Evaluation of Chemical Events at Army Chemical Agent Disposal Facilities National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Army Science and Technology, Committee on Evaluation of Chemical Events at Army Chemical Agent Disposal Facilities, 2002-12-25

For over a decade the Army has been carrying out a program aimed at the destruction of accumulated chemical weapons stored at several sites While destruction by incineration has been successful several incidents called chemical events occurred during the disposal process or decontamination activities that raised some public concerns about the safety of operations of three third generation incineration facilities As a result the Congress asked the NRC to investigate whether the incidents provide information useful to help ensure safe operation of the future sites This book presents an analysis of causes of and responses to past chemical events implications of such events for ongoing and future demilitarization activities and recommendations for preparing for future events

Review and Evaluation of Alternative Chemical Disposal Technologies National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Commission on Engineering and Technical Systems, Panel on Review and Evaluation of Alternative Chemical Disposal Technologies, 1996-11-15

In 1994 the National Research Council published Recommendations for the Disposal of Chemical Agents and Munitions which assessed the status of various alternative destruction technologies in comparison to the Army s baseline incineration system The volume s main finding was that no alternative technology was preferable to incineration but that work should continue on the neutralization technologies under Army consideration In light of the fact that alternative technologies have evolved since the 1994 study this new volume evaluates five Army chosen alternatives to the baseline incineration system for the disposal of the bulk nerve and mustard agent stored in ton containers at Army sites located in Newport Indiana and Aberdeen Maryland respectively The committee assessed each technology by conducting site visits to the locations of the technology proponent companies and by meeting with state regulators and citizens of the affected areas This volume makes recommendations to the Army on which if any of the five technologies has reached a level of maturity appropriate for consideration for pilot scale testing at the two affected sites

Occupational Health and Workplace Monitoring at Chemical Agent Disposal Facilities National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Army Science and Technology, Committee on Review and Evaluation of the Army Chemical Stockpile Disposal Program, 2001-01-01

In keeping with a congressional mandate Public

Law 104 484 and the Chemical Weapons Convention the United States is currently destroying its chemical weapons stockpile The Army must ensure that the chemical demilitarization workforce is protected from the risks of exposure to hazardous chemicals during disposal operations and during and after facility closure Good industrial practices developed in the chemical and nuclear energy industries and other operations that involve the processing of hazardous materials include workplace monitoring of hazardous species and a systematic occupational health program for monitoring workers activities and health In this report the National Research Council Committee on Review and Evaluation of the Army Chemical Stockpile Disposal Program examines the methods and systems used at JACADS and TOCDF the two operational facilities to monitor the concentrations of airborne and condensed phase chemical agents agent breakdown products and other substances of concern The committee also reviews the occupational health programs at these sites including their industrial hygiene and occupational medicine components Finally it evaluates the nature quality and utility of records of workplace chemical monitoring and occupational health programs
