilities on the secondary level We maintained that interventions should be well grounded in theories of learning as well as characterizations of learning disabilities Pressley Scruggs that they should first be conducted in a series of highly controlled laboratory like experiments to carefully assess the potential utility of the intervention and that if the intervention is successful in highly controlled settings it should then be evaluated in class room applications We maintained that research designs should evolve as the research questions become more applied and that the results of laboratory research should be used to support the findings of classroom applications Finally we described several research designs that we have found useful in conducting classroom intervention research There is a great deal more to conducting intervention research of course than experimental or quasi experimental design Intervention strategies likely to be effective must be identified relevant literature must be reviewed experimental materials must be developed and cooperative schools teachers parents and students must be located Nevertheless inadequate research designs can invalidate the best and most successful efforts in all of these areas while effective and practical research designs can do much to document the best practices and advance our knowledge of effective interventions with students with learning disabilities References Brigham F J Scruggs T E Mastropieri M A 1992 Learning Disabilities International Academy for Research in Learning Disabilities, 1990 First Published in 1990 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Learning Disabilities H. Lee Swanson, Barbara K. Keogh, 2012-11-12 This volume has been developed as a direct result of a conference sponsored by the International Academy for Research in Learning Disabilities held at the University of California at Los Angeles The text provides a review and critique of current research in the areas of intelligence social cognition achievement and subtyping as they relate to learning disabilities In addition the concept that social behavior is an aspect of intelligence and the relationship between language and reading are discussed in detail by noted experts

Identification of Learning Disabilities Renee Bradley, Louis Danielson, Daniel P. Hallahan, 2002-12-18 Identification of Learning Disabilities Research to Practice is the remarkable product of a learning disabilities summit conference convened by the Office of Special Education Programs OSEP in August 2001 and the activities following that summit Both the conference and this book were seen as important preludes to congressional reauthorization of the historic Individuals With Disabilities Education Act IDEA scheduled for 2002 and subsequent decision making surrounding implementation The OSEP conference brought together people with different perspectives on LD parents researchers practitioners and policymakers and resulted in this book which examines the research on nine key issues concerning the identification of children with learning disabilities Coverage includes alternative responses to treatment classification approaches processing deficit models and approaches to decision making Chapter Structure Each of the first nine chapters is organized around a lengthy issue oriented paper which presents the most current research on that topic These primary papers are then followed by four respondent papers that reflect a variety of viewpoints on the topic Summarizing Chapter A small group of researchers listed in the final chapter dedicated an enormous amount of time to summarizing the research and developing key consensus statements regarding the identification of children with learning disabilities Their work is sure to have a tremendous impact on future discussions in this area Expertise The following well known scholars have helped summarize the vast amount of research presented in this book as well as the consensus statements derived therefrom Lynne Cook Don Deshler Doug Fuchs Jack M Fletcher Frank Gresham Dan Hallahan Joseph Jenkins Kenneth Kavale Barbara Keogh Margo Mastopieri Cecil Mercer Dan Reschley Rune Simeonsson Joe Torgesen Sharon Vaughn and Barbara Wise Research in Learning Disabilities Sharon Vaughn, Candace S. Bos, 1987 Intervention Research in Learning Disabilities Thomas E. Scruggs, Bernice Y.L.

Wong, 2012-12-06 Intervention Research in Learning Disabilities is based on proceedings of the Symposium on Intervention Research sponsored by the Division for Learning Disabilities DLD of the Council for Exceptional Children and held at Purdue University November 14 16 1988 It presents a wide range of critical issues and insights both theoretical and practical related to research with learning disabled individuals The book is divided into four broad sections issues in intervention research academic interventions social and behavioral interventions and postsecondary interventions It considers both present and future directions of such research Topics explored include variance and verities in learning disability interventions instruction derived from the strategy deficit model enhancement of academic performance with mnemonic instruction the content enhancement model for promoting content acquisition interactive teaching and learning social skills training and an alternative approach to social skills training the use of schema in research on the problem solving of learning disabled adolescents and intervention effectiveness at the postsecondary level Researching Learning Difficulties Jill Contemporary Intervention Research in Learning Disabilities Bernice Y.L. Wong, 2012-12-06 Recently in the area of learning disabilities a subarea of special education an interesting development has become discernible This development centers on the increasing focus of learning disabilities professionals on theory building and empirical research and it is reflected in the spate of books currently being published With their clear emphasis on conceptual and methodological issues along with directions for future research these newly published books differ essentially from the bulk of learning disabilities textbooks They include S Vaughn and C Bos Eds Research in Learning Disabilities Issues and Future Directions published in 1987 by College Hill T E Scruggs and B Y L Wong Eds Intervention Research in Learning Disabilities published in 1990 by Springer Verlag and L Swanson Ed Learning Disabilities Theoretical and Research Issues published in 1991 by Lawrence

