Review Of The Genus Eunice Polychaeta Eunicidae Based Upon Type:

A Review of the Genus Eunice (Polychaeta) Kristian Fauchald, Smithsonian Institution, 1992 A Review of the Genus Eunice (Polychaeta: Eunicidae) Based Upon Type Material Kristian Fauchald (zoologia), 1992 A Review of the Genus Eunice (Polychaeta: Eunicidae) Based Upon Type Material Kristian Fauchald, 1992 Taxonomic Atlas of the Benthic Fauna of the Santa Maria Basin and Western Santa Barbara Channel: The Annelidia, part 2, polychaeta: phyllodocida (syllidae and scale-bearing families), amphinomida, and eunicida Andrew L. Lissner, 1995

Polychaetes & Allies Pamela L. Beesley, Graham J. B. Ross, Australian Biological Resources Study, Christopher J. Glasby, 2000 A comprehensive account of Polychaetes in Australia Based on nearly 2400 references the authors reveal the wealth of diversity in the largely unknown world of these worm groups in terms of their morphology behaviour reproduction and significance in marine ecosystems Taxonomic Atlas of the Benthic Fauna of the Santa Maria Basin and Western Santa Barbara Channel: The Annelida, part 1, oligochaeta and polychaeta: phyllodocida (phyllodocidae to paralacydoniidae) Andrew L. Lissner, 1994 Polychaetes Gregory Rouse, Fredrik Pleijel, 2001-10-11 Polychaetes are very common marine worms belonging to the Annelid family that are of interest to marine biologists and invertebrate zoologists The book presents an understanding of the biology of this group with many illustrations Describing Species Judith E. Winston, 1999-11-04 New species are discovered every day and cataloguing all of them has grown into a nearly insurmountable task worldwide Now this definitive reference manual acts as a style guide for writing and filing species descriptions New collecting techniques and new technology have led to a dramatic increase in the number of species that are discovered Explorations of unstudied regions and new habitats for almost any group of organisms can result in a large number of new species discoveries and hence the need to be described Yet there is no one source a student or researcher can readily consult to learn the basic practical aspects of taxonomic procedures Species description can present a variety of difficulties Problems arise when new species are not given names because their discoverers do not know how to write a formal species description or when these species are poorly described Biologists may also have to deal with nomenclatural problems created by previous workers or resulting from new information generated by their own research This practical resource for scientists and students contains instructions and examples showing how to describe newly discovered species in both the animal and plant kingdoms With special chapters on publishing taxonomic papers and on ecology in species description as well as sections covering subspecies genus level and higher taxa descriptions Describing Species enhances any writer s taxonomic projects reports checklists floras faunal surveys revisions monographs or guides The volume is based on current versions of the International Codes of Zoological and Botanical Nomenclature and recognizes that systematics is a global and multicultural exercise Though Describing Species has been written for an English speaking audience it is useful anywhere Taxonomy is spoken and will be a valuable tool for professionals and students in zoology botany ecology paleontology and other fields of biology Pleistoannelida, Sedentaria III and Errantia I Günter Purschke, Markus Böggemann, Andreas Schmidt-Rhaesa, Wilfried Westheide, 2020-11-23 This book is the third volume in a series of 4 volumes in the Handbook of Zoology series treating morphology anatomy reproduction development ecology phylogeny systematics and taxonomy of polychaetous Annelida It is devoted to the remaining Sedentaria and the first branches of Errantia These sedentary polychaetes are Terebellida and Arenicolida all of which are tube dwelling and deposit feeders The tubes may be simple burrows stabilized by mucus or the tubes are highly sophisticated often really aesthetic structures build up of sediment grains glued together by their secretion Although the former possess anterior appendages used for collecting food particles these are likely not modified palps rather than a new acquisition Many of these species are adapted to occur within environments characterized by low oxygen supply and so many members of these taxa possess elaborated branchiae usually positioned on a number of anterior body segments except for Maldanidae which look like bamboo sticks and thus earned their common name bamboo worms Members of Arenicolida and Maldanida may occur in high abundance and as such they create biogenically graded sediment beds The Errantia part starts with Myzostomida a group of symbiotic animals associated with echinoderms which have been variously placed within the tree of life As such they show numerous adaptations to this specific mode of life The next group discussed within Errantia is Protodrilida a taxon comprising four families of the former archiannelids which belong to the interstitial fauna Most likely they evolved by miniaturization from larger ancestors In contrast to typical errants they do not possess well developed parapodia and antennae This taxon is followed by Eunicida characterized by possession of a specific jaw apparatus situated ventrally in the foregut and associated with specific musculature Also being a species rich group showing various feeding modes some of the smallest and the largest members belong to this taxon Systematics and Diversity of Annelids Maria Capa, Pat Hutchings, 2021-08-18 In this Special Issue we address the state of the art of the systematics of the main annelid groups and the improvements in the diversity they hold with special emphasis on the latest discoveries in well studied areas expeditions to unsurveyed areas or environments or the use of novel techniques that allow for the improvement of biodiversity knowledge We are hoping that this Special Issue will provide a platform facilitating a review of current knowledge on the subject identifying current research problems as well as indicating directions and research trends for the future