Erlbaum Associates As reflected in these three books the discipline began with a service orientation and has evolved beyond that to come of age with aspirations of becoming a scientific discipline These books can be taken to voice the concerted efforts of learning disabilities professionals to promote theory building and empirical research Undeniably these books provide valuable information on conceptual issues and research in learning disabilities Nevertheless they appear to have one drawback namely they focus exclusively on learning disabilities research in North America

Research and Global Perspectives in Learning Disabilities Daniel P. Hallahan, Barbara K. Keogh, 2001-03-01 This volume honors the founder of the International Academy for Research in Learning Disabilities IARLD William M Cruickshank and his many accomplishments His influence on special education in general and learning disabilities in specific is evident throughout the world Consistent with his international activities the contributors to this book represent nine different countries The chapters reflect a range of perspectives on the state of the art in learning disabilities documenting both commonalities and differences across countries Taken together the chapters provide a comprehensive and informative picture of learning disabilities

Growing up with Parents who have Learning Difficulties Tim Booth, Wendy Booth, 2005-08-10 Growing up with Parents who have Learning Difficulties uses a life story approach to present new evidence about how children from such families manage the transition to adulthood and about the longer term outcomes of such an upbringing It offers a view of parental competence as a social attribute rather than an individual skill assessing the implications for institutional policies and practices The authors address the notion of children having to parent their disabled parents and argue for a shift in emphasis from protecting children to supporting families This innovative book provides a fresh approach to a subject rife with prejudice and challenges us to think again about many taken for granted ideas about the process of parenting and the needs of children It also demonstrates the power of narrative research and its capacity for bringing alive people's experience in a way that enables us to better understand their lives

Multiple Perspectives on Difficulties in Learning Literacy and Numeracy Claire Wyatt-Smith,John Elkins,Stephanie Gunn,2010-10-28 There are many approaches to researching the difficulties in learning that students experience in the key areas of literacy and numeracy This book seeks to advance understanding of these difficulties and the interventions that have been used to improve outcomes The book addresses the sometimes complementary and sometimes contradictory results and generates new approaches to understanding and serving students with difficulties in literacy and numeracy The book represents a departure from conventional wisdom as most scholars and graduate students draw upon ideas from only one of the three domains focal in the book and usually from one single or dominant theoretical frame Typically readers will affiliate with reading education mathematics education or learning disabilities and belong to one of the corresponding professional associations such as IRA NCTM or CLD This book s scope will open a scholarly forum for engaging readers with a familiarity with one of these domains while providing insight into the others on offer in the book

Inclusive Research with People with Learning Disabilities Jan Walmsley,Kelley Johnson,2003 The authors discuss participative approaches to research and provide an up to date account of inclusive practice with individuals with learning disabilities Drawing on evidence from two major studies they explain how lessons learnt from inclusive research in the learning disability field are applicable to others working with marginalized groups

Managing Attention and Learning Disorders in Late Adolescence and Adulthood Sam Goldstein,1997 It is also clear that many of the concepts and strategies used in assessing and treating children with these problems do not apply to adults

Intellectual Disability and Social Inclusion Martin Richard Bollard,2009-01-27 This book provides a unique insight into the challenges faced by people with learning disabilities trying to access mainstream health and social services and by the professionals who are trying to provide them The combination of professional perspectives and viewpoints of people with learning disabilities themselves creates an authoritative explanation of why this group of people face the barriers they do The contributors critique these barriers and also offer potential solutions to overcoming them Personal reflections written by people with learning disabilities on their experiences of accessing health and social care services Comprehensive coverage of policy in the four UK countries Comprehensive analysis by subject experts of practice in a range of areas from acute health care through mental health to leisure and housing provision Accessible summaries at the end of each chapter including text for people with learning disabilities

The Learning Society and people with learning difficulties Riddell, Sheila,Baron, Stephen,2001-05-16 There is a growing concern about the social exclusion of a range of minority groups including people with learning difficulties Lifelong learning is seen as one of the central means of challenging the exclusion of this group but also of enhancing their economic status This book demonstrates that policy based on human capital premises has produced forms of lifelong learning which exacerbate the marginalisation of people with learning difficulties The Learning Society and people with learning difficulties reviews the range of policy fields which increasingly intervene in the lifelong learning arena maps the agencies involved in service delivery and describes their sometimes conflicting ethos provides in depth accounts of the lived experiences of individuals with learning difficulties as they navigate lifelong learning options Its exploration of the links between community care education training employment housing and benefits policies in the context of lifelong learning is unique This book makes a significant contribution to debates about how people with learning difficulties may achieve social inclusion and the part which lifelong learning may play in this It is therefore invaluable reading for policy makers practitioners and academics interested in these issues
